Baltimore Afro-American

OUR CREED

We believe that America can best lead the world away from racial and national antagonisms when it accords to every man, regardless of race, color or creed, his human and equal rights. Nothing is more worthless than a Colored Press striven to help every; more in the firm belief that all we have to hope for, as anyone is held back.

833 lawyers

The New York State Board of Examiners made public in Albany this week a list of 833 lawyers who had passed the New York State Bar Examination.

Imagine what could happen if all those lawyers were turned loose in Mississippi.

Among other things, they might be able to find the 13th, 14th and 15th Amendments to the Constitution along with the Bill of Rights which haven't operated in Mississippi since 1870.

By contrast, the Maryland Bar Association announced also this week that 181 lawyers had passed the state bar.

Experts admit that we could use at least twice the number of colored lawyers we presently have.

There are five colored law schools in the country.

Latest figures available are for enrollments in the fall of 1953 when there were six such schools.

They show 11 law students enrolled at Florida A. and M., 115 at Howard; 18 at Lincoln (Mo.) University, since closed; 18 at North Carolina College; 10 at S.C. State College; and 33 at Texas Southern University.

That same year, Howard graduated 23 lawyers eligible to take the bar examinations and all the other schools turned out a total of 13.

Politics

Last week political experts predicted that Eisenhower would be elected in 1956, but the Democrats would take Congress, both the House and Senate.

Then the President had a heart attack. The stock market tumbled. The political situation becomes uncertain.

If Mr. Eisenhower declines to run in 1956, he has a chance of living 10 to 15 years or more. If he doesn't, he must be prepared to die in his second term.

The weight of that office is entirely too heavy for a president if he is not well.

He has the opportunity of resigning for health reasons, and turning the office over to Vice President Nixon.

With a year in which to make good, Nixon would have the opportunity to go to the country with a plea for re-election on his record.

If the President decides to finish his term there will be a scramble of Republican candidates for the presidential nomination.

Prominent candidates we might include are Chief Justice Warren and Senator Knowland of California.

In that case the Republicans would probably have a 50-50 chance to take the Presidency.

YMCA progress

Among the 12 "Broad Objectives" listed by the Baltimore YMCA for 1955 — 56 is the following:

"Continue to make further progress in the direction of desegregation in accordance with the recent action of the Board of Directors."

The Y's Board of Directors itself might make a start in the direction of integration by employing capable colored persons on its office staff at the Central Branch.

Then it will be saying to the branches in the city, not only: "Go ahead," but "Follow our lead."

Good-by summer

Fall arrived at 3:42 p.m., September 23rd.

Usually the vernal equinox is September 21st or 22nd, but this year it came on the 23rd.

Summer is now officially over and from now on it is autumn.

Nobody mourns the past summer. It was one of the worst on record, including the hottest and driest and because of Hurricane Connie it was the wettest.

In some sections, July drought brought a little more than 1/3 of an inch of rain and restrictions were placed upon the use of water.

But August hurricanes brought a downpour of 13 8/10 inches of rainfall.

Most of all we will remember the summer of 1955 because it gave us 20 days in which the thermometer went over 95 degrees and one in which it broke all records by climbing to 104 degrees.

Newest wrinkle

The Internal Revenue Bureau last week seized automobiles of three men arrested by police for gambling.

The cars were confiscated because it was alleged the owners had used them in their gambling activities and had failed to buy the governments special $50 gambling tax stamp.

The government's move is a smart one.

Gamblers seem willing to take a chance on fines and imprisonment, but none of them will like the idea of losing his automobile immediately and doing without it until his case is settled.

For some time to come we must seek freedom from oppression through the Courts.

The legal profession is therefore most important.

Our educators must do a better job than ever before in attracting, enrolling and graduating law students.

Look at your child's teeth

This estimate is based on Health Department examinations of 2,339 children in 21 public schools.

According to Dr. Huntington Williams, the health commissioner, children from higher income as well as lower income families are affected.

Ninety-eight per cent of 480 16-year-old children had two or three permanent teeth affected by decay.

No difference was found as between white and colored children, but girls had a slightly higher percentage of decayed teeth than boys.

