More than 500 persons are expected to attend the Second Annual Freedom Heritage Awards Banquet of the Lillie Carroll Jackson Musuem tonight, Friday at the Blue Crest North, 401 Reisterstown Road.

Raymond Boone, editor and vice president, AFRO-AMERICAN Newspapers is the guest speaker and will address the theme, "Building on the work of Dr. Lillie Jackson."

The 1979 Freedom Heritage Awards will be presented to Mrs. Elizabeth M. Oliver, crusading journalist and city editor, AFRO-AMERICAN Newspapers; James Rouse, fair housing and in memoriam to Dr. J.E.T. Camper, longtime NAACP and political leader.

The Lillie Carroll Jackson Musuem, founded and headed by Mrs. Virginia Kiah, daughter of Dr. Jackson, aims to preserve the life stories of freedom fighters of all races in the struggle for justice for black Americans, in the hopes that men, women and children will be inspired to give of them-selves in the continuing struggle for equality under the law.

The Museum is located at 1320 Eutaw Place, the home where Dr. Jackson lived for several years before she died in 1975. She was a pioneer in the civil rights movement and was known as the "Mother of CivilRights," and served as Baltimore Branch NAACP president for over 30 years.

The Musuem is open Tuesdays and Thursdays from 1:30 p.m. to 5 p.m. and on Sundays by appointment. The admission is free.

Friends to salute Rev. William Calhoun

"To face the future bravely
With the vim to follow through,
To stand upon the threshold,
With God's hand held out to you.
To give Him better service,
And to make each day your best,
To meet His full approval,
As He brings you to a test.
God will lead you through dark waters,
He will bring you to the light;
He will lead you through the valley,
He'll be with you in the night.
And so, just take each day
With the faith to understand
That you'll win the battle you're waging
If your Shepherd holds your hand."

Mrs. Hall, 98, was avid sports fan

Mrs. Idella Hall

Triumphant services, celebrating the long and productive life of the matriarch of an American family, Idella Thompson Hall . . . were held here in Baltimore, Thursday, November 1.

Friends and relatives, including representatives of six generations were in attendance at the help - long rites held at Whitestone Baptist Church, where her son, the Rev. William H. Thompson is minister.

Mrs. Hall, who celebrated her 98 birthday on April 17, had been active and alert until October 27, when she suffered a heart attack while watching her favorite Baltimore Orioles lose a World Series game.

Her granddaughter, Dr. Jean Camper Cahn, dean of Antioch Law School in Washington, recalled she had been an avid sports spectator all her life and enjoyed sports of all kinds, but was particularly fond of the Orioles and she had promised to see that she got to the next game.

The Rev. Dr. A. C. Vaughn, president of the Baptist Ministers presided at the services, which featured tributes by the Rev. C. C. Alexander, Eastside Baptist; Rev. James Everett, New Shiloh, Turner Station; Rev. Milton Lemons Patapsco Park Baptist; and the Rev. Leslie A. Dyson, Union Memorial Methodist, who gave the eulogy.

All told of Mrs. Hall's dedication to serving others, recalling she was a person who didn't make a lot of noise, but told a great story by her example.

She was hailed as one who overcame great odds and lived to see her own children - and grands 'achieve great things'.

The church choir sang, and there were musical tributes by Miss Edna Lock and John Highsmith and acknowledgements by Mrs. Anethia Williams.

Burial was in Arbutus Memorial Park, with the Russ Funeral Home in charge.

Born April 17, 1881 in Jones County, Ga., Mrs. Hall was the daughter of Elizabeth and Judge Griggs, both slaves, who had married when Mrs. Griggs was just 14.

Daughter, Idella, grew up in Georgia and suffered the hardships which were common to former slaves and their families who struggled to make a living as tenant farmers during the Reconstruction Days following the Civil War. She often recalled for relatives those torturous times and exhibited the fortitude and wit and faith in God sustained her.

She married the Rev. Turner Howard Thompson, a Methodist minister in Macon, Ga. He died in 1914. Three of the five children of this marriage survived. They are the Rev. William Thompson and Caesar J. Thompson, both of Baltimore; and Mrs. J. E. T. Camper (Florine), wife of the Baltimore physician and civil rights leader.

In 1925, following the death of her second husband, James Hall, Mrs. Hall moved to Baltimore, making her home with her daughter and son - in - law, Dr. and Mrs. Camper. She was stricken on October 18 and died on October 27 at University Hospital.

In addition to the two sons and daughter, she is survived by a sister, Rebecca Woodall of Detroit; 15 grandchildren, 13 great - great grandchildren, 5 great - great grandchildren and one great - great - great grandchild, whom she lived to see, two month old Trevor Archer, son of Lenneen and Paul Archer of Upper Marlboro, Md. Representatives of each generation of the family were in attendance at the memorial services. Greats and grands - in - law were among pallbearers, Edgar and Jonathan Cahn of D.C. Dennis Camper, Frank Jones Sr. and Arthur Fisher of Hyattsville.

Among them were, Mrs. Gloria Herring, Robert and Michael Thompson, all of New York; Mrs. Diane Edwards; Los Angeles; William Thompson, Wilmington, N.C.; Mrs. Susie Tinsley, D.C.; Mrs. Sallie Hutchins, Laura Marsh, Rosalee Hayes, Luther Spiller, Alice Donaldson and Roosevelt Griggs, all of Detroit; and Mrs. Katie Lowe, a half - sister of Detroit. Leon Owens Sr. was Royal Theatre musician

Leon Owens Sr., popular musician and member of the old Royal Theatre house band and the Rivers Chambers Music group, died suddenly at his home Oct. 19.

Mr. Owens played the alto saxophone and worked at the Royal in the 1940's and '50's. He had his own group and played in Paris in the '40's.

Called "a musician's musician," he was described as "the kind of musician other musicians had respect for. . . a perfectionist who reads music and follows it well. A disciplined musician is what you'd call a musician's musician."

Mr. Owens, 57, was born in Baltimore to the late Ira and Marion Owens. His father was his first music teacher. He graduated from old Fredrick Douglass high school and worked for the U.S. government until he retired because of illness.

He is survived by his wife, Mrs. Eulalie Owens two sons, Leon Owens Jr. and David I. Owens and three granddaughters.

Funeral services were held Oct. 24 at Ames Memorial United Methodist Church at Carey and Baker streets.
