Bears have dual incentive in Saturday homecoming

Coach Clarence Thomas and his Morgan State football team have two outstanding reasons to perform at peak Saturday afternoon at Hughes Stadium.

The Golden Bears will be entertaining A and T in their annual homecoming game. And they will be bent on continuing the victory ride that has netted them five wins in six outings to date.

Additionally, they will be hoping to create a pleasant atmosphere at the Morgan Athletic Hall of Fame where eight new inductions are scheduled later in the day.

The eight to be enshrined in ceremonies at Kellin Center are Anthony Driver, football 1929; Ben Hawkins, basketball-football 1938; Laura Robinson Jones, tennis-basketball 1938; George "Rosie" Rosedom, football 1934; Harry Gross, track 1950; Carl Whitted, basketball 1953; Howard Morgan, track 1954, and Ken Kaye, track 1956.

Highlighting the homecoming weekend, of course, will be football game.

Based on their respective records, the Bears figure to be heavily favored when they take the field against the Aggies.

Morgan, as stated earlier, boasts five victories and one defeat. A and T, on the other hand, has managed but three wins against four losses.

And against common foes, Morgan holds a distinct edge.

A Maryland, Eastern Shore team, for example, that defeated A and T, 16-6, was virtually buried by Morgan, 41-8. And defending MEAC champion South Carolina State eleven was manhandled, 27-16, by the Bears just 10 days after the Bulldogs had thumbed the Aggies, 23-3.

As is the case in all traditional rivalries, however, the past performance chart means little on Morgan-A and T game days.

Invariably, the favorite is upset or is hard pressed in victory to escape embarrassment.

Few have forgotten, especially among Morganites, that the Aggies won last two, 28-0 in 1977 and 25-0 last year.

Bears coach Thomas, QB Coulter hit it off at once

By Samuel Davis

The first time they met Morgan State coach Clarence Thomas and his freshman quarterback Darrell Coulter sensed an aura of compatibility.

Coulter, who has opened up the Bear offense this season like it hasn't been for a while, was scouted by Thomas playing for a losing team at Burke High School in Charleston S.C.

"He had something I really [illegible]. It was the way [illegible] people," Thomas told the AFRO. "I think [illegible] off all the way. He has a great attitude, which was one of the first things to impress me. That and his supreme confidence."

Because of his 5-foot 10-inch, 160-pound build, there were some questions as to whether the Physical Education major, could survive in the Mid-Eastern Athletic Conference.

He has proved that not only can he survive, but do it with fringe benefits.

Since the season began, he has paced the conference in passing. Currently he has 46 completions in 102 attempts for 705 yards and eight touchdowns. He has been intercepted but four times.

To Thomas, it is satisfying that Coulter, who calls his own plays, has not been affected by his success.

"One thing that makes it all work for Darrell is that he is an humble and religious kid who does not go on an ego trip," Thomas said.

"Because of that basic nature, he is well liked by everyone on the team. That is what makes him a good leader," he added.

"I'm not really interested in pesrsonal credit," Coulter explained. "The things I do are for the benefit of the team, not just me."

"My father always told me, its one thing to know you're good and brag about it, but to know you are and keep it to yourself is something else."

One of Coulter's top receivers this season has been Clarence Holzendorf. The 5-10, junior flanker has been on the end of 14 Coulter passes for 277 yards and three touchdowns.

"He's a serious quarterback with a lot of talent," Holzendorf said. "He's about the best they've had around here in a long time."

"He gives us an extra ingredient and he's a great leader on and off of the field," said defensive standout Elvis Franks who was a bit frustrated with last year's offense after helping to build the defense to respectability.

"When I played with im over the summer he had a lot of confidence and it has spilled over to the season."

Coulter's most outstanding games thus far in the season were against Maryland-Eastern Shore and South Carolina State.

On both occasions he passed for well over 200 yards. South Carolina entered the game sporting the conferences best defensive unit, first in every category. Darrell set out to prove to the Bulldogs that his size was adequate, because according to him when he was recruited by them in Orangeburg which isn't far from his hometown, he didn't get a fair chance. Coulter hit 15 of 265 passes for 232 yards and four touchdowns.

That was the first time a Morgan quarterback had passed for two consecutive 200-yard games since Allen Rose did it in 1977.

After both games, Coulter was voted by the Eastern Collegiate Athletic Association Player of the Week.

"Gulf helps me put college-bound students on the right course."

Kids with a keen eye and a steady hand could very well become doctors. Or engineers. Or whatever else this country needs. They have the potential to make great contributions to America's growth. But they don't have the money for higher education. And that's what the Lee Elder Tournament and Scholarship Fund is all about.

Gulf thinks too much potential is wasted because minority youngsters don't have the money for college. Our business is energy. But our investment is in people. And we want students to be able to improve their minds as well as their game. That's why we support Lee Elder's efforts. MSA weekend lineup lists crucial contests

By Samuel Davis

Just four games are scheduled in the Maryland Scholastic Association this weekend, but they could be important.

