would welcome me.

On the occasion of my attempt to get into Canada, I was stopped by officials of the government at Battle Creek, Michigan. I was traveling in company with my wife when we heard the summons. After hearing a knock at our door-it was about 4:30 a. m., I should judge-I asked, "What's wanted?"

"What for?" I asked. "Never mind," they said, "Come on out or we'll come in and get you." And I said, 'Oh no, brother, you're not coming in here.

If you wait a minute, I'll come out." My wife and I dressed and went outside. There stood a patrol in waiting for me. I had two heavy suit cases. The officer spoke to me. "Get on the wagon." His first jump was only about 22 I answered him saying, "Oh no friend, I'm going to walk." I had the right to order a coach for my wife, but it being an

One evening while reading the Chicago Defender I saw where Rube Foster's baseball nine were considering a gome with a team in New York City. I readily decided on my plans and sent for a couple of the players on the team for a conference. I quizzed the players and finally sent for the manager. I made him an offer to use my special car at no expense to himself to transport his team to New York. I explained that I was going to New York and was glad to be able to help the home team in their game with the Gothamites. It is sufficient to say that the manager accepted.

The drawing room of the car was reserved for me. There happened to be a big fellow on Foster's team who loked a lot like me, so I had him take the drawing room in my place. gave him my ring so that in case they stopped us they would in the finals. The English mistake the other fellow for me.
