Md. Bicen antique show

Maryland's antique present to the nation on its birthday will be the Upper Marlboro Bicentennial Antiques Show opening at 11 a.m. July 2 for four days in the Marlboro Tobacco Market. Queen Annes School and St. Barnabas Church are sponsoring this largest antiques show ever held in the state. More than 70 professional dealers from over several states will fill the 2-acres of floor space with antiques exceeding $1,000,000, ranging in price from $1,000 to $1. Merchandise will vary from unique to a beginner's choice in quality and from a button to a 20-foot back-bar in size. Formally established in 1704, St. Barnabas Church in Queen Anne Parish is a church rich in history and tradition. Born in the reign of Queen Anne, more than seventy years before the Revolution, this church is still very much a part of the contemporary scene. When the usual repairs and maintenance that are common to a 200-year-old structure were needed, the vestry voted an authentic restoration of the 1774 building and furnishings.

Mrs. Williams told the AFRO this week that her daughter, Miss Karen Michele Williams and her grandson, Ingam, disappeared from their home on June 7. She stated they had been in the house when she left that day, but were gone when she returned.

Mrs. Williams said she filed a missing persons report with the police department last week and also sought help from the radio and television stations.

Miss Williams is 5 feet 3 inches tall and weighs 105 lbs. She has grey eyes, light brown afro styled hair and a mole right below her lower lip.

Ingam Itobi Williams is about 3 feet in height with grey eyes, short light brown hair and a scar on his bottom lip.

Park Heights $1 homestead sale set

Thirteen homestead properties scattered throughout the Park Heights Urban Renewal area will be open to the public Sunday, June 27 from 11 a.m. to 5 p.m.

The Department of Housing and Community Development (DHCD) and the Park Heights Community Corporation (PHCC) will jointly sponsor the homestead open house. The PHCC office at 2700 W. Cold Spring Lane will serve as an information center, where a locational map and rehabilitation estimates of the 13 offerings can be obtained.

Eleven of the properties, FHA foreclosures, were made available to DHCD by the Department of Housing and Urban Development through their demonstration homesteading program. Two of the homestead offerings in Park Heights were acquired by the city through urban renewal action.

As in all homesteading programs, the properties will be sold for $1 to persons willing to rehabilitate and live in them. Rehabilitation estimates for the 13 Park Heights properties run from $5,000 to $38,000 with the majority in the $5-$13,000 range.

Housing Commissioner Robert C. Embry Jr. has announced the ground rules under which applications and selections of homesteaders will be made.

He said that city loans at below market interest will be available and that capability to carry out the rehabilitation financially will be a prime consideration in qualifying homesteaders. Priority will be given to qualified Park Heights residents in the final awarding of the properties.

Under the Park Heights homesteading program, no mailing of applications will be allowed. During the open house DHCD staff members will be on hand at the 2700 W. Cold Spring Lane information center to answer questions and take applications.

Until July 9 applications can be filled out at the Home Ownership Development Office, 401 N. Charles St. weekdays from 8:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. In addition, applications will be taken at the PHCC Cold Spring Lane office on two Wednesday evenings, June 30 and July 7 from 7 to 9 p.m.

AFRO Honor Roll member retiring from city public school system

Miss Harriet Vernon, head of the guidance department at Hampstead Hill Junior High School, has announced that she is retiring from the school system at the end of this month.

Miss Vernon, a member of the AFRO Honor Roll, had worked the city schools for 36 years. Of those 36 years, she has worked 26 as a guidance counselor.

A friendly soft-spoken person, Miss Vernon is a graduate of Eastern High School and Goucher College. She has done graduate work at the University of Maryland, Loyola College and Johns Hopkins University.

She holds a masters in supervision and administration and the equivalent to a masters in guidance.

After graduating from Goucher College, Miss Vernon's first assignment was at Patterson Park Junior High School, located where Hampstead Hill is today.

