AT THE MET — A jolly good time is being had by everyone it seems in the motion picture version of George Bernard Shaw's comedy, "The Devil's Disciple," now playing at the Met Theatre through United Artists release. Both Kirk Douglas and Burt Lancaster are amorously inclined toward Janette Scott, while Laurence Olivier enjoys the attention of Sheree Winton.

'Caravan of Stars' scheduled at Stadium

The same magic formula that Dick Clark uses to make his Saturday Beech - Nut Show one of the top rated TV Shows has now been applied to a live tour . . . "The Dick Clark Caravan of Stars" which premieres here in Baltimore at Memorial Stadium, Friday, Sept. 18.

In an effort to bring to his millions of fans in person the same caliber of talent they view on his show, Dick Clark has put together this first tour show together with Irvin Feld.

To headline the show, Dick has selected America's foremost popular recording artists, starting with Paul Anka, who first reached fame with his recording of Diana two years ago.

Since then Anka has made many big hit records, toured Europe and the Far East and Australia, and will soon be seen in movie houses throughout the country as the star of "Girls' Town."

This motion picture will be followed later in the year with "The Private Lives of Adam and Eve" in which Paul will co - star with Mickey Rooney and Mamie Van Doren.

IN ADDITION to Paul Anka, the Dick Clark Caravan of Stars will bring to the lovers of the beat Lloyd Price . . . Annette . . . Duane Eddy . . . Jimmy Clanton . . . LaVern Baker . . . The Coasters . . . The Drifters . . . The Skyliners . . . Bobby Rydell . . . Phil Phillips . . . and the youthful emcee, Arnold Dover.

Mr. Clark has programmed the evening as a concert in popular music, presenting today's most popular songs by the artist he considers the most outstanding performers in the field.

The Dick Clark Caravan of Stars begins its coast to coast tour here in Baltimore on Friday, September 18th at the Memorial Stadium at 8 p.m.

Ex-Trotter signs

ST. LOUIS — Tom (Tarzan) Spencer, 6 foot 8 veteran of college and professional basketball, has been signed to a contract with the St. Louis Hawks of the National Basketball Association.

Spencer, a product of Maryland State College and the Harlem Globetrotters, was a standout on the Baltimore Bullets quint of the Eastern League last year. He had been recommended to the Hawks by Baltimore coach Buddy Jeannette and impressed the St. Louis brass with his efforts at their rookie camp here.

Mrs. Ashton

her life was a testimonial in June, 1958, given by her former students and friends.

Acting on a suggestion by AFRO Columnist B. M. Phillips, a committee headed by Miss Charlotte Williams, assistant librarian at Morgan, a former student, sponsored the affair.

At that banquet, Raynor Parker, principal of Booker T. Washington, spoke thusly of her:

"It is hard to think of any program in the past 30 years which was held without the help of Mattie Ashton.

"She has served under five principals and is one of the remaining persons who helped staff the school."

Of the banquet Mrs. Ashton said: "It was an affair I'll never forget. I'm grateful to all those who thought of me."

WHAT PLANS has Mrs. Ashton for the future?

"I only want to take care of my health and try to do what I can to help others, try to be an asset to the community rather than a liability."

WOULD MRS. ASHTON advise any young person to become a teacher?

"I'd advise it only if they have a real love for children. "You have to understand the children and their problems, and try to help them as best you can," she replied.

Having taught for 47 years, helping and advising children and their parents, Mrs. Ashton believes the following is necessary for success:

"Be honest with yourself and others, and do what you want to do for the love of doing it, and for the results you hope to attain."

Incidentally, if anyone sees any stray elephants walking around, Mrs. Ashton would be interested.

AT REGENT — Carol Lynley tells Brandon De Wilde of their terrible mistake, that of their love, comes great tragedy in the form of pregnancy while they are yet unmarried. This tale of poignant teenage problems is now at the Regent Theatre.