Mervo, currently on top in "B" conference with a 3-0-1 record and boasting one of the conference's best defenses, meets an equally tough team in Edmondson at Edmondson.

The Mustangs have allowed but 14 points in four contests while the Redskins have yielded just 28 in five games while winning four.

"There's no doubt this will prove to be the biggest game we play this year," said Mervo coach Bud Waesche. "I saw them in their win over Dunbar and they are a big, well-coached team. We're going to have to put out 100 percent, and a break here or there may make the difference."

The Mustangs' biggest problem will be stopping the conference's second leading scorer, Renny Johnson, who has tallied 42 points including six touchdowns.

The battle between Northern and Lake Clifton is another big one.

The Lakers are tied for second place with Edmondson, showing the same record as the Redskins.

Northern is trying to turn things around from her 3-2 record.

Northern was unbeaten in league play until she ran into Dunbar (14-12) and Mervo which scored a 14-0 shutout.

Despite the team's sudden slump, running back DeVane Trent continues to lead the conference in scoring with 44 points and seven touchdowns.

Douglass and Forest Park play at Douglass, and both of these teams need the same thing, a win.

Douglass did manage to register a conference win with a 16-8 thriller over Walbrook.

The Ducks, who have lost three games, continue to depend heavily upon Chauncey Adams, who is fourth in the conference in scoring, while the Foresters will take anyone who can score. They have managed just 36 points in seven outings.

Walbrook found out what winning was like, beating the winless Carver Bears, 14-0, last week. This week the Warrior2 meet Patterson in a non-conference contest.

The Clippers have allowed 131 points while fighting for a 2-4-1 overall record, but they show a 1-2 conference mark, which is good enough for second place in "A" conference Division II.

Northwestern, showing a 1-5-1 overall mark and a 1-2 conference record, is tied for second place with Patterson.

The Wildcats are playing at Loyola this week. Loyola also has a 1-2 conference mark, but unlike the Wildcats, the record is good enough for third place in Division I.

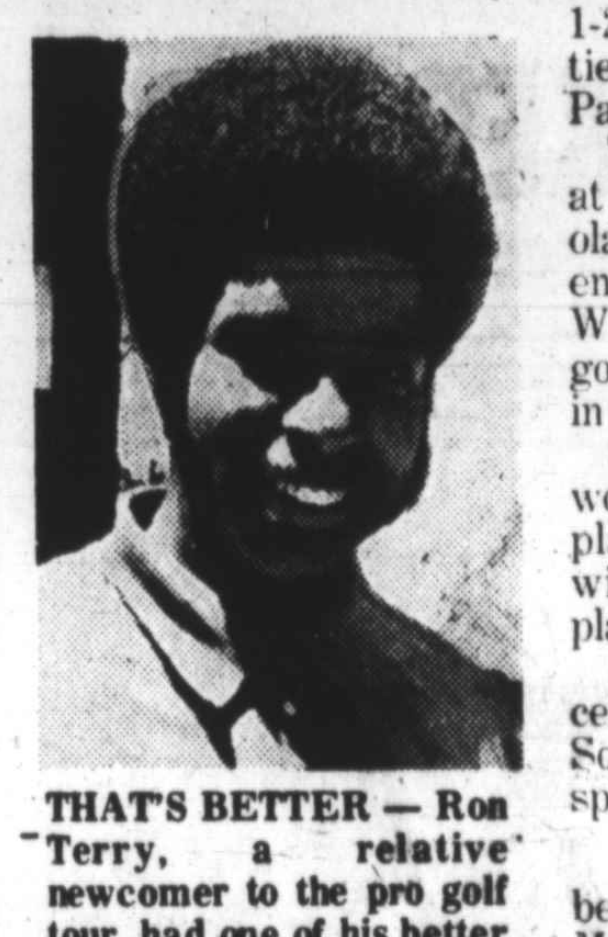
Southwestern which has won two non-league games plays Southern, another winless team in league play.

Southwestern is in the cellar in Division I, while Southern shares the same spot, but in Division II.

Poly, which came from behind 14 points to defeat McDonough and earn first place in "A" conference Division II last week, is at Salesianum.

Saturday's only game pits Carver against Dunbar on the Bears' field.

Although it is their stomping ground, the Bears have yet to have anything to stomp about, sitting at the bottom of "B" conference without a win.



THAT'S BETTER — Ron Terry, a relative newcomer to the pro golf tour, had one of his better outings last weekend. He picked up a $1,034 check in the Pensacola Open, finishing 11 strokes behind winner Curtis Strange.

HIS SILVER EYES GOLD — Trainer Luke Hawkins, shown with old standby Acorn Squash, has entered 2 - year - old Silver Prospector in two of three upcoming rich stakes. Silver, owned by D.C. Lawyer Frank de Francis, is eligible for tomorrow's (Saturday) $175,000 Maryland Futrity at Pimlico, the $250,000 Young Amrica Nov. 3 at Meadowlands, and the $150,000 Remsen Nov. 11 at Aqueduct. Hawkins will try two but not all three.
