MUSICAL MOMENTS

United Nations chorus to sing at Poly for YWCA on Oct. 20

By ADAH K. JENKINS

Hansonia L. Caldwell, 18 year - old Baltimore pianist and winner of the local Jerusalem Temple No. 4 Shriners talent contest, garnered the second prize of $1,000 in the Shriners annual national Talent Scholarship finals in Pittsburgh last week.

Miss Caldwell played the first movement of Beethoven's "Appassionata Sonata" at the contest which was held in Syria Mosque, the finest music hall in the city.

Each of the 17 contestants was limited to a performance of five minutes, after which they were questioned individually on the stage for an intelligence - intellect evaluation.

In addition to Hansonia Caldwell the ranking finalists were: Shirley A. McKie of Hartford, Conn., first; Carol A. Mills, of Chicago, third; Harriet Thalf, of Philadelphia, fourth and Lynn Baker, of Detroit, fifth.

Noble Walter Dyett, director of the Promotional Department of the National finals, presented the scholarships of $1,500, $1,000, $500. $300 and $200, and individual trophies to the ranking winners.

Each of the remaining contestants received $50.

The local temple was responsible for the expenses of its contestants by her chaperone.

Mrs. Edythe Mosby chaperoned the Baltimore pianist and Noble Paul Ruller was her local promotional manager. Also accompanying Miss Caldwell was her mother, Mrs. Hanson (Beulah) Caldwell, her godmother, Miss Lillie Ross, and Mrs. Willie Knight.

Two buses of top - ranking Baltimore Shriners and Daughters of Isis, headed by Grandmaster Samuel T. Daniels, attended the Pittsburgh finals. Since 1950 the national order has given $56,000 in scholarship talent awards.

Miss Caldwell, who is a graduate of Eastern High School and the Jenkins Studio, is continuing her musical education at Boston University, where she is entering her sophomore year.

LAURETTA DORSEY also is the Jerusalem Temple scholarship winner last year and a '63 graduate of Peabody, was a member of the performing faculty of the summer Junior Conservatory Camp in northern Vermont.

The seven - week project, which is directed by Mrs. Grace Cushman, of the Peabody faculty, specializes in training advanced composition students.

At Monday evening forums and Sunday afternoon concerts, which are open to the public, works by the students are performed. These included choral, chamber music and solo compositions, most of them in the contemporary style.

Miss Dorsey, who was one of the soloists, performed among other pieces, a 12-tone scale solo by Flora Cushman, daughter of the director.

The performing faculty also included Ronaldo Reyes, pianist; Johannie Cohen and Jerry Reed, violinists. A number of the compositions written at the camp will be performed in Washington next month at the Mayflower Hotel during a national convention of musicians.

Miss Dorsey will study this year at Juilliard with Sergius Kagen, composer of the opera "Hamlet" which attracted national attention at his Peabody premiere last season.

Folk and popular music have been the center of controversy in the past, as our music histories can attest.

In Italy in the 16th century the use of popular tunes in elaborate, showy settings of the mass had reached such proportions that the clergy commissioned Palestrina, a gifted Italian musician, to write a model mass suitable to the dignity of the service.

The immediate results were three masses that aroused enthusiastic recognition and influenced many other composers. Then his huge collection of religious works Palestrina stemmed the tide of objectionable "modernism."

Yet, four centuries later, in our own time, the Catholic missionaries in Africa, are experimenting with mass in the native tongue and set to tribal folk music.

Last year we heard a recording of such a service from a collection made by Miss Dorothy Day, the noted lay leader and editor of "The Catholic Worker."

(To be concluded)

CALENDAR: Sunday, Oct. 20, at Polytechnic Institute, the United Nations Singers in concert presented by the Madison Avenue Branch YWCA.

The chorus, which will appear in native costumes, consists of members of the UN secretarial staff. Tickets are available at the Y.

'Experience' to be re-telecast

"The Crowning Experience," a WBAL-TV telecast, has been rescheduled for four more showings.

Based upon the life of Mary McLeod Bethune, the film was recently broadcast and public response prompted the station officials to schedule rebroadcasts.

The show will be seen Sept. 10, 9:30-11 p.m.; Sept. 11, 10:30 a.m.-12 noon; Sept. 13, 11:30 p.m.- 1a.m. and Sept. 15, 3-4:30 p.m.

AT THE REGENT — Carol Lynley finds that she is losing her boy friend, Richard Beymer, to glamorous Joanne Woodward who plays the title role in "The Stripper," a new 20th Century-Fox Cinema Scope release now at Regent.

Regent Theatre has 'The Stripper'

In the title role of "The Stripper," Joanne Woodward turns to another of those demanding dramatic performances like the one which brought her an Academy Award.

