States Senate and who shall take President Wilson's place in the White House, voters in the November election will be called upon to pass upon four city loans, aggregating $51,750,000. These loans will be divided as follows:

$10,000,000 for harbor improve-$750,000 for a new hosiptal for contagious diseases. $26,000,000 for general improvement loan, which will be dispensed an 000 for new school build-

$1,000,000 for remodeling and enovation of school buildings. $8,000,000 for extension and imovement of sewers.

$6,500,000 for streets. $2,500,000 for development of $1,150,000 for extension of the conduit system. $850,000 for new improvements in police and fire departments. Each of these four loans may be oted upon separately and any one or all four of them may be "killed," as the voters may wish.

Roland Marchant, city solicitor, is being credited for the ingenius arrangements, whereby, if the general improvement loan passes and the others fail there will be arrangements made fore work on the sewers, streets and harbor. A good many voters have not made up their minds whether vote the loans up or down. They
