'Lid is off' in Petersburg as sitdowns imperil all jim crow

By CHESTER M. HAMPTON

AFRO Staff Correspondent

PETERSBURG, Va. — The lid is off here in Petersburg and there are ample indications that, especially after this weekend, the lid will be off in a host of communities all over the country.

Petersburg citizens, led by the Rev. Wyatt Tee Walker, have expanded the basic sitdown pattern (the local target was the public library) to oppose segregation in all its forms.

In the works already are: a federal court suit to desegregate the library facilities, a boycott of downtown stores which discriminate and recurrent sitdowns at several lunch counters.

To come soon are Federal suits to desegregate courtrooms, schools and the municipal golf course.

* * *

THE REV. MR. WALKER is president of the Petersburg Improvement Association. He said that colored citizens will conduct a "door by door, block by block, store by store" boycott campaign against offending stores.

"This," he explained, "is an attempt to bring the full power of colored buying strength to achieve our goal."

A SIMILAR expansion of the non-violent protest movement is expected to spread over the nation next week, after this week's meeting, in Raleigh, N.C., of scores of student leaders from all over the South.

Their meeting is sponsored by the Southern Christian Leadership Conference of which Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. is president.

Most of the students attending have been involved in sitdowns at segregated lunch counters. Some of them, however, have already staged sitdowns at other public facilities —notably libraries and art galleries.

The students meet with the warming knowledge that they have succeeded in corralling the almost unanimous support of their various communities.

* * *

WHEN THE students went into the lunchrooms and on to the picket lines, they went with the full approval of colored citizens. This is proved by the fact that whenever the students were arrested — no matter how many of them there were or how high the bond had been set — responsible colored citizens came forth with thousands of ready, cash dollars to free them.

When the students were fined, thousands dollars more were immediately available — from the professional men, teachers, business men and housewives of the community.

Then, the boycotts started. Angry because their young people were being shoved around; insulted, spat upon, jailed and branded with court records, the colored communities used their massive economic strength in another way: the boycott.

* * *

IN RICHMOND, for example, the entire responsible colored community joined Virginia Union University students on the picket line. They protested the jailing of sitdowners at Thalhimers store by launching a relentless boycott.

In Richmond, you weren't in style unless you: (a) carried a picket sign in front of an offending downtown store, and, (b) wore last year's clothes and prepared for the Easter Parade by dusting off last year's chapeau.

* * *

THE BOYCOTT tactic was by no means limited to Richmond. The NAACP asked its branches all over the nation to cooperate —in the South where there are stores which discriminate, and in the North, where there are stores which have southern affiliates that discriminate.

The effect of the boycott has been tremendous. Some stores ing have frankly admitted that they have lost thousands of dollars in revenue.

Some others have been resorting to make-work admissions but observers have noted that the amount of trade has drastically decreased.

* * *

In Jackson, Miss. a pre-Easter boycott had some of the merchants reeling. Most conceded privately that they will not be able to hold out indefinitely against a buyer's strike.

In Savannah, the boycott is "well along," according to the Rev. Andrew O. Holmes, NAACP field secretary.

In Nashville, Tenn., the boycott was "70 per cent effective, according to local sources.

Also in such non-southern centers as Columbus, Ohio; Chicago, New York, Newark, Philadelphia, Los Angeles — boycotts against nation-wide dime-store chains were making inroads.

* * *

IN THE HEART of Harlem, a Woolworth Five and Dime store is doing next to no business at all because of sympathy boycotting. (Woolworth's, which does not discriminate at its lunch counters in northern stores, follows 'local custom' in the South and allows colored patrons to spend money on equal terms everywhere except the lunch counter.

The sympathy boycotts in the North are for the purpose of pressuring Woolworth management to cause it to cannot show its colored patrons two faces — one in the North and one in the South.

The student leadership meeting Saturday could well result in a universal protest discrimination that would make nation-wide use of the sitdown, and legal boycott tactics against all forms of racial discrimination in public places.

Cardinal Rugambwa received by Pontiff in private audience

VATICAN CITY — Cardinal Rugambwa, prior to being hospitalized last week, was given a private audience by Pope John XXIII.

Following his conversation with the new cardinal, the Pope received a delegation of African pilgrims and seminary students, from Cardinal Rugambwa's consistory.

Pope John XXIII urged the delegation, to work, work, work" after noting his deep interest in the missionary work and the expansion of the church in Africa.

Good Friday will not be so 'taxing' after all

Originally set for today (Friday), the deadline for filing income tax returns has been extended until midnight Monday, an Internal Revenue spokesman confirmed.

