Workingmen are Determined to Stick it out in East St. Louis Says Investigator.

Batchman, who spent two days in town after the riots, interviewing white and colored people, has the following interesting summary of his investigations:

THE RESULT The direct result of the riot has been to increase the dogged determination of the most of the Colored people to stand their ground, for they realize there is no other section of the country where a like disturbance would not occur under similar conditions, in fact, they expect to see more affairs of the kind over the until Uncle Sam finds it necessary to take a hand which all feel must come. Colored men have not been intimidated-what the mob wanted, except a few timid ones recently from the South, who have taken flight and returned, and those who left some of the large plants have returned to their work. The managers of some of the largest corporations, say the Negro is as vital to their operation as their buildings, as they do work, which white men either t or will not do, and if they were denied Colored help, they would have to close up and move their plants. The white people have begun to bemoan the occurance and see the mistake in allowing things to reach such a crisis under the dictation of Amy J. Carroll; fanatical labor leaders.
