Could you use $8,100 for college?

Or for vocational or technical school? Or for other courses to further your education?

That's what the new Veterans Educational Assistance Program is all about.

Under VEAP, Uncle Sam will give servicemen or women two dollars for every one dollar they save for education.

For example, if they save the minimum of $50 a month, Uncle Sam will add an extra $100 per month to their education account. A total of $150! That's 2 for 1 for education.

The person who contributes the maximum of $75 a month for three years will build up $8,100 in his account with Uncle Sam's matching funds added in.

So the military services not only offer young people job-skill training, a good paycheck, and a chance to work up to their potential, but also an opportunity to continue their education.

For more specifics about

VEAP and other educational opportunities in the services, see your local Army, Navy, Air Force, or Marine recruiter.

VEAP. You get a lot more out of it than you put in.

Here's how VEAP works:

SHE'S EFFICIENT AND PRETTY TOO!

When Dawn Magazine set out to explore the world of records and the people behind them, it more or less overlooked the top-ranking women in the business.

So, to set the record straight, at left is Barbara Harris, who just happens to be an East Coast manager for ABC Records.

She's in charge of artist relations and publicity and got started in the business with the Queen-Agency, then gravitated to Atlantic Records, and finally, to ABC.

Q. Is it "Blue Collar" or "Blue Country" that the U.S. Catholic Conference "condemned"?

Doris Taylor Atlanta, Ga.

A. Both — for "Blue Country" an assault on wedlock — for "Blue Collar" a slick undergraduate cynicism pervades.

Q. On the cover of the July issue of a leading fashion magazine was the most beautiful girl I've even seen — who is she?

Yorktown, Va.

A. Shari Hilton who was also in the October issue of Glamour and is awaiting her arrival for Clairol advertisement on T.V. A Ford model with a Rolls Royce Face!

Q. Who is Patti Austin?

Jamie Lake Metuchen, N.J.

A. One of those rare singers who uses her voice like an instrument. Patti does commercial jingles as well as background singing for such singers as Paul Simon, Frankie Valle and Roberta Flack. She's been the voice behind a hundred hits.
