Your compliments also state that the said George O. Greenfield had due to him on bond a large sum of money from a certain Charles L. Nevitt; this bond he gave him to him on the terms that the said Charles L. Nevitt would give his bond to the sister of said Greenfield for the same amount; the name of the sister is Dorothy Wails - accordingly this was done - your compliments state this charge of bond was done with the view of depriving his creditors, that in consideration was given for the same by Dorothy Wails - The money your compliment don't believe has been paid they also state that the said Edward Coleward has been relieved by an Insolvency act, and the said George O. Greenfield has died intestate and without issue leaving the two sisters of said George O. Greenfield to Dorothy Wails, and Mary Estep the wife of William Estep, and one brother named Thomas Greenfield his youngest son

And that the said Dorothy Wails and Charles Nevitt may state whether the Nevitt was not indebted to said George O. Greenfield on bond and to what amount? was not the bond cancelled and a new one given to Mr. Wails and to what amount? why was the bond exchanged? has any thing been paid and what? and when?
