SHERMAN DOBSON ON TRIAL IN DEATH OF DEL. 'TURK' SCOTT

State To Ask 1st Degree Murder Verdict

State, defense still selecting jurors

Criminal Court Judge Robert Watts denied the motion this week to exclude the identification evidence from Sherman W. Dobson's trial.

Dobson, 20, 3600 block Elamont Rd. is charged with the first degree murder of Del. James Aubrey (Turk) Scott Friday, July 13. The defendant is also accused of kidnaping and robbery with a deadly weapon of a cab driver.

The state will try to convict young Dobson of the crime which occurred just before dawn in the underground garage of Lorch Sutton Place Apartments where Del. Scott resided.

The trial is expected to last a month, probably until Christmas. Dobson has been in City Jail since arrest and indictment by the Grand Jury.

Jury selection started Wednesday. Each juror was taken into the judge's chambers and questioned by defense attorneys, Kenneth Johnson and Gerald A. Smith. At AFRO presstime today (Friday), jurors were still being questioned.

The prosecutor, Mrs. Sandra O'Connor, also interrogated the jurors.

Dobson is son of the Rev. Harold Dobson and Mrs. Mildred Dobson. His uncle is the Rev. Vernon Dobson.

During jury selection, the defendant was seated at the trial table neatly dressed in cranberry-colored trousers, white turtle neck sweater and a checked sport coat. His hair is closely cut and he wears glasses.

Ski mask robber ruins SS Thanksgiving

Some 31 Social Security Woodlawn employees were left to face the Thanksgiving Holiday without their two weeks salary.

A lone robber wearing a ski mask and carrying a gun in broad daylight Tuesday took all their money from an employee who had just cashed their checks at a nearby bank.

The total the woman employee had just brought back from the bank was $5,406.16.

Since the checks had been cashed and the money stolen, the Social Security Administration is unable to reimburse the employees. "It's all gone down the drain," an official said.

So far, Baltimore County police have been unable to locate the robber who witnesses say had on a tan ski coat and talked with a nervous voice.

The man, described in his late 20's, obtained the money as Mrs. Diana Howell, a Bureau of Disability Insurance employee, sat in a car in the Dickinson

John H. Murphy last rites, 'service of joy, triumph'

Impressive last rites were held Wednesday noon for John H. Murphy Jr. who died Nov. 18 at his 1725 Carey St. home.

Age 93, Aug. 4, 1973, he was the seventh of the 10 children of AFRO founder John H. Murphy Sr., a whitewasher and Mrs. Martha Elizabeth Howard Murphy.

Services at Douglas Memorial Community Church were led by the pastor, the Rev. Marion C. Bascom, who termed the occasion "not one of sorrow but of joy and triumph." He reminded the more than 250 persons present, "Jack Murphy was a happy man. Sing, rejoice."

Assisting were Father John Horiman and Father John Offer, both ministers of the Catholic faith of the widow, Mrs. Marie Murphy, and retired Methodist minister, the Rev. N. B. Carrington for many years the AFRO head pressman.

Music was by the church choir, Howard Wright

Burch blasts U.S. suit against state police

By Bill Rhoden

The U.S. Justice Department announced Monday that it was on the verge of filing a discrimination suit against the Maryland State Police Department.

Attorney General Francis B. Burch, visibly upset, called a press conference in his Baltimore office Tuesday and blasted the Justice Department for violating "professional ethics."

"I consider it a slap in the face," stormed Burch.

"Somebody in Washington is trying to get publicity and I resent it. The governor resents it and the citizens of Maryland should resent it."

* * *

If the suit is filed, it will be the first discrimination case against a state police agency by the Justice Department.

* * *

Mr. Burch said the State Police Dept. had submitted an affirmative action plan to the Justice Department last week outlining means by which the department would recruit more blacks.

He also said during a phone call Monday with David Rose, chief of the Speed era end

Today (Friday) Nov. 23, 1973 marks an imposed 55 miles per hour speed limit signalling the end of the "speed era" in Maryland and most states in the nation. Critical energy shortages also forecast cutbacks in home consumption of lights and heat, all harbingers of a long, dark, cold winter and end of luxurious living.

Del. Scott inventory filed

On file before the Orphan's Court of Baltimore this week is the summary of various assets of James Aubrey Scott Jr., the member of the House of Delegates who was slain Friday, July 13.

Total cash value is listed as $1,006.75. The inventory shows a 1968 Chrysler 2-door hardtop, $500; 50 percent ownership in the Atlas Insurance Agency Inc., chartered March 29, 1973, $300; salary, state of Maryland, $205.75. Michael Bowen Mitchell, family attorney, also stated in the file that the salary from the state of Maryland, $765.75 is the total in cash and the deceased man had no real property.

If you can't get heat

Del. Lloyd Randolph chairman Black Caucus delegation, Maryland General Assembly, says that members of this committee stand ready to give aid to citizens who may face home heating problems during the expected fuel shortage this winter.

Julian: School Children Short-Changed To Subsidize A Bunch Of Artists

'City can't afford to be art patron'

City Councilman Dr. Emerson R. Julian has found that art work on two schools is almost the same "except for some curlicues" and that the same artist was paid $14,000 for each design, a total of $28,000.

He says that school children are being "short-changed" while money is spent "to subsidize a bunch of artists."

Stating that Baltimore can not afford to be a patron of the arts, he says the city is the first in the history of the nation "to drive to the poor house in a Cadillac."

"The money for these murals could be used for much-needed supplies in the schools or even to repair the many broken toilets," he asserts.

WANTS CITY COUNCIL ACTION

Prompted by the discovery of the murals on the two schools being the same, Dr. Julian says he will introduce a bill in City Council Nov. 26 to the effect that schools should be exempt from the one-percent provision of the arts. He asks that the public come to the 2 p.m. City Council meeting to express an opinion on the bill.

Dr. Julian tells the story from statistics he has gathered:

"The Civic Design Commission has paid a total of $28,000 for the same mural on two different schools.

"Reports filed with the
