CLEAN BLOCKS ON THE MOVE

More bulk trash pick-ups

Now that winter is over, many residents in the city are ready to clean up and clear out trash and bulky items. This is great and they are to be admired after looking at the filth around the city. They've got a job on their hands and need city workers to help by picking up their rubbish after it has been piled up.

The problem is most people don't know the correct procedures that must be taken before the gigantic task begins.

First, a letter must be written to Edward J. Moore, sanitation chief, 1000 Municipal Building, Baltimore, Md. 21202. You should advise him of the date you would like to have a bulk trash pickup.

The letter, should state where you can be reached, at what phone number and the time, then someone will call to tell you if that date is available or the closest date to the one you requested.

Secondly, tell all the neighbors in the block what date the pick-up will be so they can put their bulk trash out the day before. This way the entire block can be cleaned up at one time.

The most important thing to remember is that, bulk trash is not automatically picked up. It must be scheduled. Regular trash collectors are not supposed to take this rubbish so don't get angry when they don't.

Orchids to Wesley Thomas and Sanitation Crew

Last week when neighbors in the 2200 blk. Madison Ave. decide to clean off the city-owned lots behind them, they didn't call or write to get bulk trash pick-up. They called Rev. Thomas early Saturday morning but he told them they would have to write at least two weeks in advance. They were very disappointed to hear this but since the neighbors were ready to work they went right ahead with their cleaning. When they finished they had 40 plastic bags plus piles of weeds and other junk which they boxed.

During the afternoon, the trash collectors were kind enough to take some of the bags and then other city trucks came and collected most of it and returned on Monday morning to get the rest. The neighbors are most grateful to Rev. Thomas and the sanitation workers who responded to their plea for help.

The people who piled junk sky high on the end of the lot early Monday morning after the 2200 Madison Ave. neighbors had just cleared it on Saturday. Thanks to Robert Eaves, supervisor Rat Eradication and crew for removing the junk.

2400 Lakeview Ave.

Tomorrow, 2400 Lakeview Ave. and its surrounding areas will have mass clean-up. Neighbors in this area are asked to put their rubbish in bags or boxes and neatly put it in the alleys. Mrs. Minnie Williams, AFRO Clean Block Advisor for the block from the city owned lot behind them. Saturday they did a mass clean-up since they haven't been able to get the city to clean the lot.

is heading this clean-up as she has in the past. This is the area with many apartment houses. The landlords and tenants have worked so well in the past trying to keep this area clean. Hope they continue this year.

TRASH, TRASH, EVERYWHERE — Neighbors in the 2200 block Madison Ave. are disgusted about this trash constantly blowing in their alley

Hoffberger denies Birds to fly off, even to D.C.

TAMPA, Fla. — In the strongest terms possible, Baltimore Orioles' owner Jerry Hoffberger vehemently denied Thursday that his team was for sale or that he planned on moving the franchise to Washington, D.C.

"There is no intention to dispose of the Baltimore Orioles and thereare absolutely no discussions in that regard," said Hoffberger, who is here to attend meeting of major league officials.

"We have not been approached to sell the Orioles. I repeat the word 'not' as strongly as I can. Any report that we have been involved in such discussions is simply another classic case of irresponsible reporting. I have said before and I repeat, our prime interest is the city of Baltimore."

Hoffberger said the Orioles have never received what he would call a bonafide offer to buy the team since 1966 when they beat the Dodgers for the world championship.

Hoffberger showed up at the meetings for the first time with a lawyer, Eugene Feinblatt of Baltimore.

It was believed that once and for all Hoffberger wanted to put a stop to all and any conjecture that he has even the slightest intention of moving his franchise to Washington or having someone "move it" for him.

It had been reported that baseball commissioner Bowie Kuhn was trying to get the Baltimore franchise sold to Washington interests and switched to the National League.

Although the Orioles were hurt badly by the loss of Reggie Jackson, Bobby Grich and Wayne Garland to the reentry draft last winter, Hoffberger predicted that this year would be an exciting one for Oriole fans.

"I think Baltimore is going to be an exciting young ball club this year," Hoffberger said. "I can't tell you how pleased I am with the way the team has been looking in spring training. I know spring training doesn't mean anything, but we have some guys who are working their bloody hearts out to do well this year. And nothing has made me happier than to see what I ams seeing now."

