Autopsy fails to end suspicion in S.C. cases

By Michael Patterson
AFRO Staff Writer

CHESTER, S.C. — Results of a second autopsy performed on the body of Mickey McClinton indicate that he bled to death after being hit by a car, but Southern Christian Leadership Conference (SCLC) officials and McClinton's parents still think he was killed by whites who resented his dating a white girl.

SCLC field secretary Golden Frinks, McClinton's parents and supporters of "The Chester Movement for Justice" had demanded that the state exhume McClinton's body and perform a second autopsy in the presence of a black pathologist who would determine whether the 18-year-old youth died "under suspicious circumstances."

Dr. Robert Reddick, the black University of North Carolina pathologist who helped perform the second autopsy on McClinton, said he believes the hit-and-run incident in which McClinton died may or may not have been the result of foul play. And he said there is no truth to the rumors that the youth was castrated and had his tongue cut out.

"His male organs were very much intact," Reddick said. "He was missing a section of his tongue, but that is normal in an incident of this type," Reddick added, explaining that in auto accidents the victims sometimes bite off their own tongues.

Frinks doesn't think McClinton was accidentally killed.

Frinks said he thought McClinton had been dragged behind a motor vehicle and left dead on the rural, back country road on which his body was found on May 10.

McClinton is the fourth Chester resident to die suspiciously in the past three years. All of the dead individuals were dating interracially. This later fact, Frinks thinks, is directly related to the deaths.

Civil rights advocates aren't alone in still suspecting foul play.

Frinks said the Civil Rights Division of the U.S. Justice Department has already conducted a preliminary investigation of McClinton's death and he is hoping that the department will conduct a full-scale investigation.

Russ McKinney, a spokesman for South Carolina Governor Richard W. Riley, said the governor has ordered the South Carolina Law Enforcement Division to conduct a complete investigation into McClinton's death.

"The governor has ordered the state law enforcement division and the state attorney general's office to speed up their investigation of the McClinton case," said McKinney. "The case is being investigated as a hit-and-run homicide."

Elliot Poag, McClinton's stepfather, recalled the night his son died.

Poag, says his son left his home on the night of May 10 after receiving a phone call about 11:30 p.m.

"He didn't wear any shoes and he didn't tell anyone where he was going, but he left in a hurry," Poag said.

About a half-hour later, a group of five black women returning from their night shift jobs at a local textile factory found McClinton lying dead in the road about a mile and a half from his home.

Poag said, "Mickey had no business on that road." He said the youth did not usually associate with anyone who lived on the street.

Now that the second autopsy performed on McClinton's body has dispelled the theory that the slain young man was dragged behind a motor vehicle, Frinks said he believes that McClinton was lured from his home by the phone call and then picked up by his murderers, who beat him and dumped him on the road before deliberately running him over.

He said there have been too many suspicious deaths involving interracial daters in the area to accept hit-and-run accident theory.

Frinks said there is no open Ku Klux Klan presence in the Chester area. However, he said the county has flooded with Klan literature shortly after an Oct. 12 march in which several thousand demonstrators joined the SCLC leaders.

STILL HAS THE EVIDENCE — Ella Mae Franklin shows the AFRO the bloodstained clothes her son was wearing at the time of his death, which was classified as a "suicide." She says the bloodstains in the crotch area of the pants on her lap are evidence that 21-year-old James Franklin was castrated before being lynched in 1976. The young man was found hanging from a dog leash tied to a tree, 12 days after a white man reportedly called her and threatened to kill her son if he didn't stop seeing his daughter.

Question K and Baltimore

Question K is Rent Control, and Rent Control is a Bad Deal for Baltimore Renters and Homeowners

QUESTION K MEANS . . .

■ FEWER PLACES TO LIVE

Rent control means an even worse shortage of quality rental housing. Under Question K, single-family rentals and row houses will be sold to would-be homeowners, and existing apartments will be converted to condominiums. Renters who can't afford to buy at today's high prices will be forced to move out—and that means immediate, wholesale displacement. New units won't be built in a rent-controlled community, and as older buildings deteriorate, abandonment quickly sets in. We will have fewer and fewer available places to live, especially for renters.

■ NEIGHBORHOODS AND HOUSING DETERIORATE

Under Question K, rental property owners will lose any incentive to maintain or improve rental housing. They'll cut costs and corners wherever they can. Plumbing and electrical repairs will be put off, old appliances and fixtures kept, peeling walls left unpainted and needed outside repairs ignored. Our shelter and our neighborhoods will begin to decay.

When the quality of a neighborhood declines, the value of its homes also drops. As a result, single-family homes will lose much of their resale value.

■ A COSTLY GOVERNMENT BUREAUCRACY AND HIGHER RENTS

First, Question K creates yet another costly city bureaucracy that we'll all have to pay for. Estimated price tag for the first year alone is $3,120,000. And it's in the law that rental property owners can pass their share of the cost along to their renters!

Second, in many cases Question K will actually mean higher rents for Baltimore renters. Because arbitrary limits and allowable increases would be imposed citywide, many owners would automatically take the maximum allowable increase "just to play it safe." In many cases that will mean substantial increases for 1979–80, a great deal more than most Baltimoreans are now experiencing.

■ HIGHER PROPERTY TAXES

Rent control will lower the value of residential rental properties which make up the bulk of Baltimore's critically important tax base. Lower rental property values mean a tax loss to the City—estimated at over $235,000,000 in the next ten years. Homeowners will be forced to pick up the slack in the form of higher property taxes and fees, a loss of city services, or both.

■ AN END TO OUR ECONOMIC PROGRESS

Rent Control Question K means an immediate halt to neighborhood renovation and new housing construction, and that means a significant reduction in jobs and private investment. Faced with higher taxes, reduced city services, neighborhood decay and a shortage of quality housing, business and industry will look elsewhere. The result: We lose the jobs and tax dollars they should be providing. It's important that we provide jobs and housing for young adults so that our children can make their homes in Baltimore.

■ A BAD DEAL FOR BALTIMORE

Baltimore doesn't need rent control. During the past year, for example, Baltimore City rental rate increases averaged less than 3 to 5.7 percent. And for over a decade now, rents have risen at less than half the general inflation rate.

The fact is, restrictive rent controls like Question K have been a proven failure wherever they've been tried—in cities like New York, Boston, Miami and Washington, D.C. Baltimore knows better.

What Baltimore City needs is better housing, neighborhood improvement, a streamlined system for code enforcement and a workable method for resolving owner-renter differences. Question K does none of these things, it only makes our housing problems worse.

On Tuesday Vote "NO" on Question K