According to Dr. Williams, the remedy is cleanliness.

Newspaper, radio and television advertisement urging cleaning teeth after each meal are not having the desired effect.

In simple language, Dr. Williams is saying that parents are failing down in the matter of requiring children to clean their teeth after meals.

Unless we take this matter seriously, we are going to produce in the next 100 years, a generation of toothless children.

School regulations might well be amended to require every child to bring a notebook, a pencil, and a tooth brush; that each child shall be required to clean his teeth before he enters his first classroom in the morning and again when he returns to school after lunch.

About Truman's life memoirs

By LOUIS LAUTIER
For the NNPA News Service

Former President Harry S. Truman sheds no new light on the question of whether or not as a budding Missouri politician, he was in the Ku Klux Klan.

Jonathan Daniels, in his biography of Mr. Truman, "The Man of Independence" (1950), says the former President paid his $10 initiation fee but his money was returned and he was never initiated.

The Hearst newspapers, on the other hand, accused Mr. Truman of having been a Klansman.

• • •

WRITING IN the second instalment of his memoirs in the current (Oct. 3) issue of Life magazine, Mr. Truman ignores the Klan and its opposition to him for public office.

At the time Mr. Truman was entering Missouri politics in 1922, the revived Klan had become a powerful factor in politics in southern, border and mid-western states.

Mr. Daniels said Mr. Truman's "political judgment was to duck the Klan issue — to be neither Klan nor anti-Klan but to get elected county judge."

Friends of Mr. Truman's friends figured it would be good politics for him to join the Klan.

• • •

MR. DANIELS quoted Edgar Hinde, who had served as a first lieutenant with Mr. Truman in the 129th Field Artillery and was postmaster at Independence, Mo., in 1950, as saying Mr. Truman gave him $10 in cash for his initiation fee.

At a meeting between Mr. Truman and the Klan organizer in the Hotel Baltimore in Kansas City, Daniels reported, the organizer asked Truman to promise not to appoint a Catholic to a job if the Klan supported him.

"I won't agree to anything like that," Daniels quoted Truman as replying. "I had a Catholic battery in the war and if any of those boys need help I'm going to give them a lift."

• • •

DANIELS SAID the organizer gave Truman his $10 and that Hinde's memory checks with Truman's.

In 1944, a few days before the election in which he was a candidate for Vice President, the Hearst newspapers said Truman had joined the Klan.

Spencer Salisbury, Truman's war comrade, business partner and then his bitterest enemy, said the Hearst story was true.

"I was there when he joined," Daniels quoted Salisbury as saying. "I joined with him."

"And in the end, through the long ages of our quest for light, it will be found that truth is still mightier than the sword. For out of the welter of human carnage and human sorrow and human weal, the indestructible thing that will always live in a sound idea." —General Douglas MacArthur

Across The City Desk

By FRANKIE WOOD

When Dr. T. R. M. Howard was telling his story about the lynching of Emmett Till in Mississippi I was so interested in what he was saying that I almost forgot to take notes.

You could hear groans and quiet sobbing as Dr. Howard related how the little boy was beaten to death and his body taken in a sack, by truck, to a watery grave.

In his deliberate way, this dynamic speaker made you almost hear the blows as the boy cried, "Lord have mercy . . . Mama save me."

• • •

MISSISSIPPI tried them, in a courtroom which gave the appearance of a Roman Holiday —they were freed and all that is left now is a kidnapping trial.

But as Dr. Howard said, don't get your hopes up because the men will soon be out on bond and later freed.

These men can't be tried again for murdering Emmett Till but the rest of the country can do something about the situation in Mississippi which prevent further lynchings.

Dr. Howard declared that it takes $2,000 to fight one school case through the courts and his people in Mississippi have five ready for trial.

At the meeting I sat next to Mrs. Verda Welcome, who was also Dr. Howard's hostess during his stay in Baltimore.

• • •

GLORIA LOCKERMAN made her appearance during Dr. Howard's speech and the audience stopped him to applaud her.

Gloria tells me she will appear on the "Stop the Music" show Oct. 6.

After the Martha Raye show last week, photographers took pictures of Gloria in blue jeans. She explained that she was required to wear the jeans all that day, before the show, for rehearsals.

