First, burglar proof the house

Tour neighborhood burglar can get rich. So don't make it any easier for him the next time you and the family go vacationing off somewhere for any extended amount of time.

Burglars rarely select their intended victims at random. They'd much rather have you make their choice for them instead.

Forgetting to stop your milk.

mail or newspaper deliveries before you leave on your trip can be as careless as leaving home with the front door wide open.

It doesn't take much guesswork on the burglar's part to recognize a home left unoccupied when the doorstep's littered with all this unread and unopened material.

And even if your home goes un-burglarized the nagging uncertainty caused by failing to perform a few simple pre-trip precautions may turn your carefree vacation into a haunting experience.

o why worry about the things you left when it's so simple to follow a handy check list compiled by the editors of this year's Mobil Travel Guide below.

Before leaving your driveway: Notify local police; Stop milk and newspaper del

Arrange for safekeeping or for warding of mail;

Lock all doors and windows (basement too). Leave shades up;

Disconnect electrical appliances however, for protection, leave one or more lights connected to an automatic timer to turn them on and off each evening;

Turn off all gas jets, including * hot water heater; *

Remove food and defrost refrig

Turn off water faucets; drain pipes in severe weather;

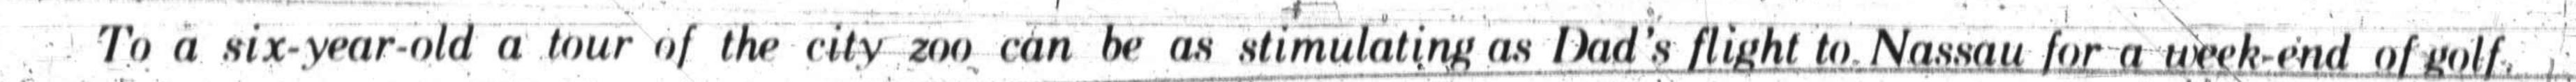

Turn thermostate to minimum heat requirement;

Arrange for care of plants and Store valuables;

Leave house key with friend, along with probable stinerary and emergency phone numbers.

In 1842, Frederick and Maximilian Schaefer brought the word to America.

The word was lager. On September 3, 1842, two brothers named Frederick and Maximilian Schaefer introduced America to lager beer.

Up to that time, beers were aged only a few days. As a result, they were heavy and cloudy.

But the Schaefer brothers lagered, or aged, their beer for several weeks. So it had a lightness and clarity unique among beers of the day. Today, Schaefer is the best-selling beer in the East. But we're not resting on our laurels. Not for a minute. We continue to preserve and polish inherited skills. And we take advantage of every modern brewing technique. The result is a unique beer. With a unique quality of consistency. Here's a pleasure that doesn't fade. Schaefer consistently delivers the same rewarding flavor. Glass after glass after glass. Why not try Schaefer yourself You'll wish you'd heard of it about 128 years ago.

when you're having more