

Shown: 1979 Caprice Sedan in Silver Classic Custom Two-Tone

This is it, America.

This is the car more people buy today than any other.

The new generation full-size car loaded with advanced technology and proven in the hands of more than a million owners during its first two years on the market.

And as you can see, The New Chevrolet is still one of the newest new cars around.

Crisp. Contemporary.

Efficient in its use of space,
materials and fuel.

More efficient with space.

The New Chevrolet is a comfortable 6-passenger car with more head room and more rear-seat leg room than the 1976 full-size Chevrolet it replaced.

It also has more usable luggage space in the trunk, all laid out for easy loading and unloading.

More efficient with fuel.

The New Chevrolet is more efficient with fuel than the '76 full-size Chevrolet.

EPA mileage estimates for 1979 are 21 mpa highway, 16 city with the available 5.0 Litre (305 Cu. In.) V8 and automatic transmission. Estimates lower in California.

Your mileage will vary depending on how and where you drive, your car's condition and available equipment.

(The New Chevrolet is equipped with GM-built engines produced by various divisions. See your dealer for details.)

More reasons to buy.

You'll love its clean and classic look, its smooth and quiet ride, its strong and solid Body by Fisher.

Automatic transmission, power steering, power brakes and radial tires are all standard. Choice of Sedan, Coupe or Wagon. It all adds up to what we call "deep-down Chevy value."

Talk to your Chevrolet dealer soon about buying or leasing a 1979 Caprice or Impala, also known as "The New Chevrolet." It's the car America has driven to the top.

Enthusiastically.

Chevrolet

NATIONAL ROUNDUP

By Larry A. Still and Art Carter

HOPE FOR LAWYERS: The path has been cleared for the appointment of some new federal judges. The search is on, following the signing of the bill creating 152 new federal judgeships, and there seems no reason why a fair number of these judgeships should not go to minority candidates. The bill provides the biggest expansion in federal judiciary history, calling for 35 new judges on the courts of appeal and 117 on the federal district courts, with the hope that the mounting backlog of cases now pending in federal courts will be reduced Of the 525 active federal judges, only 29 are black or Hispanic and only nine women, almost half of whom were appointed by President Carter. Thus, the new bill gives Carter the opportunity to improve the situation which he once described as a "disturbing feature of the federal judiciary: the almost complete absence of women, or menbers of the minority groups."

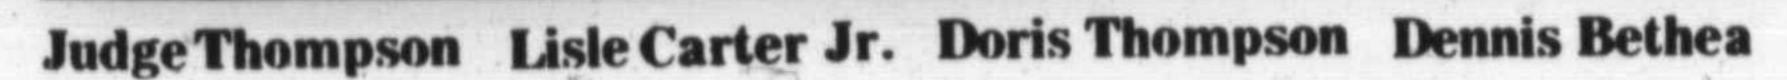

Speaking about law, Judge William S. Thompson of the District Superior Court in Washington, D.C. was in Madrid, Spain, recently, formulating plans for the 1979 World Law Conference to be held there. Along with Charles R. Rhyne, president of the World Peace Through Law Center, Thompson had an audience with His Majesty Juan Carlos, King of Spain, who accepted the honorary presidency of the conference and will deliver the inaugural address at the Conference's opening on Sept. 17, 1979. This will mark the ninth biennial gathering in the history of the World Peace Through Law Center, of which Judge Thompson is secretary-general. Headquarters against South Africa and Rhodesia. Whispering among some Africans about his influence have been going the rounds since the visit of Ian Smith. It just goes to show that somebody will disagree with you no matter what the NATIONAL HONORS: Among the Ten Outstanding Young Women of American for 1978 recently honored at the TOYW awards luncheon in Washington, D.C. was Alexis M. Herman, director of the Women's Bureau with the U.S. Department of Labor and daughter of the late Alex Herman and Mrs. Gloria Caponis of Mobile, Ala. Incidentally, Ms. Herman was the 1977 Woman of the Year for the National Black Women's Political Caucus . . Texas Congresswoman Barbara Jordan, who is closing out her congressional career, has been presented the 1978 Impact Award of the YWCA of Germantown, Mo. In accepting the award, Rep. Jordan praised the YWCA for helping women to make a contribution to society and declared "Only we as individuals working together can make our purpose a reality" . Larkin Arnold, who made a reputation as an executive at Capitol Records, has been appointed senior vice president of Artista Records. He will be based in the firm's Los Angeles office Bayard Rustin, president, A. Phillip Randolph Institute, was awarded the Stephen Wise Award at the annual American Jewish Congress award dinner in New York City. Rustin has been in a leadership role with the civil rights activists since the first