The clothes she wore on the show were property of the studio, so afterwards she had to change back to the blue jeans.

Incidentally, Martha's daughter, Melody Condos, 11, played hostess to Gloria when she was in New York and both young girls had gone downtown together — specifically to purchase those jeans. Melody also bought a pair of jeans so that she could dress like Gloria.

FOUR, WEEKS ago my son Jimmy sailed head first over the handle bar of his bike and broke his collar bone.

Today, Friday, the cast comes off and with it will come a lot of care and an accumulation of dirt that only one small boy could pick up.

Three days after the cast had been put on, Jimmy had forgotten all about his broken bone.

Last week I stopped to watch the boys in my block, who were playing football — you guessed it, on the bottom of the pile was my son Jimmy. He informed me the cast helped him block.

• • •

AND SPEAKING of boys—

Herman Williams, 15, who stands five feet nine inches tall and weighs 170 pounds, borrowed a pair of stilts from a younger boy the other day.

He fell and one of the stilts made a hole in his cheek, breaking his glasses. Herman went home to bed without telling a soul and when his mother, Mrs. Lucy Williams came home, and discovered him in bed she knew something was wrong.

One look at his face and she rushed him to the hospital. Doctors took three stitches in his eyelid and made one stitch beside his nose.

Mrs. Christine Connor is complaining these days that her apartment no longer has the smell of good food cooking. Her mother, Mrs. Annie Branch of Goldsboro, N.C., has gone back home after a week's stay.

COPPIN NORMAL has continued 28 years past the period when the city merged its white normal school with Towson State Teacher's College.

Coppin should have been merged with Towson in 1924 when the white normal was merged except for the law which forbids colored and white to attend the same school.

For white teachers:

1902-1925 Old City College building.

1925-1927 Park and Hoffman

1917-1934 Carrollton and Lafayette (old Carver)

Sept. 1, 1924 merged with Towson.

For colored teachers:

1901-1909 School No. 100, Mount and Saratoga.

1909-1928 Pennsylvania and Dolphin

1928-1932 School No. 130, Madison and Lafayette

1932-1934 School No. 132, Mount and Riggs

1953- 2580 W. North Ave.

That playful group, which dared a newspaperman to take a picture of a woman guest in bed with another woman's husband, may be shocked to learn that the plan worked perfectly. Now whose laughing.

DR. HOUSTON R. JACKSON, asst. superintendent of public schools, it seems to me the AFRO-AMERICAN is serving at least a dual function in the Baltimore Community. First it has been an instrument for exposing inequality and injustice and it has been militant in its fight for relating practice to principle.

"As a result Baltimore is gradually changing to become a better community in which all may live.

"Secondly it has served to bring before the public import and historical data and current events about the race which would otherwise be unknown even to many colored persons themselves."

"Nothing will ever replace the home-town daily or weekly in the minds or hearts of most Americans." Leo H. Bristol, Bristol-Meyers Co.

"All he wants is for you to give me your NAACP membership."

Speak Your Piece

Contributors to this department must sign their names and addresses to their letters if they wish them published. The AFRO will withhold publication of names if requested to do so by the writer.

We regret that Father Kirkrane regards this statement of fact as bad taste. We think it accurate reporting.

The "Rosary Girl"

Dear AFRO:

Recent issues of your publications gave prominent notice, both on the front and the editorial pages, to a murderess and her jewelry, the Rosary.

As is customary with most of the featured items of your publications, your references, both in words and in picture, to the Rosary were to express it with charity, in bad taste.

You, or some of your readers, may be interested to know that the Rosary is not an item of jewelry but a sacramental of the Catholic Church. It is a group of beads on a chain, not to be worn as a pagan charm, but to be fingered and to count your prayers.

The Rosary is a devotion in honor of Mary whom Christ chose to be His mother when He came into this world as the God-Man to reopen heaven's gates to us.

It is our hope and our prayer that the unfortunate woman whom you so brilliantly publicizes as "The Rosary Girl" will learn to finger her Rosary prayerfully and not display it as a pagan charm.

