center for patients who have emotional disorders

On March 24, the Providen Community Mental Health Center (PCMHC) expanded its services with the addition of a Day Care Center. The center is a psychiatric day hospital facility for adult patients with emotional disorders which warrant more intensive treatment than provided in Out-Patient

Two goals of day treatment are to avoid unnecessary hospitalization of patients and to shorten periods of hospital stay when possible.

Patients can receive group, individual or family therapy, psychotropic medications. Patient activities include

Medical education arows at Provident

Like many institutions developed primarily to serve the black population Provident Hospital in its early years received vita assistance from doctors and administrators of other races

In 1935, the black doctors at Provident "tried their wings" y assuming the responsibility for medical administration of the hospital. The move was heralded by doctors, humanitarians, and nationwide.

Representatives from many health care institutions in areas with large black populations observed and copied the successful independence of the Provident Hospital staff executive eventually became comelecting its own officers, and chiefs of services.

A major goal of the committee has been to provide training grounds for young black physicians.

The significant role the hospital I s played in the area of medical education i reflected in the number of young men and women who have passed through its training program and make up the membership of the Hospital's Former House Officers Association.

The Former House Officers Association is currently very active in its work in assisting young physicians and su porting Provident Hospita Under the leadership of Dr. Odom N. Coker, the group Maryland Medical Association when it convened at Provident.

The Maryland Medical Association is the local constituent of the National Medical Association which is presided over by Dr. Walden, Emerson C. member of the Provident Hospital Former House Officers Association.

EARLY IN THE Provident Hospital campaign, Women Power sponsored the Three Ring Charity Gold Tournament. Seated (L to R) the late Morton Macht, chairman of the building committee; Lloyd Genus, of B. Ballentine and Sons: Mrs. Victorine Adams, executive director of Women Power; Bernie Creswell Standings Matt Mayers, B. Ballentine and Sons; Saul M. Purdue, the then president of the board of trustees; Charles G. Tildon Jr. and Mrs. Audrey Norris, treasurer, Women Power.

This service is available 4 hours a day, 7 days a week for the treatment of such respiratory diseases asthma, emphysema bronchitis, and pneumonia. It is the only facility of its kind in

Pratt; nurses; in background, Dr. Elijah B. Saunders, president of the medical staff, with Dr. Y. K. Ramaiah.

Nurses play a vital role practically constructed hospital affords opportunity for patient-centered care and categorical accountability by each member of the nursing staff. Each is committed serve the patient and his family with humility, compassion and competence. "Loving" and "caring" are priority personality qualifications expected each member of the nursing staff. The focus of nursing activities is at the bedside the patient, 24 hours a day, days a week. The communication system facilitates close contact with patient monitoring devices. The patient can reach the nurse a any time. This system by no means minimizes persona contact with the patient however.

Non-nursing personne have been employed to free the nurse for more vital tasks. These persons include un managers, ward clerks, receptionists and utility

Three clinical specialists who are professional nurses with a master's degree in cardio-vascular nursing, neurological nursing and maternal and newborn nursing respectively, recently have been employed.

In keeping with the trends in the delivery of health care services and scientific advancements in technology, we have expanded our coronary care unit and ambulatory services. We are now able to utilize our social service, physical therapy and inhalation therapy departments in rendering nursing assistance to our patients.

Recognizing that hospitals rank second in the business world, the Nursing Service Department functions as a business entity. Working conditions, job incentives and fringe benefits for our employees have been improved.