Freedom Ride in 1947. He also served with Martin Luther King Jr. for seven kin Arnold Jewel Lafontant Reggie Smith

Dedgas.

Andrew Young

for the Center is at 1000 Connecticut Ave., N.W., Washington, D.C., 20006.

A former 99th Fighter Squadron pilot, Elwood T. Driver, has been named vice chairman of the National Transportation Safety Board by President Carter. Driver, a native of Trenton, N.J., who served in Italy with the 99th and 332nd Fighter Group, with Col. Benjamin O. Davis Jr., was appointed last January to the board to serve out the remainer of the term expiring Dec. 21, 1980. Prior to the appointment, Driver had been with the U.S. Department of Transportation as director of the Office of Crashworthiness, Motor Vehicle Programs, at the National Safety Traffic Administration . . . Another appointment of note recently was that of Thomas S. Williamson Jr. of Washington, D.C. to be deputy inspector general of the Department of Energy. Williamson will be one of the highest ranking black administrators and policy makers in the new Department of Energy. A native of Plainfield, New Jersey, he had been associated with the prestigious law firm of Covington and Burling prior to the appointment.

Back in August, U.S. United Nations Ambassador Andrew Young told a Baptist convention group that some day the American people will appreciate that the fact that he told "the truth about racial conditions and political prisoners," and a few weeks later at the Congressional Black Caucus' annual dinner, President Carter had high priase for "Andy Young" and insisted that Young would be in the administration as long as he wanted to be as long as I am president." Young has been commended highly by almost all top executives in the Administration for his good work with the African countries and his ability to get their understanding and cooperation at the UN... Now, however, just a few months later as the year ends, Young is on the spot again. This time with his African associates at the UN for his inability to get the United States on the right track in the political fight years.... Dennis Bethea, a former Peace Corps volunteer in Ethiopia and a recruiter in Philadelphia, Pa. and Athens, Ohio, has been accepted in the Peace Corps Fellows Program. Bethea, Meri Ames of Daly City, Calif. and Merry Susan Hancks of Lincoln County, Kan., are the three Peace Corps Fellows to be accepted in the program after a hiatus of eight years. The Fellows recruit, train and prepare volunteers for overseas assignments.

Dr. George P. Tolbert, associate director, Bureau of Community Health Services, Department of Health, Education and Welfare, in Rockville, Md., has been awarded the "Administrator's Award for Excellence," the highest honor conferred by HEW for "contributions to the work of the agency." Dr. Tolbert, who has degrees from Dillard, Howard and University of Michigan, has been in community health services since 1972. . . . Jewel Lafontant, former deputy solicitor general of the United States, was elected to the board of directors of the Hanes Corporation, the first black person to serve on the board of the Winston - Salem, N.C. company. LaFontant is the senior ' partner in the Chicago law firm of Lafontant, Wilkins and Fisher and serves as special assistant attorney general for the state of Illinois Doris C. Thompson is the civil rights director of the Environmental Protection Agency, directing the agency's accelerated efforts in minority hiring. She is a native of Washington, D.C. . . . Lisle C. Carter Jr., former chancellor of the Atlanta University Center in Georgia, recently was inaugurated as the first president of the University of the District of Columbia public institutions - D.C. Teachers College, Federal City College and Washington Technical Institute. . . . Los Angeles Dodgers superstar Reggie Smith is serving as national honorary chairman of the National Association for Sickle Cell Disease.