Schoendienst part of drive

H. Riall Jackson, chairman of the Baltimore City Christmas Seal Committee of the Maryland Tuberculosis Association has been notified by Dr. H. McLeod Riggins, president of the National Tuberculosis Association, that Milwaukee Braves star Red Schoendienst has been named National Honorary Chairman of this year's Christmas Seal Campaign.

Schoendienst thus becomes the first person to hold such a post in the 53-year history of the campaign.

Dr. Riggins reminded Mr. Jackson that the famous ball player was stricken with tuberculosis just about a year ago. He is completing his recovery and is travelling with the Braves.

"The case of Red Schoendienst is a dramatic illustration of the progress this country has made in the fight against TB," Dr. Riggins said. "Not too many years ago there was little or no hope for a victim of tuberculosis. But today, if the disease is detected early, a person with TB can look forward to rejoining his community after a relatively short period of treatment and recuperation.

The tuberculosis associations' Christmas Seals have been closely identified with this progress."

Sugar Ray's medic high on Anthony

Tony Anthony, the 24 - year - old picture puncher who has been knocking at title doors for several years, is ready for what he calls his "All or nothing at all" effort against Willie Pastrano, the 23-year-old New Orleans heavyweight contender, at the Coliseum here next Friday night.

In accordance with his current determination, Anthony has prevailed upon Dr. Vincent Nardiello, the famous New York "Fighting Doctor" to be with him through his final training and to sit in his corner the night of the important heavyweight fight.

It is a known fact that Sugar Ray Robinson would not take a major fight unless Dr. Nardiello was with him at all times.

The good doctor had never done this for any other fighter. Now, Anthony. Why?

"I HAVE always thought," said Dr. Nardiello, "that Anthony had the God - given physical assets and the ability to go all the way in either the light - heavyweight or heavyweight division.

"He has been an unlucky fighter. He's too good a fighter to sell short.

"I like him but I know his problems. He was perhaps a better prospect than Robinson when he began.

"I feel he can still be heavyweight champion of the world."

ANTHONY HAS moved back to the Eighth Avenue Gym in New York for his preliminary training to be with Dr. Nardiello.

"I don't kid myself," he said. "This is the most important fight of my career. I'm fighting a top heavyweight contender.

"I have solved my problems. I know what I am doing and where I am going. I've got to win With Dr. Nardiello beside me, I can't lose."

Little League dance benefit

WASHINGTON

Cleo A. Michael, coordinator of the Jackie Robinson Athletic Association, a Little League project, announced Thursday that plans have been completed for a benefit dance to be held at Hyattsville (Md.) Armory next Friday night (Sept. 18).

The first of what officials hope will become an annual affair will turn over all proceeds to the athletic program. Following a baseball banquet, to be held later, teams will be taken to get the football program under way.

MRS. CATHERINE TYLER, assistant manager of the Jills Social Club, has indicated that members of her organization will serve as canteen hostesses at the Friday dance. Officers of the club are Mrs. Earline Houston, president; Mrs. Rosie Smith, secretary; Miss Elsie Scott, treasurer, and Miss Charlotta Waddy, sergeant at arms.

The music will be furnished by Bubbs Ellis and his Thunderbird orchestra, and hours of the dance are 8:30 to 1:30 a.m.

Colts' Lenny Moore to miss game with Eagles

PHILADELPHIA — Coach Weeb Ewbank announced late Thursday that his star halfback, Lenny Moore, will remain on the sidelines when he sends his world champions against the Philadelphia Eagels in a pre-season contest here Sunday afternoon.

Moore suffered cuts of three fingers in an accident at his home in Baltimore last Sunday, but the wound was not considered sufficiently serious to keep him out of action here this week-end.

After a conference with the team doctor and trainer Ed Block, however, Ewbank decided it might be better to leave the stitches in over the week-end. The cuts resulted when Lenny grabbed a kitchen knife from the grasp of his two-year-old son, Leslie.

OPPOSING THE Steeds will be an Eagles team bolstered by eight colored players.