Pro-Am golf classic set at Pine Ridge May 13-15

Entries are now being taken for the Greater Baltimore Golf Classic Pro-Am which will be held at the Pine Ridge Golf course on Wednesday, May 11.

The Pro-Am will serve as a kickoff to the Greater Baltimore Golf Classic tournament which will be played at Pine Ridge May 13-15.

The tournament will feature the top lady players currently participating on the Ladies' Professional Golf Association tour.

Proceeds generated by the Pro-Am are one of the main sources of revenue raised by Golfers' Charitable Association for Children's Hospital, for which the Greater Baltimore Golf Classic is being held.

This year's Greater Baltimore Golf Classic will also be offering six spots to amateurs.

On Tuesday, May 10, at Pine Ridge (9 a.m.), a special amateur qualifying round will be played (18 holes, stroke play).

The six low scorers will be included in the Greater Baltimore Golf Classic that weekend.

To be eligible for the qualifying round, each participant must be carrying a qualified handicap of five or less.

900 BAPTISTS ATTEND ANNUAL FRED BANQUET

We've reached the top of the mountain' - Rev. Graves

"The home will have all the modern conveniences. We want this home and we will get this home. We are now at the top of the mountain."

The Rev. Dr. Lorenzo Graves Jr. made the above statement last Thursday at the annual FRED banquet (Fire, Renovation and Expansion Drive)

He was speaking to the 900 guests who attended the affair. An early morning blaze nearly destroyed the Maryland Baptist Aged Home at 2801 Rayner Ave. in January 1970.

The Fire Renovation Expansion Drive Committee (FRED) was then formed and banquets have been held each year to raise money for renovation and expansion of the home.

This year's banquet was held at Martin's West with Rev. Dr. T. J. Jemison sec[retary] Baptist Convention as speaker.

"When people have given their lives to the church, it is the church that ought to feel that gap and take care of these people," said the Rev. Dr. Jemison.

Groundbreaking ceremony for the new addition to the home was held last month. Contractors are expected to start building the new wing in the spring. However, there is still need for $28,000.

There are now 19 citizens living in the home and the new wing will include a nurses' station and space for at least 18 additional citizens.

The home, formerly located on Rayner Ave. since 1954 and was organized in 1920 under the leadership of the late Rev. Beal Elliott, Rev. D. G. Mack and Rev. P. C. Neal.

The move was formerly known as the Maryland Baptist Home for Aged Colored People was established to meet the need in the community for senior citizens.

The home is supported entirely by contributions made to it by Baptist Church and individuals.

Posthumously plaques were given to the Rev. Dr. Walter Paige in memory of his wife. Dr. Irene Paige and to the family of Rev. Boykins Jessie.

Dr. Paige was known as a diligent worker with the FRED banquet and has served on the committee since 1970.

The late Rev. Mr. Boykins, who was pastor of Mount Moriah Baptist Church was also an active member with the FRED committee.

ACTIVE RESIDENTS of the Maryland Baptist Home for the Aged who were able to attend the banquet are (L to R) Mrs. Carrie Peterson, 84 and Mrs. Viola Williams, 73.

The tremendous acceptance of the 1977 Cadillac and what it could mean to you.

Figures show the 1977 Cadillac is far and away the most successful new car in Cadillac history. The question is: Why? Why have so many Americans chosen to own what we proudly call the next generation of the luxury car...Coupe deVille, Sedan deVille and Fleetwood Brougham? Here are some of the reasons:

All the luxury and then some. It's every inch a Cadillac. With all the luxury, security and elegance you expect. And more. More efficient use of space than in 1976...more convenience...more maneuverability in city traffic.

It's a lively generation of luxury. Agile. With pickup—responsive performance that could surprise you.

Cadillac service. Your Cadillac dealer is equipped and committed to treating you like a Cadillac owner.

Advanced engineering. We used many Seville design concepts—taking advantage of some of the world's foremost automotive technology.

Added protection for your investment. Including extensive use of such corrosion-fighting materials as Zincrometal® panels and bimetal (stainless steel on aluminum) moldings.

The bottom line. In two of the most meaningful measurements of a car—resale value and repeat ownership—Cadillac consistently leads all U.S. luxury car makes.

But to fully understand its acceptance, you have to drive a 1977 Cadillac. Your Cadillac dealer would be delighted to arrange it. Leave it to Cadillac to lead the way.