The Mother of God will hear "the Rosary girl's" prayer and lead her to her Divine Son, ever ready to forgive the repentant sinner.

REV. PHILIP KIRRANE
Rector, Peter Claver Church

Editor's Note: AFRO news columns referred to Mrs. Lorraine Porter as the "Rosary girl" because she wore a rosary while she was on the witness stand and fingered it from time to time. We do not know as to whether she displayed it as a pagan charm or evidence of her faith.

Her foster mother advises that she has always worn a rosary and no other ornament.

White neighborhoods

Dear AFRO:

Well Supreme Court or no Supreme Court you will never gain a foothold in the Kenyon Ave. section of Belair Rd. or the Erdman Ave. section of Belair Rd. and I don't care what Asians or anybody says.

That's a challenge. Try to puncture or break that line if you can.

J. T. CULLEN

Editor's Note: Tch, tch, Mr. Cullen.

About young Till

Dear AFRO:

These lines are about the little Till boy who was slaughtered "Way down in the Land of Egypt land" (Mississippi), which is called Mississippi.

God raised up Moses to bring his children out of Egypt because they were caused slaves.

Who killed the child, is those two men did not?

They are the ones who took him away from home. They put him out in the road, five miles from home. Now, the paper I was taking carried news items of the trial as the back pages until the verdict. Then the news was put on the front page. We all know what that means.

And another thing, I wonder if those two men and that woman ever read the Bible?

It teaches us that an injustice we do to others will fall on our children to the third and fourth generation.

Some who should take the boy's uncle, and all his relatives out of Mississippi, if they are not already dead. Oh my God help them.

(Mrs.) ANNIE CALDWELL

Clean Block praise

Dear AFRO:

We appreciate the fine work which was done by the Clean Block Clubs in their recent efforts to clean up and beautify their community.

We are both happy and proud because their work has been continued and will be carried on throughout the winter months.

It was very gratifying to note that other people have noticed what was done in Area 7 of South Baltimore as was expressed by Betty DeNoon in the Evening Sun Forum.

Letters like hers will mean as much to the workers as the awards they received.

Old age bias

Dear AFRO:

It seems that the married people can't let a single person alone, organizing against us all the time and telling us what to do.

When we go to an office and apply for work they don't tell us what kind of people we are going to work for. Some folks want young girls and some want older ones who will stick to the jobs better, as a rule.

We can't help our age. We all are getting older and some of the people are older than some of the help.

Why do they kick against our age? A man said on the radio Monday night that older people are better than the young girls who don't want to work, and get in trouble so the Welfare can help them.

Reporters' Report To The People

Tidbits

By SHIRLEY KYLE

That dynamic speaker, Dr. T. R. M. Howard, the Mississippi physician who delivered the main address at the Sunday NAACP membership meeting, amused the audience with several parables related to the South. Here are some of them:

When the Supreme Court made its decision May 17, 1954, Dr. Howard said that the governor of Mississippi was thinking about "calling another session of the legislature to see if he could impeach the Supreme Court and have the words 'discrimination' and 'segregation' removed from the English language."

Furthermore, the physician pointed out, that the state of Mississippi would liked to have seceded from the nation after May 17, 1954, "but it had no place to go."

"The only place available was the spot where Bilbo was and he had already sent back a message saying "there's no room for more Mississippians" said Dr. Howard.

• • •

DR. HOWARD also said that rumors were flying in Mississippi that Bilbo had sent a spiritual message to the governor asking him to change his treatment of colored people by letting them vote and attend mixed schools.

"The governor was worried and asked why," Dr. Howard said, "and Bilbo replied "there's a colored fireman on 24-hour duty down here and he's keeping it hot all the time!"

• • •

ANOTHER CHOICE parable was the one Dr. Howard told of the Korean veteran who went to a Circuit court clerk in a Mississippi county to take the examination in order to register to vote.

The clerk asked the veteran to quote the 14th amendment to to the U.S. Constitution. The veteran, feeling certain that the clerk didn't know it himself, began stating Lincoln's Gettysburg address.

Smiling with glee, the clerk interrupted the veteran saying, "That's it!" and registered the new voter!