The change was made because the earlier date is Good Friday, walch marks the retigtous observance of the crucifixion of Christ.

Come Monday, Federal and District tax collectors will be accepting the final returns at the same old stand.

Ghana parleybacks non-violent tactic

NEW YORK — African leaders meeting at an emergency conference in Accra, Ghana, last week concluded that using non - violent methods was the only way to win independence and save Africa at the same time.

This was the report Tuesday of the Rev. Ralph Abernathy, president of the Montgomery (Ala.) Improvement Association, who attended the four-day conference at a guest of Premier Kwame Nkrumah.

The Accra conference, which opened last Thursday, drew voting and non - voting delegates from all over Africa, including terror - stricken Union of South Africa, England, France, Germany, India and the United States.

* * *

"THE TURNOUT was a remarkable display of African unity," declared the Rev. Mr. Abernathy at a press conference shortly after his arrival back in this country.

The other American non-voting fraternal delegate attending the positive action conference for peace and security was A. J. Muste, national chairman of the Non-Violent Action Committee of the U.S.A.

The main concern of the conference, according to the Rev. Mr. Abernathy, was the problems of South Africa.

Delegates, he said, called for the ejection of the Union of South Africa from the United Nations, unless steps are taken to ease the racial strife there. They also called for a broad-ening boycott of South African goods.

Delegates also demanded that France discontinue its nuclear tests in the Sahara, the Rev. Mr. Abernathy said.

He disclosed that plans were made to set up training conferences for non -violent demonstrations, with the first such center being started in Accra.

"While in Africa I gained a new sense of dignity and belonging," declared the civil rights leader.

He also noted that "Africa is truly on fire with freedom."

Asked his reaction to the Alabama perjury charges against the Rev. Martin Luther King, leader of the Montgomery bus boycott, the Rev. Mr. Abernathy said:

"I know that this is just a design to defeat and humiliate the greatest leader that this country has produced."

He added: "We feel that certainly we will exonerate him of these charges. And, certainly we feel the people court will exonerate him.

World indignation at S. African program shown bynation's press

The civilized world's indignation at the brutality and ruthless government measures visited upon the natives of South Africa found the following expression in the press of the nation during the past week:

THE HERALD TRIBUNE

"If it was obvious that the harsh injustice of the South African government soon after or later exhaust the stoic patience of the soof - whites of the Union, nothing can mitigate the appalling tragedy of events there.

"The massacres— they are no less — of defenseless and downtrodden - human beings must stand strongly condemned by international opinion.

"The struggle for racial equality has dominated the last decade. Everywhere, the African (or the Asian) has exacted from the old masters the admission of human parity, if nothing more.

"Everywhere, that is, but South Africa.

"There in the last ten years have witnessed increased repression and indeed, practical enslavement.

"For the United States, this carries a pointed moral, which the State Department's unusual denunciation of the massacres underlines. We may be thankful for the foresight and concern which has made possible the substantial advances of the non ...whites of our own country.

"But we have not been moving fast enough.

"If we need a reminder, we have only to look at the examples of non - violent resistance of recent days in the lunch-rooms of the South.

"It is no use pretending that there are not a good many white Americans who would feel at home in South Africa."

NEW YORK TIMES

"The continuing reports that natives in Capetown are being forced back to work by police use of whips, whips and guns" are not only shocking in themselves, but indicative of one of the basic weaknesses in South Africa's hopeless program of apartheid...

"Doubtless the Government, having clubs, whips and guns, will win out; but the victory will be Pyrrhic indeed for no one yet has learned how to cap permanently an active, seething volcano...

"Apartheid is an economic as well as a moral absurdity; in its stubborn attempt to go ahead with it the Verwoerd Government is moving steadily down a dead - end street."

THE POST, Denver

"Pustilades from sub - machine guns against unarmed Africans in the Union cannot help but lengthen the odds against Africa's winning the true fruits of freedom in our time."

THE NEW COURIER, Charleston, S.C.

"The selection of stories in The New York Times and other influential journals put South Africa in a very bad light. The cheap pretests of domestic agitation groups like the Congress for Racial Equality were given a big build - up. The plight of the white South African threatened by creeping barbarism, was ignored."

THE EXAMINER, Los Angeles

"Quite understandably, a large number of Americans would prefer to see this country 'kep out of other nations' affairs. So would we, as a general rule.

"But it is both the duty and the privilege of our country's position in the world to affirm our leadership when the occasion demands."

