plans to expand its building, located at Eutaw and Dolphin St.)

And, during the year monies were raised from the annual dinner and donated to pet projects. Mr. Elliott emphasized that although the organization is a society of secrets, "our roles are open to the public and our projects are proof of that."

A poet once said "To love is to place one's hapiness in the happiness of another" and probably the most rewarding occasion Mr. Elliott has experienced was the graduation of the 60 students who studied under him this past year.

This class will hold a special place in his heart . . . it was his first.

The setting of this year's exercises was the John Wesley Methodist Church on a recent Sunday afternoon. There officers of the male and female jurisdictions (female, Order of Eastern Star) and well-wishers gathered to witness the conferring of diplomas.

So sang the class as they marched from the back of the church auditorium:

"If you just hold out 'till tomorrow . . .
If you just keep your faith through
If you just hold 'till tomorrow,
Everything will be all right."

And, everything was all right.

Brother James E. Taylor, one of the graduates, carried the program from beginning to end.

He told his listeners how the Hiram Grand Lodge was incorporated in 1924, under the Maryland State Law Governing corporations and became the "first black AF and AM Lodge to be organized and incorporated in the State of Md."

Remarks came from honored guests, including the Rev. J. Lloyd Garrison, pastor of the church. But the highlights were the conferring of certificates and comments from the class leader, Mr. Elliott.

"To you brethern: Today you receive a document that allows anyone that might see it, to know that you are a master builder.

"You have day your foundation, but if you would receive all that Freemasonry has to offer, dig deeply into the symbolism, the history, the philosophy, the jurisprudence and the spiritual meaning of the ancient craft. So and only so, will you become a real Freemason.

"Today I relinquish you completely to your masters. I can only say, they are getting good men, men who have been taught to serve their masters with freedom, frevency and zeal. Men that have been taught that true masonry begins in the heart, and the essentials of any good man is a love of God and charity to all mankind. For, so as we try to lighten others' burdens, so will we find that our burdens cease to exist.

"Go forth to your various lodges — secure in the knowledge, that you have earned the right to be called a master mason. You need not say a word. Let your work proclaim the glad news."

Although the occasion was a momenteous one for most of those present, tears came to the eyes of many when they learned that one of the class members was not able to witness his big day.

Brother Roy Kellum, security guard at Crown Food Market, died of gunshot wounds the week before following an attempted robbery.

However, his widow and family members were present and accepted his diploma.

Jimmie L. Grier, Samuel N. Harris, Osie O. Henry, Chester Horne, Joseph E. Howard, Dillon Hundley, Herbert Ihenchio, Willie T. Jones;

Alvin D. Johnson, Roy A. Kellam, Nathaniel Mack Sr., Curlee Marshall, Haywood Matthews Jr., Abraham McCauley Jr. William F. McLaughlin, Otis Merritt Jr. Joseph Miller;

Major Payne Jr., John M. Pittman, William K. Riley, Samuel R. Smith, Henry Sorrell Jr., Napoleon Sykes, Samuel Spriggs, Benjamin Tulley;