Miss Vernon was at Patterson Park for 10 years teaching basic science. However, according to her, during the war years she taught aeronautics, physics and meteorology to students who later joined the Air Corps.

In 1945, Miss Vernon interrupted her education career to be a part of the National Field Staff of the Girl Scouts. She returned to the educational system in 1950 to work as a science teacher at Eastern High School.

After spending that year at her old alma mater, Miss Vernon was sent to Southern High School as a counselor where she worked until 1960 when she was assigned to Hampstead Hill.

Miss Vernon's work with the Girl Scouts was not just restricted to her work on the National Staff. For a number of years she was a leader of a Girl Scout troop at the North Avenue Methodist Church. She was also camp director at Camp Comstock in Ithaca, N.Y. during the summer of 1967.

Her work with kids did not stop with the summer camps. During 1971, Miss Vernon worked with 400 ninth grade students at Hampstead Hill and helped them plan ahead for high school.

She also served as a field supervisor on the staff of the Neighborhood Youth Corps, writing about the many jobs held by the 7,000 students in the NYC. It was her work with the youth that earned her the Honor Roll plaque.

Blount wants auto shops licensed

A hearing was held in Annapolis last week on a bill introduced by Sen. Clarence W. Blount (Balto. City, 41st) to provide for registration of automobile repair service facilities.

In testimony presented to the Senate Legislative and Public Law Committee, Sen. Blount wrote that "consumers in this state consistently report more complaints about automobile repairs than any other kind."

"This state offers very minimal protection against shoddy auto repair services," said the Senate Majority Whip and Vice Chairman of the Budget and Taxation Committee.

Sen. Blount's bill calls for registration of facilities. To operate a repair business a mechanic would merely have to register his name, the name of his company, and its location with the Motor Vehicle Administration and pay the registration fee.

"We could refuse to issue a registration certificate to a business which flagrantly and repeatedly violates consumer laws," said Sen. Blount, who two years ago sponsored the measure which strengthened this state's consumer protection law.

A five member commission is set up which may suspend or revoke a license for conduct which is willfully or knowingly misleading or fraudulent. The commission would also be empowered to grant restitution or impose a fine of up to $500.

Testifying for the bill were John Ruth, director of the Division of Consumer Protection, Mrs. Ellen Haas, representing the Maryland Citizens Consumer Council, Robert Erwin from Legal Aid, and representatives of the Montgomery and Prince George's County Consumer Protection Offices.

Ethnic look reflected in dress, cuisine, home decor

Editor shares favorite West Indian recipes

By Marie P. Cooke
Reflections Editor

It's popping up all over — the ethnic look — in clothes for the current season and the next. But the "look" hasn't ended on the couture lines, it's being carried out in our homes — plants and baskets and the like — and our cuisines.

My own cooking habits have taken a West Indian swing! And all the way. Rum Punch. Peas and Rice. Curry, and more curry.

Here are just a few of my favorites, the ones I have mastered and enjoy serving to my special friends and family.

Chicken Pelau

3½ to 4-pound chicken, cut into serving pieces
1 pound pork, cut into 1-inch cubes
Salt, freshly ground black pepper
1 fresh hot green pepper, seeded and minced
1 onion, peeled and finely chopped
3 or 4 blades of chive, chopped
1 sprig thyme, crumbled
1 medium tomato, peeled and chopped
2 teaspoons brown sugar
3 tablespoons oil
2 cups long-grained rice, well washed
1 tablespoon butter
12 almonds, blanched and chopped
12 small pimiento-stuffed, green olives, halved

Season the chicken pieces and the prok with salt, pepper, fresh hot pepper, onion, chives, thyme, tomato and sugar, and allow to stand for several hours or overnight in the refrigerator. Scrape off and reserve seasonings. Heat the oil in a large, covered frying pan and saute the chicken and pork until golden brown. Add the reserved seasonings, pour in enough water to barely cover the meats, cover the pan and simmer gently until half done, about 30 minutes.