THE MORNING NEWS, Wilmington, Del.

"The Union of South - Africa is the only country in the world, as far as we know, that is trying not only to bring the Negro to permanent better-treatment but an oppressed race to a halt, but also to turn the clock back to the more repressive practices of an earlier era."

THE POST, Washington, D.C.

"The cause is a paralyzing fear on the part of the white minority, particularly the Afrikaners— fear of economic competition, of loss of advantage, of racial admixture, even of 'class, whips and guns'"

This is a common human emotion, and one that through history sometimes has brought appalling denials of human dignity.

"No country or people is immune. A very similar emotion figures in the difficulties in the South of the United States— with the distinction that here it is the policy of the Federal Government to eliminate racial discrimination."

THE COURIER - JOURNAL, Louisville, Ky.

"Most of Africa's new governments, however, have close ar links to the primitivism of a half ... century ago than with the political and scientific complexities of the Space Age.

"If they are not to lose the chaotic disorder and sheer inefficiency the bright hopes with which they are taking over their national destinies, or to fall to Communist blandishments or indigenous dictatorships, they must have the most intelligent assistance that older nations can provide."

THE BULLETIN, Philadelphia

"The police killings of non-whites in South Africa are the result of a state policy deliberately hostile to the majority race. The murder of an innocent white boy in South Philadelphia occurred in a city leaning over backward to encourage good will with a racial minority.

To attribute hoodlum uprisings here to disorder in South Africa or South Carolina is to credit moron boys with reading to world affair they never heard of."

Chi' non-whites to, top million by '70

CHICAGO — The head of the sociology department of Notre Dame University has predicted Chicago's colored population will be at least a million by 1970.

Dr. John Kane told the seventh annual Midwest Conference on Human Relations Saturday that economic pressures and discrimination in the South were forcing non-whites to migrate. He said Chicago's colored population in 1958 was 831,000 and 946,000 in 1950.

'In time,' a tan Pope

NEW YORK (ANP) — Saying that the Church is "colorblind," a prominent white Catholic priest predicted here recently that "in God's good time" the Roman Catholic Church would have a colored Pope.

The prediction by the Rev. John B. Sheerin, Paulist priest and editor of "The Catholic World" magazine, was especially timely in the light of the elevation to the Roman Catholic College of Cardinals recently of Laurian Cardinal Rugumbwa, archbishop of Rutabo, Tanganyik, Africa.

The first colored member of the college, Cardinal Rugumbwa was invested by Pope John XXIII in the third consistory called by the pope at Vatican City, March 28, 1960.

FATHER SHEERIN made the assertion in a sermon at a solemn High Mass marking the eighth annual observance of Interracial Justice at Fordham University in the Bronx.

The Mass was celebrated by an interracial staff. The celebrant was the Rev. Lawrence E. Lucas, who is colored. He was assisted by the Rev. Romuald D'Souza, a native of India, the deacon, and the Rev. Gabriel Lee, a Korean, the subdeacon.

Father Sheerin used himself as an example to emphasize his point. "My white skin," he averred, "does not make me more a child of God than my dark-skinned brother."

"In short," he added, "our Catholic faith is totally colorblind."

Sybert moves Ober Act office setup

"I have been giving the Anti-Subversive Activities program a long look for some time.

"I came to the conclusion that these changes could be made in the interest of economy and closer integration of the program with the Attorney General's office, without impairment of the minimum activities required under the Ober Act."

C. Ferdinand Sybert, the state's attorney general, gave this explanation Tuesday, as he announced the streamlining of the Maryland Anti - Subversive Activities office, and the transfer of its headquarters into the main office of the State Law Department.

This change in the office, known since its establishment in 1949 as the Ober Act Office, also entails the release of two of the four persons presently assigned to it.

Leroy W. Preston, former state senator from Baltimore's Fifth District, resigned Tuesday as special assistant attorney general in charge of the Ober office, and one of the two investigators is scheduled for release.

MRS. VIRGINIA TILGHMAN, Ober Office secretary-stenographer, has already been transferred to the Law Department.

"Enlargement," Mr. Sybert said, "of the quarters of the State Law Department, completed last month, has now made it possible to put the plan into effect.

"The change over will be completed within a few weeks.

One of the present assistant attorneys general will be placed in charge of the Ober program, along with his other duties.

"The state will save $7,500 annually, which is the salary of the special assistant attorney general.

"In addition, Ober office space in the State Office Building will be freed for other use, and having Mrs. Tilghman in the State Law Department will relieve us of employing another secretary - stenographer, which has become necessary.

