

back, is a nuisance, and a public nuisance, as pedestrians, passing the house, repeatedly make remarks about the bad smell coming from that house and cellar.

And then again it is beyond endurance all during the winter, as the smell is so strong of dog nuisance, penetrating through the wall in the cellar, and through the dumb waiter, which waiters adjoin the two houses, that we are not able to use our dumb-waiter at all, necessitating our keeping our pantry window raised continually, during the winter in all kinds of weather regardless of the danger of freezing water pipes.

The cats are not in the question at all; although she denies having cats of her own, she came to our front door about the early part of spring and inquired of my husband if he had been throwing poison around, as several of her best cats had been poisoned.

Often cats have their young in her house. She was not in the house one week when she had two cats and their kittens in a cupboard in her kitchen.

Now, do you think our City laws ought to tolerate such a nuisance as to allow a "Dog kennel in our residential midst? We are taxpayers and want protection; we want this nuisance removed.

The law would compel us to remove a nuisance, and if you can claim this anything else, it is a mystery to me.

She is away all day; only home at night, prowling around, throwing disinfectant about, stifling the neighborhood with the obnoxious smell. for the remedy is as bad as the nuisance.

And again, on several occasions, in mid winter, in bitter cold weather, we were compelled to open or raise every window in our house, near midnight, to let air go through, owing to something she would burn, smelling like dog-hide, or dog-flesh and hair.

Place yourself in our position. Would you like to be compelled to live alongside of such?

We understand Dr. Bosley should say, "He would not live neighbor to her for $1,000 a week."

As a City Health officer is he doing justice to his position when he allows a nuisance and a menace he would not endure himself?

The surrounding atmosphere is so impregnated with the strong stinging smell, it affects my throat. At times our victuals seem to be flavored with the stench. It is sickening.
