OUR NAACP NON PARTISAN VOTE REGISTRATION CAMPAIGN is starting with encouraging cooperation.

Harry Oglesby already has his committee formed and they will begin canvassing this week.

He has great success in organizing the youth, but is only too happy to have every citizen involved in his group.

So call him folks, the time is short and we've a great deal of work to do. His number is EL 5-6413.

If we want to make our protests count, we must register and see that our neighbors, working mates, friends are registered, and then see too it that these same people vote.

We've got an awfully poor vote record in the 6th District. Does this mean we are satisfied with incidents like the Riverside Pool riots? Come on committees let's get going.

Call your meetings now. We have until February 4, 1963 to register in the 6th District. I will see that you get your canvassing kits.

CONTACT me, your Coordinator for the NAACP Vote Registration Campaign for the 6th District, at Elgin 5-6860 or Elgin 5-4810. Do it today.

Wake up citizens of the Sixth District, Remember we're not in Mississippi — we can register and we can vote here in Baltimore.

MISS ERNESTINE TRESA ALLEN, daughter of Mrs. Lillian Cole Allen and Leigh Albert Allen Jr., both of Catonsville, and Joseph Merrill Brown Jr., were married in Macedonia Baptist Church, Saturday.

Mr. Brown is the son of the Rev. Mr. and Mrs. Joseph M. Brown Sr.

The double-ring ceremony was performed by the Rev. Willard L. Clayton, pastor of Macedonia, with the father of the bridegroom saying the marriage prayer. Mrs. Elizabeth Dargan was soloist and Clarence Jones was at the organ.

Given in marriage by her grandfather, Bernard Thomas Cole, the bride wore a gown of silk appliqued French lace. The gown was made with a Sabrina neckline enhanced with sequins and seed pearls.

The back of the bouffant skirt, falling into tiers of shirred nylon tulle and lace, swept into a chapel train.

Her headpiece, a queen's crown of crystal and seed pearls, held her veil of French silk illusion which had a matching lace edge.

She carried a cascade of white Fugii mums centered with a white orchid.

Miss Carole Williams, maid of honor, wore a street-length dress of gold peau de soie, made with fitted top and bell-shaped skirt. Her accessories included matching satin slippers, a head piece encrusted with seed pearls and short matching veil. She carried a gold peau de soie muff with yellow carnations attached.

Other attendants were Miss Leah Allen, sister of the bride; Miss Harriett Kidwell, Mrs. Cician Stanfield, Miss Carolyn Camphor and Miss Sharon Brown.

Misses Allen and Brown are sisters of the bride and bridegroom, respectively.

The bridesmaids were gowned in frocks of royal blue and turquoise, with matching accessories, and carried muffs to which were attached bouquets of peppermint carnations.

Shirley Moody of this city and Angela Moore of Philadelphia, flower girls, wore white frocks of organdy over turquoise slips, and head pieces of short white veils held in place by rhinestone tiaras.

They carried white baskets filled with rose petals.

James Davenport was best man. Ushers included Stephan Brown, brother of the bridegroom. George Guest, Jerome Guest, Lewis Knight, Webster Lewis and James Chester.

Ringbearers were Donald Anderson of Philadelphia and Kevin Jones of Catonsville. They carried white satin, lace-trimmed pillows, holding the two rings in lace heart centers.

Mrs. Lillian Cole Allen, mother of the bride, chose a street-length gown of beige with gold brocade roses as trim, and matching slippers. Her hat was a gold halo with gold velvet leaf and matching veil.

Mrs. Lillian Cole, grandmother of the bride, wore a sheath of white brocade and silver, a white halo hat with rhinestones and matching veil, and matching slippers.

For her son's wedding, Mrs. Brown chose a beige gown of Chantilly lace with a half hat of satin tiered bows. Her slippers were beige.

The bride, who graduated from Catonsville Senior High School, attended Morgan State College. Mr. Brown is in the Armed Forces and is stationed in Buffalo, N.Y.

Among out-of-town guests attending the wedding were Messrs. and Mesdames Harry Moore, Theodore Cross, and Zion Robeson; Mesdames Lucille G. Moore and Blanche Anderson; Misses A. MEMBERS of the Baltimore Club of Business and Professional Women had a busy week during which they held their second Christmas dinner meeting at the Elegant Room and their annual card and bingo benefit party Friday at the Masonic Temple.

On Thursday evening a group of them attended the Duke Ellington Concert for the benefit of Fellowship House.

Sixty-two members gathered in the festive room of the Forest Park Avenue establishment, Tuesday evening, where they enjoyed a wassail bowl before sitting down to dinner. Christmasy place cards indicated food choices to the servers. Soft music played carols.

Dinner was followed by a short business meeting, Carol singing led by Thelma Ashe and Charlotte Swan, and a brief get-acquainted time.

Each member told what she is currently doing. Surprisingly enough some of the gals are doing two or three jobs.

High points of the affair were the gathering of gifts for patients in mental hospitals and the fashion show including "Gifts for you on review," which was something else again.