Joanne plays the part of Lila Green, a beauty contest winner who winds up touring with a sleazy magic act.

The 20th Century - Fox CinemaScope release which is now at the Regent Theatre is the valedictory of filmmaker Jerry Wald; who produced such pictures as "Sons and Lovers," "Peyton Place" and "The Long, Hot Summer." He died at age 49, three weeks before photography on the picture was completed.

BALTIMORE AFTER DARK
On the TOWN with the Pub Crawler

A richly deserved tribute to the late Herman Hill, talented and dynamic leader of the exciting Jolly Jax Trio can be found in the search to come up with an addition to replace him.

Herman, as you know was killed when the plane carrying him and his flight instructor crashed last week.

Manager Al Quille calls it a bit more than " tough" to find a replacement to fill the gaping hole left in the ranks of one of the best vocal and instrumental groups this town has produced.

Al is now toying with the idea of adding one or two artists to fill the void left by Herman which can never be completely filled.

It's impossible to produce an exact duplicate of the communication that existed between Herman, Jerry and Carroll — they were brothers.

SPEAKING OF Al reminds us that the Casino is closed this week for vacation and renovations. The doors swing open Tuesday coming for "Big Three" night.

Next week will also mark an expansion of a project dear to the busy manager's heart — "Dollars for CORE."

Until the place shut down for leave and sprucing, all proceeds from the Labor Day night in August went to bolster the budget of that freedom fighting group.

Because of the support these nights enjoyed, Al has not only extended the original cut off date, but has added a night for the Baltimore County chapter as well.

So next Wednesday and Thursday nights will be a good time to stop at the Casino and enjoy yourself while helping one of the worthiest of causes.

YOU HAVEN'T lived until you've crashed one of those birthday parties the keepers of the spirits throw for themselves occasionally.

Two such shindigs were given recently — by Maceo Paysour of Maceo's and Jim Peters at the Alpine Villa. Both were saying a toast. So much so until when Peters ended to ask "How old are you?" But then what does it matter as long as you are young at heart!

Doug Tawney at the Civic Center tells us only 3,515 persons went through the turnstiles to hear Mahalia Jackson Wednesday.

This, of course, was a small number to attend a Mahalia Jackson concert. But considering that millions saw and heard the "world's greatest gospel singer at the epic gathering in Washington, it's understandable.

To date we haven't been able to determine the reasons behind setting the concert for such a day as that.

SPEAKING of Wednesday, a day when the hearts in the chests of every black man, woman and child should pound with pride, it was pleasing to see the extent to which people from the neon circuit participated.

Frank Reddish, of Dotson's and proxy of the National Negro License Beverage Association, said his group sponsored several buses.

Roosevelt Nixon, president of the beautiful Glenwood Country Club, contributed a bus to haul freedom lovers to the nation's capital.

The summer may have ended by the time Kleeco's Tall Man (Walter) has finally won his battle with air conditioners.

But one thing's for sure, this will be the coolest house in town when Ol' Sal goes into his act next time around.

Sept. 7 is the date of the Pyramids fall extravaganza at the Armory.

Tickets are going like mad and you'd better grab yours now for a swinging evening.

NAPE backs Belen for top P.O. post

The National Alliance of Postal Employees are unqualified support to Frederick C. Belen for the vacant post of Postmaster General of the United States. The action was taken at NAPE's Golden Anniversary Convention on Aug. 22, at the Henry Hudson Hotel in New York City.

Ashley G. Smith, NAPE's president, was high in his praise of Mr. Belen who currently serves as Assistant Postmaster General of the Bureau of Operations. The 400 delegates at the convention adopted a resolution which supported Mr. Belan and ordered telegrams sent to President Kennedy and the Attorney General stating NAPE's position.

The Postmaster General's post was left vacant by the recent resignation of Edward Day who has returned to the New York Chapter of Chesapeake Terrace Elementary School.

The nearly 700 teachers and other staff members newly assigned to the Baltimore City School System will participate in the Tenth Annual Orientation Day to be held today (Friday) at the Eastern High School.

The program will start at 9 a.m. in the school auditorium.

Greetings will be extended by new staff members by Mr. Eli Frank, Jr., president of the Board of School Commissioners, Dr. George M. Brain, superintendent; and by Dr. Kenneth Horvath, director of personnel, who will also preside.