'Twas the first day of the World Series and, as usual, the Baltimore Colts' creature could be found on the streets between 12 and 2.

We could talk, some folks I know would be out of a job by now. It never ends. A baseball series has a way of contributing to a rise in unemployment.

Seems as if no one cares a tinkers dam about working during those hours.

Many I refer I know, myself included, held his head in shame last week after reading in a national sports magazine a story that originated in Texas.

It seems that the married people can't let a single person alone, organizing against us all the time and telling us what to do.

When we go to an office and apply for work they don't tell us what kind of people we are going to work for. Some folks want young girls and some want older ones who will stick to the jobs better, as a rule.

Down in the little town of Bowman, S.C., the city council recently passed an ordinance forbidding their colored citizens from gathering on the street corners after dark.

They probably felt that the citizens were up to no good, maybe even talking that radical NAACP philosophy that every man is a man and should be treated as such.

Talk like that is dangerous in the homeland of Marse Charlie, especially in places like South Carolina and Mississippi where even looking like you might want to say something about something can get you hanged or shot quicker than a Mississippi jury can acquit brave men on trial for killing a child.

• • •

IT DOESN'T DO very much good to get mad and talk about things like this. The good can be accomplished by reaching into your pocket and bringing out some of the green stuff that makes the world go around, and handing it to the NAACP for a membership. You can't win alone George.

Crime fighters who have made a study of the thing have just about decided that crime follows a curving line. At one point in the year there will be such crime the police department can hardly cope with it, then a few weeks later crime will take a sudden drop.

A case in point would be the Northwestern Police Court this week. Usually the docket is so loaded that courts runs until after 2 a.m. Twice this week court was over by 8:30 a.m. which should prove something to sociologists.

Out in the Northwood area a number of homes have been offered to colored buyers, but a number of the white residents have debated to stay and have posted in their windows signs which read "this house is not for sale."

Two years later . . . and Rachel...

true story quicker than any other way.

This time, the anesthetist (attending physician who administers the anesthesia—watches and records blood pressure et al during an operation) was Dr. Irvin Cushner.

Dr. Cushner is a senior resident and a physician who has mastered the art of comforting woman in childbirth.

"Now, it will hurt a little . . ." he explained, as I studied his eyes intently.

"The doctor is getting through the wall of your uterus . . . easy now . . . the baby is being lifted out . . . just relax . . ." he coaxed.

And as I watched his eyes and listened to his confident voice, I relaxed.

In a minute, there was the warm sensation which signified that my physician, Dr. Eleanor Delfs—had lifted the new Philippe Rair from the warm spot which had been her home for nine long months.

"Wink your left eye if it's a boy, and your right eye if it's a girl," I had said to Dr. Patsy Phelps, the attending pediatrician (baby expert).

But soon as the baby was lifted out she yelled; "it's a girl!" and went to work to resuscitate the newborn baby.

When I did not hear my child cry immediately, I was alarmed. "Why doesn't she cry?" I yelled excitedly.

"She will," replied the doctor and her unguarded eyes told me she was telling the truth.

And in the next instant she did cry. All was well in my little world.

Rachel the 2nd is named for her maternal great-great-grandma. She arrived at 3:16 a.m. — weighed 6 pounds, 14 ounces.

At this writing, she weighs 6 pounds, 15 ounces, and is growing fast. She is living proof that breast-fed babies gain weight rapidly.

Rachel—we'll call her 'Rae' for short, has big, big eyes and a head full of hair.

My six-year-old Marie has already washed her doll baby's comb and brush so she can have it for Rae. "I'm the real baby sister," when we get home.

After undergoing extensive repairs.

It will be dedicated Saturday at the Israel S. and Hittet Mechanic Memorial. The Mechanics gave a sum of money to make the improvements.

There is a report that Hopkins' officials will not continue stringent segregation policies in the new B-2 section.

I hope they won't. If colored and white maternity cases were housed together for eight months, such integration can work permanently.

Women of both races now occupy the same fifth-floor recovery room. Patients from after their babies are born and likewise the same floor when they are in labor immediately before their babies are born.