Remove the meats from the frying pan, strain the stock, measure it and bring the quantity up with extra stock or water to make 4 cups. Return the meats to the frying pan, add the stock and stir in the rice, cover, and cook at a simmer until the rice is tender and all the liquid absorbed, about 20 minutes. Add the butter, nuts and olives.

Serves 6 to 6.

Peas and Rice

Fresh gungo peas (pigeon peas) are used when they are in season, but dried red beans are more usually the "peas" of Jamaican Rice and Peas.

1 cup California pink beans, or red kidney beans
2 tablespoons vegetable oil
1 medium onion, finely chopped
1 fresh hot red pepper, seeded and chopped
2 cups coconut milk (see Index)
½ teaspoon thyme
Salt, freshly ground pepper to taste
2 cups long-grain rice

Put the beans on to cook in a heavy, covered casserole or sauce-pan with enough cold water to cover by about 2-inches. Bring to a boil, cover, reduce the heat and cook at a gentle simmer until the beans are tender, adding hot water during the cooking if necessary. Drain the beans, measure the liquid and return both to the casserole.

Heat the oil in a frying pan and saute the onion until it is golden. Add to the casserole with the hot pepper, coconut milk, thyme, salt and pepper to taste and the rice. Make up the quantity of liquid to 4 cups with cold water, if necessary. Cover and cook over very low heat for 20 to 30 minutes, or until the rice is tender and all the liquid absorbed.

Serves 6.

If using fresh or canned gungo (pigeon peas) simply add with the rice. Do not cook them beforehand. If using dried pigeon peas, cook exactly as the beans, using 1 cup.

This is one of my favorite summertime drinks:

Rum Punch

1 ounce lime juice
1 ounce orange juice
1 ounce pineapple juice
1 ounce Grenadine
2 ounces light rum, (preferably Jamaican or Puerto Rican)
3 or 4 ice cubes
1 teaspoon confectioner's sugar
Nutmeg

Combine the juices, Grenadine, sugar, rum and ice cubes in a cocktail shaker and shake vigorously. Strain into a tall glass and grate a little nutmeg on the top.

Serves 1.

Baked Red Snapper In Wine Sauce

4-pound red snapper
½ cup olive oil
½ cup lemon juice
2 carrots, sliced
2 medium onions, sliced
Small bunch parsley
2 bay leaves
3 cloves garlic
2 teaspoons salt
¼ teaspoon peppercorns
One-third cup butter
2 cups dry white wine
Dash of cayenne
Lemon wedges, parsley sprigs and capers (optional)

Clean and scale red snapper. Place in shallow pan (not metal). Pour oil and lemon juice over fish, top with carrots, onions, parsley, bay leaves, garlic, salt and peppercorns. Marinate for 30 minutes.

Preheat oven to 350 degrees F. Remove fish from marinade and place in greased roasting pan. Reserve marinade. Dot fish with butter, add wine. Bake in preheated oven for 45 minutes, or until fish flakes easily. Baste frequently with wine.

When done, place fish on serving dish; keep in warm place. Add marinade, to wine in roasting pan and simmer for 10 minutes. Correct seasoning; add cayenne. Strain; pour over fish. Garnish with lemon wedges, parsley sprigs and capers, if desired.

Serves 8.

ETHNIC LOOK — It's popping up all over in the way we dress, decorate our homes and in our cuisines.

FISH IS A favorite dish in the Caribbean and is prepared in many ways. Here is a dish you can fix right in your own American home: Whiting with Lemon-Rice Stuffing.

Speaking of women. . .

(A look at what black women are doing locally.)

Do you know a dynamic woman — an outstanding community leader, church worker, businesswoman, mother, club woman — who is great in her own right? The AFRO wants to know about her. Send a brief biographical sketch and black and white glossy picture (or we can arrange to take a photo of her) to: Speaking of Women, c-o AFRO-AMERICAN NEWSPAPER, P.O.