Mr. Sybert pointed out that Mr. Preston helped work out the changes, and volunteered his resignation.

Baltimore's contribution to this program is $6,000 per year, which is the pay of one investigator.

The budget was reduced this year from $12,000, which covered the two investigators.

In previous years, the city had provided four investigators and quarters in Police Headquarters.

Testimonial Tuesday for Rev. Bryant

The Bethel AME Church Booster Club for Harrison J. Bryant for Bishop in 1960 will sponsor a testimonial in the Rev. Mr. Bryant's honor on Tuesday, April 19 at 8:30 p.m. at the church.

The Rev. Mr. Bryant has served the church and community for the past 12 years and has associated himself in every worthwhile movement for his people, a club spokesman said.

Recently he was one of 39 ministers who marched downtown as part of the local protest against discrimination in eating facilities, the spokesman said.

He is vice president of the United Council of Churches of Maryland and vice president of the NAACP Chapter here.

He has been 39 years since a bishop has been named from this city, the spokesman said, and members are urging the public to support the effort to have the Rev. Mr. Bryant elected.

Alphonso McLaren is chairman of the booster club.

POLITICS:

By MAX JOHNSON

Clear thinking Baltimoreans are undoubtedly grateful to City Councilman Solomon Liss (5th D.) for his role in the basic that has developed over the Bureau of Recreation's Jennifer job bypass.

It was due to Mr. Liss' insistence that a public hearing on this matter was held Monday before a City Council committee.

And it was the sharp probing by Mr. Liss during this hearing that produced for the public a more revealing insight to the thinking of the persons responsible for the bypass.

Also, why a majority of the investigating board members of Baltimore's Equal Employment Opportunity Commission concurred.

* * *

THE FACT that the City Council committee failed to issue a formal statement of its findings after the hearing, must be construed as a reflection on the committee — rather than on the hearing itself.

The Bureau of Recreation is a city agency — supported by the tax dollars of citizens.

Tax monies of citizens pay the salaries of this agency's employees, as well as those of other city agencies.

This gives citizens the right to know about the operation, the policies of the Bureau of Recreation and other tax supported city agencies.

The City Council has committees established covering city agencies and operations — and is the proper body to investigate questionable matters in such agencies and operations.

Conscientious City Councilmen will not hesitate to seek such an investigation, when matters arise which should have public clarification.

SO — the Jennifer bypass hearing the past Monday.

While the over - all results and effects of this hearing still remain to be seen — there is at least this another turn forward of the wheel of Democracy.

The right of people to know.

Citizenship knowledge and conscientious interest more often serves as a stop - gap to municipal indiscretions — however temptingly.

So — Mr. Liss, the conscientious, City Councilman that he is, wanted the public to learn what motivated the Jennifer bypass— the thinking of those who concurred.

For this public service, Mr. Liss should be thanked.

O'Conor delivers Civil Rights speech

"The acid test of a good society is its respect for the rights of man, whether white or black."

The speaker was Herbert R. O'Conor Jr., candidate for Congress from Maryland's 7th District.

Mr. O'Conor spoke before an organization on Harford Road, Wednesday night.

He said: "Our ultimate goal must be to reach the point where we no longer have problems of race relations, but only human relations — where the problems involved in man's relationship to man are not affected by race, creed, or color.

"To this end, responsible Congressional leadership, as much to contribute, and to

"I pledge my dedication."

* * *

MR. O'CONOR added: "Although colored voting registration in the South has doubled since 1947, and has increased in Baltimore alone from 40,000 to over 100,000 since 1939," Mr. O'Conor said "only 25 per cent of eligible colored persons in the South are registered.

"Such a situation, caused in large measure by a variety of discriminatory measures is an unhealthy one for the democratic process.

"The voting - referee plan now before Congress, providing for federal supervision of Southern election procedures, is a long-needed steps toward guaranteeing to colored people unrestricted exercise of the right to vote, the most fundamental of our cherished democratic rights.

"I wholeheartedly support this legislation.

"Legal maneuvers by some southern states have in many areas denied meaning to the 1954 Supreme Court school desegregation decision; and legislation to supervise compliance with its provisions is now under study by Congress.

"Whatever is necessary to carry out the mandate of the Supreme Court should be adopted.

"Finally, employment opportunities for colored Southerners are still restricted, and the ability to vote is complicated by discrimination in the building trades and railroads.

"Here is an opportunity for responsible union leaders to render the colored worker a true service, as they have done for working people in general since the beginning of the labor movement."
