Walk-on boxing may move

The promoter of the World Walk-on Boxing Tournament says he may move the tournament elsewhere because it won't fly" in this city. Joe Quinones of Pro Productions, blamed bad local publicity and said he might hold the tournament in Washington, D.C., or Porland, Me.

Quinones said 200 boxers had signed up for the tournament that was scheduled to begin May 28 with a first prize of $10,000. He said he believed the same number of boxers would participate no matter where the matches were held.

"It will definitely be delayed for four or five weeks but we are going to put it on," he said Tuesday. "I don't know why it won't fly in Baltimore. We thought the city would back us but obviously it didn't!"

The Maryland State Athletic Commission last week withdrew its sanction for the tournament because the prize money was not deposited in an escrow account by the April 15 deadline.

Quinones claimed he mailed a $110,000 check April 15 to the bank for the prize money. He said it was only a technicality that the money was not in the bank until after the deadline.

NBC canceled earlier plans to televise parts of the tournament after the commission withdrew its sanction.

Quinones says he believes NBC will still back the idea if it can be produced elsewhere.

Wife's stabbing of Globie Meadowlark unexplained

NEW YORK (API) — Meadowlark Lemon, the 'Harlem Globetrotters' "Clown Prince of Basketball," was released from a New York hospital Wednesday morning after he was allegedly stabbed by his former wife with a steak knife in front of two police officers.

Lemon, 45, had been taken to Bellevue Hospital Tuesday evening with a stab wound in the back.

His 40-year-old ex-wife, Willie, spent the night in a New York City jail and was scheduled to be arraigned in Manhattan Criminal Court on first - degree assault charges. Police said it was not known what provoked the stabbing or why the Lemons, who live in Sierra Vista, Ariz., where in New York.

Police said Lemon, a 20-year veteran of the famous Globetrotters team, was driving in Manhattan at 5:30 p.m. and his former wife was tailgating him in another car, ramming her vehicle into th back of his.

Lemon then spotted police officers Richard Myers and James. As he got out, the former Mrs. Lemon leaped from her car and stabbed Lemon in the back with a steak knife, police said.

The officers helped get Lemon to the hospital, where the knife was removed, and arrested his former wife.

She was taken to the stationhouse, where she was charged and held overnight. Lemon, whose real first name is Meadow, joined the Globetrotters in 1954 and has appeared all over the world for the team, clowning in thousands of games.

Morgan schedules 2 new grid foes

Athletic director Earl Banks has announced the addition of University of Rhode Island and the University of Massachusetts to Morgan State's 1978 football schedule.

The Golden Bears, who finished with a disappointing 4-6-1 record last year, will open their season Sept 2 against University of Maryland, Eastern Shore in Princess Anne.

Coach Henry Lattimore will begin his third season with one of the toughest Morgan schedules in history.

'His car lights were turned on and policemen recognized him'

ST. LOUIS (UPI) — A man who says he witnessed the arrest of Leon Spinks Tuesday disputed the police version that the heavyweight boxer was stopped because the headlights on his car were not shining.

Don Taylor, associated with a storage firm, said he was in his car on the parking lot of a hamburger restaurant when Spinks was arrested at 4 a.m. last Friday.

"The lights on Spinks' car were on," Taylor said. "One of the policemen walked up to Spinks as soon as he drove on to the lot and asked him for his driver's license."

The officers who made the arrest said they did not recognize Spinks before talking to him on the lot.

"They knew who he was before they went up to him," Taylor said. "I heard one of them say, 'Hey, there's Leon Spinks.' "

Taylor came forward with his version because of an appeal by one of Spinks' lawyers, Forriss D. Elliott. Handbills distributed on the parking lot last weekend asked witnesses to call Elliott with details of the arrest.

"There are a number of unanswered questions," Elliott said. "We saw the police version. I'm looking for the other side."

The officers arrested Spinks because he did not have a driver's license. In searching Spinks they found cocaine and marijuana, and he also was charged with possession of those drugs.

The officers said one reason they arrested Spinks was because his companion Charlean Gunn, cursed and yelled at them.

Police criticized for the arrest say that on several occasions recently Spinks was stopped for traffic violations but not arrested. On one occasion an officer told Spinks to let his bodyguard drive the car, and Spinks complied.

On another occasion another officer stopped Spinks' car for an illegal left turn but did not give him a ticket and chatted with the boxer about his next fight. He then asked for an autograph.

A third officer said he stopped Spinks' car for going through a red light, but gave him only a warning.
