National prexy speaks at Baptist convention

Dr. Joseph H. Jackson, president of the National Baptist Convention Inc. U.S.A. was the guest speaker May 23 for the 54th annual clossing session of the United Missionary Convention and Auxiliaries of Maryland.

The four day session was held at Wayland Baptist Church, 3200 Garrison Blvd., where the Rev. Darneal Johnson is pastor.

"Close Encounters, Christ the Center and Our Christian Witness for the Eighties," was the theme.

Speaking of the church, Dr. Jackson stated, "In order to build a church, there must be a preacher of the gospel. You can't build a church by cursing people out. You have to preach the gospel and you can't preach the gospel unless your heart is in tune with the people. Any preacher to busy to pray is to weak to preach.

Dr. Jackson has served as president of the National Baptist Convention since 1953. He is the pastor of Mt. Olivet Baptist Church in Chicago and was described as a "dynamic unique leader."

The Rev. Dr. Matthew R. Silver, pastor of Concord Baptist Church is president of the United Baptist Missionary Convention and its Auxiliaries of Maryland and Mrs. Betty Johnson is president of the women's auxiliary. Rev. John Bryant marks 5th year as Bethel pastor

The Rev. John R. Bryant will celebrate his fifth anniversary as pastor of Bethel AME Church on June 1. Bethel is located at Druid Hill Avenue and Lanvale Street.

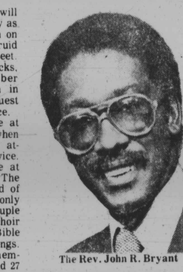
The Rev. E. Beecher Hicks, pastor of the 5,000 member Metropolitan Baptist Church in Washington, D. C. will be guest preacher at the 6 p.m. service.

Rev. Bryant's first service at Bethel was May 18, 1975 when there were only 320 people attending the 11 a.m. service. Speaking of his first service at Bethel, Rev. Bryant says, "The worship experience was kind of subdued. The church was only open on Sundays and on a couple of days in the week for choir rehearsal. There was no Bible study and no prayer meetings. There were only about 20 members in the Sunday school and 27 active missionaries."

Coming from a New England church, where there had been standing room only, it was hard for the young minister to adjust, he admits. Rev. Bryant says, "At St. Paul AME Church in Cambridge, we had so many members that we had to go to the auditorium of MIT on the high holy days of the church. We had built a tremendous music department, had closed circuit television and had created an exuberant worship experience. The membership was 1,200 at St. Paul when Rev. Bryant returned to Baltimore.

He says, "I was offered this chance to come back home by the then presiding Bishop Henry W. Murph. I wanted to come because it was home and I had grown up in Bethel and my father had once pastored it.

I knew that the church was having problems, but I also realized the potential it had. I never imagined it would be what it is today."



The Rev. John R. Bryant

Today, Bethel is one of the largest churches in the city. From that first Sunday in 1975, the membership has grown from 600 to over 4,000. There are nine choirs and the Sunday school has the largest enrollment in the Episcopal district. Under the guidance of Rev. Bryant, the church reinstituted Bible study and prayer meetings and both those activities draw large numbers of people weekly.

The church sponsors a food-co-op, under the direction of the Henry McNeil Turner Society, a project which draws people from all over the city to take advantage of the money saving potential.

The outreach center served the community at large, providing food and clothing and emergency funds, as they are available. The missionary department, under the supervision of Mrs. Cecelia Williams Bryant, has grown to over 600 in membership. The Outreach of Love Broadcasts are heard not on ly on local radio stations but also in some countries in the Caribbean.

Since Rev. Bryant has been pastor of Bethel, 23 people have accepted the call to preach and six of the 23 were recently ordained, one of whom was a woman.

Rev. Bryant feels that there is more to do. However, he would like the church to institute more worship services as the membership grows and space becomes less. Although the church recently underwent a massive renovation, the Sunday services still draw too many people to be adequately seated. Rev. Bryant believes that the "worship experience is the greatest experience in the world" and would like to adopt the methods used by Roman Catholics and have three and four services throughout the day.

The minister says he would like to start a church and get a small storefront and send one of the preachers, let it lean on Bethel until it got on its feet and then let it go.