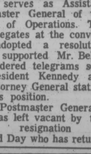
15 professional tips from I.W. Harper
The Prized Kentucky Bourbon

1. Stir when it says stir, and shake when it says shake. Shaking a clear drink, like a Martini, makes it cloudy.
2. When shaking or stirring, be thorough. Shake means shake!
3. For stirring, use ice cubes; for shaking, cracked ice. But ice only; not ice and water.
4. Pour liquor over ice, rather than dropping ice into liquor... the liquor will chill better.
5. If you're caught short without pre-chilled glasses in the refrigerator, fill your glasses with crushed ice while you're mixing the drinks. Then dump the ice and pour.
6. Remember that one ice cube makes 2 to 2½ ounces of water.
7. Use only fresh fruit, and make sure it's thoroughly squeezed.
8. When you're cutting peel for a drink, remove the white under part; it's bitter and useless.
9. Want to make a Daiquiri froth with professional flair? Add a drop of milk to your mix before shaking.
10. Soak lemons in cold water for fifteen minutes to get more juice from them. Then roll them on a hard surface.
11. Rub the edges of the bottle with waxed paper before pouring to prevent dripping. An occasional rub will do.
12. Rinse ice cubes with a few glasses of cold water to get rid of the snowy look.
13. Don't stir carbonated beverages vigorously.
14. Keep simple syrup—sugar and water, premixed—on hand for the most efficient way of sweetening drinks. It will dissolve; plain sugar will often present problems.
15. Use clean glasses—with clean ice—for seconds. Just a drop or two of a stale drink can ruin a fresh one.

Another good tip... mellow your next drink with


...it's always a pleasure!

Famous opera songs heard at musical tea

A Musical Tea Sunday, sponsored by the Baltimore Chapter, Foundation for Music Therapy and Research, Inc., featured songs from every nation.

The program was centered around selections from the "World's Best Operas", and each performer was dressed in the costume of the opera character depicted.

Selections included: The "Toreador Song from "Carmen" sung by James A. Young.

Singers included Mrs. Majorie Butler, Mrs. Gloria Waller and William Roper.

The Mistress of Ceremony was Mrs. Serena Mann, who also designed the costumes worn by the performers.

The tea was given for the benefit of the Music Therapy Home School Clinic, whose activities include the treating of emotionally disturbed and mentally retarded children.

The program included a demonstration of music psycho therapy in collaboration with Music Socio-Educational Therapeutics, by four students from chapters of the foundation.

Guests present from the New York Chapter included: Mrs. Angie White. Miss Ella B. Russell, Mrs. Artie Evans, Max Lupkin, George Glover, Mrs. Mary Barbour, Mrs. Estelle Aikens, Mrs. Ruth Turner and Miss Deneas Jordon.

Also from the New York Chapter were Othan Jordan Daryl Turner and William White.

Morgan College on television

Morgan State College will be featured on a special hour - long telecast on WMAR-TV, Wednesday, at 8 p.m.

Charles "Chuck" Richards, popular radio personality, will narrate the show which will depict many facets of the Morgan community.

The telecast is designed to show the community — especially potential college student — the life and opportunities on the Morgan campus.

The program was filmed over a period of several months and was designed by that college's faculty and administration.

Harlem Theatre has 'Capt. Sindbad'

Those who have been asking for motion pictures which the whole family can enjoy will find thier answer in a wonderful new Metro-Gold-wyn-Mayer attraction "Captain Sindbad" now at the Harlem Theatre.

Its spellbinding story of adventure and astounding feats of magic enacted by the legendary hero of the Arabian Nights, is set against a backround of Oriental splendor.

The title role in this King Brothers Production, filmed in Technicolor and Wondra-Scope, is played by Guy Williams, who established himself as a top swashbuckler in the popular "Zorro" television series. The story's Princess heroine is enacted by the beautiful German acting and recording star, Heidie Bruhl, making her debut in an American film.

By CHARLOTTE DOWNIE

Our Good Neighbor of the week is charming Mrs. Cora Reed, wife of Frank Reed, a recently retired Bethlehem Steel employee.

Mrs. Reed is a native of Hurlock but has lived in our town for over 35 years. With her family she lives at 1040 McDonogh St. Our Neighbor is the mother of one child and also has 4 foster children whom she dearly loves.

Mrs. Reed attended the Cambridge High School on the Eastern Shore in addition to several other schools. While living in her hometown she taught school for several years in Jones.

With her family she attends the Fountain Baptist Church and the Rev. Dennis D. Barrow is her pastor. In her church she is the organist for the Napthali and Gospel Chorus and the Ushers Gospel Chorus.

Our Neighbor is the organist for the Second Mt. Zion Baptist Church and leader of the Reed Gospel Singers.

Mrs. Reed is also a former Sunday School superintendent of the Zion Methodist Church at Petersburg.

AMONG HER hobbies are music, cooking, sewing, traveling, reading and watching the soaps which she plays exceptionally well). Mrs. Reed has been playing the organ since she was 10 years old.

Our Neighbor's favorite verse from the Bible is 100th Psalm, first verse which is "Abide In With Me." Of her favorite dishes she likes to eat fish.