Aside from Clarence Peaks, the ex-Michigan State luminary who will start at halfback, the locals will call on Willmer Fowler, a fleet freshman from Northwestern University, and six linemen as follow:

Harold Bradley, former Cleveland Browns guard; Proverb Jacobs, holdover tackle from last year; John Burroughs, tackle from Iowa's 1959 Rose Bowl champions;

Hal Dukes, Michigan State; Art Powell, San Jose State College, and Dick Williams, Southern University, all freshman ends.

State Fair moves into last 2 days

That State Fair at Timonium is one of those things where you get back what you put in—if you're lucky and don't put in too much.

If you're going to make it today (Friday) or Saturday, the last two days, here are a few tips.

Take off, as early as possible, out Greenmount Ave. and Towson into Timonium.

If you're taking as many as three children, be sure to bring the wife — with her big pocketbook.

One other thing, get it settled in front — before you burn a penny's worth of gas—whether you're going to the races or not. Later is too late.

FIRST MONEY you'll have the pleasure of spending will be for a parking place. It may be in somebody's driveway. But don't pull into anybody's driveway until they say it's okay. Some don't approve — definitely.

Now, no matter how gay you feel with the music playing and the kids acting happy and ain't keep off that ride they call the Umbrella, unless of course your ticker is in blue - chip shape. Things like the exhibits, except for the live things, are pretty much under one shelter.

Then if you're lazy, board one of those tour trucks or trains and they'll haul you over the fair.

That's when you make a discovery. If this thing really covers 143 acres the parking space and the race tracks must take up an awful lot of it.

It's a lot smaller than other state fairs you may have seen.

DON'T GO looking for shoot the gallleries and such things. Geared more to children and women. The big chance come is bingo. Unless you get to the race track.

When you buy an ice cream cone and the man puts a little chocolate on it, don't stand around waiting for change from a quarter. The man's waiting for another nickel.

There is one place where one man claims to give you something. He takes up one-dollar bills which he says are 10-dollar bills when he gets through with them. Oh well.

There are a lot of big snakes, a man who makes you think he can cut off another man's head, and some freaks — all kinds — from everywhere.

For variety, if you're interested, there are possibly more different kinds of cows and tractors than you'll ever see.

All the food — but some of the stuff is not food, was not meant to be — is good. Has that fair taste to it.

THERE MAP be some argument but the best ride on the fairgrounds is the car that is electrically propelled and bumps into everybody else's car. Whee.

By now, it's time to start heading for home. Start trying to leave an hour ahead of the time you actually want to leave.

That way you can tell the children you're staying the extra time to let them have one last crack at this or that and everybody leaves happy.

All in all, the fair is still the fair, a lot of fun.

And you don't have to leave broke. The secret to that is to take more money than you will spend.

3rd quarter taxes

Third quarter installment notices for Federal estimated income taxes have been mailed to taxpayers who are due to make payment on or before Sept. 15, 1959, Irving Machir, district director of internal revenue for the Baltimore district, said today.

Garden official says Patterson 'washed up'

NORFOLK, Va. (ANP) — "The big boys can't get together on any future for Floyd Patterson.

Some think he will make a comeback, others say he is just about finished. Some crystal ball gazers who predicted that Patterson would take the fight against Sweden's Ingemar Johansson and missed their bet still feel their man has a chance to stage a comeback.

HOWEVER, JOHN REED KILPATRICK, chairman of the board, Madison Square Garden, insists that Patterson is "all washed up." In a speech last week, Kilpatrick said the punch that licked Patterson "did something to him."

"Patterson will never recover from that right hand in the mouth," Kilpatrick said. "He'll never be the same again."

DESPITE THIS pessimistic statement, some sports aces feel Patterson will take care of his interests the next time he meets the champ.

They evidently think it will be a comeback similar to that Joe Louis pulled in his celebrated second match with Max Schmeling on June 22, 1938.