Another one of Rev. Bryant's dreams is to start a television ministry, something he feels vital to reach the mass numbers of people who for some reason cannot or will not go to church.

Bethel is not all that it can be, he says. Rev. Bryant would like the percentage of people who are members and who attend church regularly to increase, he would like the church to buy more property and would like for the Sunday school to grow even more. The church now employs 19 full and part-time employees, but that is something Rev. Bryant would also like to increase.

Minister's wife writes third book

Dr. Weptanomah Washington Carter, wife of the Rev. Dr. Harold A. Carter, pastor of New Shiloh Baptist Church, Fremont Avenue and Lanvale Street, has written her third book, "For Such a Time as This."

She is also the author of The Black Minister's Wife, Prayer Makes A Difference and Uplifting and Challenging Messages. The book, For Such a Time as This, will certainly grip one with the relevance of messages presented in it. The messages touch on so many facets of every Christian's encounters with life.

The fact that the messages are all biblically documented make them useful not only for public presentations, but also for group study and meditative purposes. The book definitely speaks to this age and is very much up to date. A further study of the messages is that they have been given by the author in varied settings around the country, including Anchorage, Alaska. She dedicates her latest book to her daughter, Miss Weptanomah B. Carter who is a student at Eastern College.

Dr. Carter is a graduate of the State College in Millersville, Pa., and is the first woman to have earned the master of divinity degree from Virginia Seminary in Lynchburg, Va. She also received the honorary degree, doctor of literature, from the same school.

She also has a son, Harold Carter Jr., who also attends Eastern College and in addition to her writing career, she is the dean of the department of church administration at the Maryland Baptist School of Religion and is heard widely as a speaker and lecturer in church and religious functions.

MEMORIAL BAPTIST CHURCH

"GO OUT INTO THE WORLD AND PREACH THE GOSPEL"...

Some women had a vision. They met and prayed. Truly God was in their midst, for out of the meeting, a great church was created. The Reverend C. Edward Browne was called and the Peoples' Church of Baltimore City was organized on May 15, 1915. After having worshipped at three edifices, in 1919, the site at Bond and Jefferson Streets was purchased.

Good, sincere christians made up that beautiful church. The Reverend C. Edward Browne was truly a man of God. He led his flock and gave love that was showered on the parishioners. He was a man of all seasons. His sermons were uplifting, heard and repeated by the children.

REV. C. EDWARD BROWN, Founder

Every Christmas, the Senior Choir and friends would sing throughout East Baltimore. Many times, they were invited into homes for cocoa and cookies. Later, this same group started singing at the Johns Hopkins Hospital, a practice that has continued to the present time. Truly a "Church Outside the Walls"... Fortunately, we had some of the best trained musicians of the city as pianists and directors. To name a few, Mr. William Maddox, first Chairmaster, Mrs. Julice Mae Williams, first organist. Following them were: Mr. Aladdin Redmond, Mrs. Lovey E. Huskem, Prof. Harry Gil-Smythe, Mr. Charles Stanley, Mrs. Emma Poulson, Mrs. Bernita H. Murray, Mr. Edward McCready, Mrs. Posey Carter and the present musicians, Mr. Charles Arnette, Jr., Mrs. Audrey E. Phillips and Mr. Edmond D. Meade, Jr. The artists developed voices that will never be forgotten. Other than choirs, other groups formed themselves into choruses and sang all over Maryland to large and small groups. Most noted among these choruses was the Sunshine Singing Association. Many missions sprang out of this church. Men were trained at the church and left to form fellowships of their own.

A most memorable activity of the peoples' Christian Church was the Baptismal Service held after a ride down the bay on Captain Brown's boat.

Our Church School has succeeded because of the efforts of many individuals. Mr. Moses Thomson was the first superintendent. Mrs. Estelle Fenwick was next, followed by. Prof. E. Jerry Williams, Mr. Angus A. Smith and Mrs. Barbara A. Mitchell.

In the field of training, Mr. Charles J. Rusk directed the Baptist Training Union in 1Wofollowed by Mrs. Louise P. Brown, Miss Helen V. Benton and Mr. Clifford Trusty.