And I understand that there is growing sentiment among top Hopkins' officials to abandon the white-only rule, which has kept colored maternity patients from occupying the lavish rooms for private cases on the fourth floor for which you can pay the money ($25 a day).

I hope they do—segregation is on the way out in our schools —and in recreation and other areas.

During the administration of Dr. Russell A. Nelson (he's Hopkins' director), this hospital has made great strides in mixing patients in some sections.

It needs now to take the next step and recognize that colored people who can afford it should have the right to the private accommodations too.

The Woman's Clinic—maternity section—has come a long way in the past two years. I'm hoping it will make more progress in the months ahead.

Meeting old and new friends...

Nicest thing about returning to a place you have not visited for sometime; is being greeted by old acquaintances you have not seen since leaving.

At Hopkins this week, I saw Dr. Andrew Hellegers of Holland. He looked in my room with a cheery hello.

Two years ago, he had just arrived in this country on an exchange fellowship and was an interne on maternity. I remember her him because he removed my stitches.

Today! he is assistant resident in gynecology, assigned to Woman's Clinic.

Nurse's aide Caroline Davis, 2008 Boone St., who has been on Women's Clinic 11 years, also shouted a cheery hello. She was on duty in the same section two years ago.

Others with whom I renewed acquaintance: — Cherrol Dorothy Lewis, Provident grad, who is a night nurse in charge and one of several colored graduate nurses employed here.

Also, Alice Smith, the Tuskegee grad, who is back on duty after a maternity leave and Leola Coleman; and Louise Rockyman, Freedmen's grads.

Newest graduate nurse employed by Mrs. Louise Hanley of Roanoke, Va. who has been on duty a year.

She is a graduate of Roanoke's Burrell Memorial Hospital. She and her husband, Hurley C. Hanley, and their 12-year-old daughter, Helen, live at 1815 McCulloh St. Mr. Hanley is employed at the Loch Raven Veterans Hospital.

Other friendly hospital workers I have met this week include:

Mrs. Charlotte Lee, 2708 Elmora Ave. nurse's aide in the nursery, who has worked the night shift (11 p.m. to 7 a.m.) for seven years.

She says she likes babies and night work. Her hubby, Louis, is a B & O railroad employee. They have no children of their own.

Also these energetic, business-like nurse's aides:

Mrs. Catherine D. Hinton, 1161 N. Mount St., employed seven years;

Miss Berline Irvin, 926 N. Mount St., a native of Jacksonville, Fla., employed 7 months;

Miss Juliette Moore, 2734 Harlem Ave., a native of Hartsville, S.C., employed 9 months;

Mrs. Ruth Jordan, 2104 Homewood Ave., employed five years;

And Miss Melvine Brown, 402 E. Biddle St., employed two weeks—She's a native of Darlington, S.C., has lived in the city 18 years. A 1953, Dunbar High school graduate, she hopes to study next year at Cortez Peters Business School.

Also, smart Maxine Lews, 1357 who will graduate from Morgan as an aide at night (and has for four years) and attends Morgan State College in the daytime.

She is now a senior specializing in sociology—hopes to become a social worker when she is graduated.

And, Mrs. Doris Lemon, 1316 Ashland ave., ward clerk since April; Mrs. Odessa Watson, 1626 Barnes St., employed three weeks as a maid, she is a native of Greenville, S.C., plans to study tailoring in night school. She and her husband, Isaiah, have two grown children. Mrs. Wilson is an Arundel Construction Co. employee.

Another old acquaintance — Mrs. Corine Seward Bacote, 1001 Rutland Ave., nursery aide on the job three years. She and my sister, Frankie, were Dunbar High classmates.

Mrs. Bacote and her husband, Lester, a Sparrows Point worker have eight children ranging in age from 4 to 14 years, but she loves children so much she enjoys her work in the hospital nursery.

Nicest student nurse, I have met this week is Carolyn Pope, a second-year student from San Antonio, Texas. She is not a typical Southern white girl—is more than friendly and gay.

Workers in's hospital are also a good gauge of people. Tell me if I am wrong, Dr. Lee Carey is tops—"treats everybody alike" and "he's nice to the patients, too."

Dr. Carey is assistant resident in obstetrics — assigned to maternity. He hails from Wilmington, Del., has been on the staff three years.

