INTERNATIONAL LESSON COMMENTS FOR JANUARY 22.

Subject: The First Miracle in Cana, John il., 1-11-Golden Text, John ii., 5-Memory Verse, 11 - Commentary on the Day's Lesson.

The marriage in Cana (vs. 1, 2). third day." From the calling of Philip and Nathanael, or six days from the time John the Baptist had answered the authorities from Jerusalem. It is calculated that Wednesday was the day, it | being the usual day for weddings for Jew. ish maidens. Widows were married on Thursday. "A marriage." Including the marriage feast, which was frequently celebrated for several days. The family was the first divine institution among men, and is the basis of all that has followed. "Jesus was called." Invited. This was natural, especially if His mother was a relative. It was according to custom that a strange Jewish rabbi visiting there should be invited. "Disciples." The disciples were those already mentioned-Andrew, Simon, John, Philip, Nathanael and probably James. Jesus sanctifies true earthly joy. We need not wonder to find the Lord of life at that festival, for He came to sanctify all life-its times of joy and its times of sorrow, and all experience tells us that it is times of gladness which especially need such a sanctifying power. God wants us to be happy. He has given ' a hundred joys to every sorrow. II. The mother of Jesus (vs. 3-5).

When the wine failed" (R. V.) To Eastern hospitality such a mishap would be very mortifying and would seem almost disgraceful. The family no doubt was poor, extra guests had come and the supply was limited. There has been much discussion as to whether Jesus made wine that would intoxicate. Dr. Whedon says: "We see no reason for supposing that the wine of the present occasion was of that kind upon which Scripture places its strongest interdict" (Prov. 20:1; 23:31; Isa. 22:13). No one can prove that it contained intoxicating qualities, and there are many and strong reasons for believing that it was as pure and harmless as the juice of the grape ' fresh from the vines. Winebibbers need not undertake to fall back on this miracle as an excuse for the gratification of their perverted appetites. If Jesus were in America to-day we know very well what His attitude would be toward the accursed saloon and toward wine at banquets, and in fact toward the banquets as they are now carried on. We may be sure that He never encouraged anything which would lead, as our intoxicating liquors do, to degradation and ruin. "Mother-saith." etc. She probably spoke to Him privately. Although Christ had as yet performed no miracle, yet His mother feels sure that He is able to help them in the present emer-

to our ears, but it was equivalent to our | need be run if Peruna is kept in the house saying "Lady," and "was a highly respect- and at the first appearance of any sympful and affectionate mode of address." He tom of catarrh taken as directed on does not call her "mother," because it was bottle necessary now, at once and forever, to show her that He was not Jesus the Sou that as regarded His great work and mission, His eternal being, the significance of the beautiful relationship had passed away. It could not have been done in a manner more decisive, yet more entirely tender. "What have I to do with thee?" What is there in common between us? He cannot longer work in her way. She does not understand the influences directing His present life. "Mine hour." The hour for the manifestation of His glory. Jesus rejects the worldly ambition in Mary's request. She desires a brilliant miracle, as a public sign of His coming. Jesus penetrates this ambitious thought, and traces a boundary for Mary's desires, which she should no more attempt to cross. But this does not prevent His understanding that along with this there is something to be done in view emolument by, His Messianic power was her proper position -then was the last ob-

of the present difficulty. As soon as all fleshly claim to hold control over, or gain rejected—as soon as His mother retired to stacle removed; His area of action immediately opened, and the hour to manifest forth His glory by miracle had arrived. "Whatsoever-do it." Punctually observe His orders without asking questions. Her faith in Him had not weakened. The answer shows what she was expecting Him to do. Let us take her answer as the motto of our lives.

III. The miracle wrought (vs. 6-11). "Six waterpots." A large quantity water was needed at a Jewish banquet because of "the manner of purifying of the Jews"-the hands and feet of the guests must be washed, and "the washing or cups and jugs and bottles went on the whole day." "Two or three firkins." firkin was about nine gallons, therefore these waterpots held between 108 and 162

"To the brim." We do not know that they were entirely empty, but what-"Draw out." The word for draw may be used in the sense of dip out. "Unto the governor." The president of the banquet. "They bare it." Here faith was required. To put water in the jars required obedience, but to draw that water out and pass it to the chief guest as wine made a strong demand on faith. 9. "Knew not." Knew not the miracuor the wine. -pervancsknew." The independent witness to the two parts of the miracle establishes its reality. The ruler of the feast declares what the element is, the servants knew what it was. 10. "Every man." This is the common custom among men. "Well drunk." Men who have had enough are indifferent as to the quality of the wine set before .. The ruler of the feast is but alluding to the corrupt customs and fashions among men, and not to aught that was going on before his eyes, for such the Lord would have as little sanctioned by His presence as He would have helped it forward by a wonder-work of His own. Sin gives its best-its pleasures and honorsfirst; its worst-its sorrow, poverty, disgrace and ruin-follow. First harlots and riotous living, then swine. Christ gives first the cross, the race, the battle; then the crown, rest and glory.

"Manifested forth His glory." prophet would manifest the glory of God, but He. His own glory, for He was God. The miracles and wonders of Jesus were and his whole system is in a fine con-dition of health." Name given by of His mission as from God; (3) of His good will toward men; (4) of the truths that He taught; (5) of the nature and character of God. "Disciples believed on Him." Their faith was now confirmed. They were now sure they had found the Messiah. It was 400 years since the Jews had seen a prophet who could perform miracles. The guests partook of the wine: the disciples had something far better-anincrease of faith. Others simply ate and manifesting His glory.