With the passing of our organizer, the Reverend C. Edward Browne in 1965, the pastorate of the church was given into the hands of our very capable associate, the Reverend Angus A. Smith. Under his direction, the church has continue to progress. There are twelve organizations, one choir, six choruses and our Official Board.

We are ever grateful for our background. With the help of God, we shall carry on the work "for the Lord has need of it."

Conway wants a black on state medical plan

A black legislator wants Gov. Harry R. Hughes to use his influence to have a black doctor appointed to the state's nine-member panel that polices the medical profession.

Del. Frank Conaway, D-Baltimore, reminded Hughes in a letter that no blacks have ever served on the 11-year-old Maryland Commission on Medical Discipline. The terms of three members expire June 30.

The panel has the power to revoke or suspend the medical licenses for professional misconduct or incompetence.

Conaway said there are 500 black doctors in Maryland. He suggested that the Monumental Medical Association, an organization of black physicians, be asked to recommend candidates for the panel.

Two of the nine members are appointed by the state health secretary. The rest are named by the state medical association — known as the Medical and Chirurgical Faculty of Maryland

Queen of Sheba Daughters win first place trophy

In Philadelphia, Pa., the Queen of Sheba Court No. 1, Order of Daughters of Sphinx of Maryland, won first prize in competition in April, 1980.

This is the second time that this group has been fortunate enough to be the victorious conquerors in the past four years, and to win the coveted firstiplace trophy. They won first place in New York City four years ago.

The States that are a part of this Eastern Coast Assembly are Massachusetts, New York, Pennsylvania, New Jersey, Virginia, District of Columbia and Maryland.

Annually, but in a different one of the seven states - this body gathers for the purpose of providing opportunity for sharing of talents, inspiring new members, deriving ritualistic enrichment, enjoying social exchanges among members; combining efforts and energies for the benefit of charity and worshipping together in praise and thanksgiving.

At the Eastern Coast Assembly, the Feast and Fast of Madadan was observed. Each year a minimum of one thousand dollars is presented to a local charitable organization.

The members of the Maryland Drill Team came forth this year with brand new uniforms. They captured first prize indicating that they were the best drill competitively in precision, observance of commands, step controll etc.

Mrs. Beulah Black is the capable drill mistress. Mr. Herman Lee is the master of the team. The other members are Mrs. Ola Carber, Mrs. Deannie Wagstaff, Mrs. Bertha Thomas, Mrs. Lottie Moore, Mrs. Carrie Perry, Mrs. Geneva Lentz, Mrs. Florine Wells and Mrs. Ethel Harrell.

Not only did this team win first place at the Eastern Coast Assembly in Philadelphia, but one week ago the team went by way of airplace to the Mid - West Coast Assembly in Chicago, Illinois to demonstrate in the Mid - West Coast Assembly there.

A very beautiful trophy was presented to this team there for its outstanding performance. The team did not go there to compete but to demonstrate what a first - place team can do.

Attending this Chicago Mid - West Assembly and witnessing the beautiful work of the team were the following Baltimoreans - who participated in the regularly scheduled sessions there: Imperial Grand Potentate, Ill. Columbus McNeill, Supreme Deputy, Hon. John V. TLHORNTON, Eastern Coast Assembly Deputy, Noble Lloyd Cure, Ill. Potentate of Medena Tempie No. 2, Noble Denver Blackwell; Also Hiram Grand Lodge's Good will Ambassador and Royal Patron of the Amaranth - Noble Harold Hawkins, Grand Wothy Patrons, Naomi Grand Chapter - Order of the Eastern Star Noble Thomas E. Frazier and Supreme Deputy of the Eastern Coast Assembly - Daughters of Sphinx Mrs. Mary C. Frazier.

This drill team is now in full force making arrangements for the 1981 Session of the Eastern Coast Assembly which will convene in Maryland.

There they will come out with some new techniques and drill movements. Because this next assembly will be in our own home ground, this State will not enter in competition - but will demonstrate.

This drill team was organized during the administration of Mrs. Mary C. Frazier as most worthy grand matron of the Queen of Sheba Court.

Now, Mrs. Helen Drummond who serves as the leader of the court is continuing the inspiration, cooperation, and dedication to the procedures of the drill team. Mrs. Helen M Carter is grand worhty matron of the jurisdiction.