Other friendly people I've met: Student nurse Carol Nutter, Englewood, N.J., mother, Mrs. Odessa Johnson, 339 N. Durham St., who is a 16-year employee, works as a maid in the hospital's sewing room.

Also Mrs. Daisy Moore, 632 N. Avondale Rd., Day Village, a nursery aide, who has been on the job three years. She and her husband, Ernest, have three small children of their own;

And nursery nurse Sandra Leedy, Lebanon, Pa., and night supervisor of nurses, Margaret Barkford — whom fellow employees describe as "just swell," and night nurses Dorothy Bowers and Ruth Collier, both five-year veterans.

In fact, all the people with whom I have had contact this week have been friendly, understanding and sympathet-

Councilmen predict FEPC 'sure to pass'

Fourth District Councilmen predict that the FEPC ordinance when reintroduced to the City Council, will pass, this time.

In an interview with the AFRO this week, the three, Walter T. Dixon, Solomon Liss and Max Weil Alpert all said that the bill "has very good chances" and that they would "do everything to see that it is passed."

THE CITY Council will hold its first meeting of the season, Monday, in the City Council chambers in City Hall.

Since the defeat of the FEPC measure last year, a Steering Committee, composed of 100 local organizations; has been mapping out plans to have the bill reintroduced.

Today (Friday) the committee hold a meeting at 3 p.m. in Room 160, Central Y.W.C.A., Franklin St. and Park Ave., to discuss these plans.

Among the groups serving on the committee are:

Baltimore Federation of Labor, CIO, and Catholic Interracial Council, Baltimore Urban League, Baltimore Jewish Council, Department of Christian Social Relations of Council of Churches and the NAACP.

COMMENTING on the reference of the bill in the council this year Mr. Dixon said, "As far as I can see, it looks like the measure might pass. There's not very much opposition. It has a good chance."

Mr. Liss said, "The chances are very good. I will be very disappointed if it does not go through. I'm going to do everything I can to see it pass."

Mr. Alpert said, "I think it is going to pass. With the new line-up in the City Council, we can optimistically look forward to the measure being passed.

"The time is definitely ripe for it. The liberal spirit is on the ascendency throughout the country. I'm sure the bill will pass."

Deaf and dumb girl returned to home in Columbus, Miss.

TALLADEGA, Ala. (ANP) — A deaf and dumb girl, Annie B. Jones, of Columbus, Miss., was back home this week, after spending 10 days in jail here while police tried in vain to learn her identity.

The girl had been found hitchhiking on the outskirts of Talladega and police took her to headquarters for her own protection.

Authorities tried to communicate with the child in sign language but received no response. Efforts were being made to find a home for her when her mother, Mrs. Lonnie Stamples, arrived and identified the child.

CHARM CENTRE'S COAT PARADE

Never before has the style in coats given milady such a wide range from which to choose. She may now select a coat that is slimmer than slim or fuller than full. The chinchilla coat is a must for any lady's wardrobe this year. Fur like pile coats are in a category of their own.

In addition to alpaca pile, the synthetic piles will account for a big percentage of early selections. Favored colors are platinum, gray, black and brown. Many coats have synthetic pile linings called the "suburbo liner" shown in bright colors of red, beige, blue and white. Orlon pile coats are sensationally created from brilliant new satins, exciting fleeces, tweeded jerseys and luxurious deep pile fabrics are combines with the new fiber of fashion importance — Orlon.

Raincoats this year are in a class of their own. They can be worn for rain or shine and come in a variety of bright colors and exciting styles.

Let Charm Centre show you how to be more stylish in the snow or rain. They have the coat for you. Stop by Charm Centre, 1811 Penna. Ave. while the stocks are large and let one of their fashion experts help you make your selection.

CHARCOAL BLACK RAINCOAT with light gray figures. Large pockets and a half belt make this a stunning as well as useful coat. Hat to match. Long slim Italian umbrella.

BEIGE CHINCHILLA THREE-QUARTER LENGTH COAT with pale blue orlon pile lining. Slim skirt with dyed to match Italian neckline blouse that can be worn in or outside the skirt.
