"SOCIAL EQUALITY"

in the current number of the Messenger Magazine, Philip Randolph and Chandler Owen, blood. editors, take an advanced stand in favor of human rights in general, and specifically for "social equality" and "intermarriage" in the fullest sense these phrases.

In clarion tones they shout that no genuine brotherhood can exist so long as the issue of social equality is not squarely met. To them the only democracy is the democracy without caste, for "we cannot work side by side in factory, field and office, and then maintain that we cannot sit side by side in restaurant, theatre and public conveyance."

Comparing social equality with political and economic equality, the editors note that the poor man was never as powerful as the rich man until both of them were restricted to the same number of votesone. On the economic side, if money decreased in value as soon as it got in the hands of a colored man, then all money would not have an equal value. To maintain its equal value money must be allowed to interchange freely. The conclusion is then that social equality for the Negro means that he must have the identical rights that others enjoy and intermingle freely with them.

"We now approach the American bugaboo-th question upon which Negroes and whites alike evade equivocate, ocompromise and set up false theories in flagrant violation and defiance of the most fundamental principles of social evolution. We refer to intermarriage between the whites and Negroes. favor the intermarriage between any sane, grown persons who desire to marry-whatever their race or color. We favor the intermarriage of white men with colored women as well as colored men with white women. Why?

First, there is no natural or instinctive aversion natives of Uganda and the Congo, has ma to this as shown by our four million mullatoes in pearance in the United States and in Europe. tipathy and race antagonism obtain."

WINSTON-SALEM SHOWS THE WAY

The fifteen men recently sentenced in Winston-Salem, North Carolina, for inciting and taking part in a riot, and attempting to lynch a colored man have appealed to a higher court. They were giver terms, ranging from 16 months to 6 years.

Judging by what has happened in the past, in such instances, where an attempt has been made to punh participants in mob violence, the expectation would be natural, that the appeal will result in the freedom of the fifteen men under sentence.

However, just the contrary seems to be the case. e Mayor of Winston-Salem expresses public sent at in declaring his hope, that the higher cour sustain a lower court. It is to be noted that e Mayor is speaking for the people of the city, and t giving vent to his personal views.
