After the meeting. he shook Mr. Steiner's hand, seemingly relieved by what the director had said. Although he and his wife are childless and he is unable to work, Mr. Brewington's smile seemed to reflect the confident attitude of Waverly residents? after they had listened to Mr.

Reasons for Optimism The director gave the people the following reasons for optimism:

1. The city would pay a good price for property rather than attempt to drive a hard bargain.