Victorine Adams presented in her own inimitable way, seductive lounge wear, chic but practical dresses for street, office, cocktails and evening, hats and jewelry, perfume and other gift suggestions, all from the Charm Center.

A note of sadness somewhat dimmed the festive occasion because of the passing of Elias Raymond Smith over the weekend.

He was the husband of the dinner chairman, Mary Carter Smith. However, Loretta Watty, co-chairman, carried out the plans just as she and Mary had worked them out the weeks ahead.

Fashion show models were club members, including cute Harriette Howard, svelte Alice B. Matthews, and sedate but elegant Mary C. Allen;

Also Jeannine Jenkins of the Kane Models added a pixie air and the junior club was represented by Morgan student, Mildred Dorsey, who will be presented at the Girl Friends Christmas cotillion by the Diana Kane Model School.

Another junior deb-to-be is Jacqueline Murphy, Howard student.

Fashions were also shown on Friday night at the card party. Mary C. Allen and Ardena Myers were co-chairmen. Ethel J. Day is president.

Hostesses for the evening were Mary C. Smith and Loretta Watty, Mary F. Burns, Veronica Camphor, Margaret Carroll, Mary E. Crump, Agnes Curtis, Flora Dargan, Elizabeth C. Demby, Louise Fennell and Lucille Russ.

THE SUNDAY NIGHTERS —that's the group which gathers from 7:30 to 20 for chit chat, snacks etc. held their last meeting of the year at the Warwick Ave. home of Gwen and Charles Hillen.

Members present were Messrs. and Mesdames Marvin Davis, Miles Harrison, Bettye Phillips and Frankie Wood and Dr. and Mrs. Lonnie Greene.

Guests included Messrs. and Mesdames J. C. Reaves, Forest Higginbotham, Samuel Blackwell, Joseph Felton, Samuel Hoskins and Clarence Henderson.

POT-POURRI: Deep in the throes of preparation for a testimonial to City Councilman Walter T. Dixon on February 17th, is a citizen's committee. The affair will be held in the Sheraton Belvedere Hotel.

Verba Dorsey, Irene Bennett, Doris Stubblefield and Mary Proctor hosted that delightful meeting of the Flower Guild of St James Episcopal Church, Monday evening.

In town for a weekend with Letitia Ashe, a week back, were Jean and Clifford Capers of Cleveland, Ohio. She is, as of a few weeks back, a new assistant State's attorney for the State of Ohio.

Escaping the rigors of winter as well as the bustle of the holidays will be Dr. and Mrs. W. Leroy Berry, who are flying down to the West Indies for the full holiday.

Dr. and Mrs. Martin L. Jenkins of Morgan State College beat them to the punch. They left by motor Friday, for California, and from there will go on to the Isles.

Off to New York for the holidays will be Thelma Weaver. She'll see a few shows and shops in the big town, and then go on further East for days of rest.

The treat of the week will be the reading by Nellie Henry Moore from her newly compiled book of poems "Forever Humble" at the open house of the President of the Maryland League of Women's Clubs on Sunday afternoon at four.

The party is to be held in Fellowship House, 3200 Hilton Road, and music will be by H. Meredith Burche Jr and his Combo.

Of course the parties for the next three weeks are as thick as the berries on clumps of mistletoe...but one of the cutest will be that cooked up by Florence and Bob Bailey (she's the vice principal and he's a Government attorney) who have bid friends to pull on their blue jeans and join them on Saturday to help open the boxes, crack the crates and arrange the dishes in their new Edgewood Road home. "So come party awhile as you help us unpack, and get yourself used to our new tar-papered shack" ends the invitation.

Speaking of shacks (and this is by no means a shack) new neighbors on "Pill Hill" (that's the Ashburton-Forest Park section that has a physician and family on practically every lot) has an addition. They are the delightful Dr. and Mrs. Jesse Holmes who have the beautiful white, lake-facing manse at Hilton and Fairview.

* * *

AND SPEAKING of parties...The Smart Set will celebrate early, tomorrow (Friday) night, in fact, holding forth at a Christmas party for their husbands in the home of John and Dorothy Wood.

The Guardsmen will have their Christmas party in Kappa House..well, aren't most of the Baltimore guys Kappas, anyway?

The Templars and their friends will be going to Union Hall, Cherry Hill, New Year Eve night.

You, of course, know that the Baltimore Girl Friends will be presenting their debutantes in the Civic Center on the 27th...and at last count had their subscribers to such a number that already they are ready to decide the amount of money they will add to the Provident Hospital Building Fund. Last year their gift was $1000.

The Continentals will mark the season in the right Christmas spirit, with their Winter Wonderland Ball on the 27th, in the Famous Ballroom, with an aim to aiding needy children.

Baltimore Alumni Chapter of Kappa Alpha Psi Fraternity's heart is in the proper mood. For double reasons firs mood. For double reasons first because they want to aid needy and second because they want their children to learn the beauty of sharing with others their christmas party on the 22nd will bring cheer to underpriviled children and give their own kids the joy of giving.
