"Our family reunion is like a company picnic." Walter Person

"That's because so many of us work at Chesapeake and Potomac Telephone here in Washington, D.C. We've always been close and we really look forward to our family reunions. This year about 100 of my relatives showed up. One cousin kept us even closer over the years. came all the way from Florida.

"Of course, in my immediate family, we don't need a reunion to get together. Some families start to drift apart when the kids grow up, but working together as we do has the phone company 29 years ago as a dishwasher in the company cafeteria. Today she's an administrative clerk. Mama always thought the company was a good place to work, and when I finished high school, she helped me get a job at C&P. A year later, Mom and I talked my brother, George, who is standing on the left, into applying. Today he's in just about everybody knows computer programming. My wife, Naomi, standing next to George, works for C&P as a unit supervisor. And cousin Jackie, who is next to Naomi, is an administrative manager.

"Aunt Lena, seated next to Mama, has been at C&P for 15 years and now works on the computer system that George going to tell my Mama."

who is a long distance operator. And the distinguished gentleman between Frances and Jackie is me, Walter Person. I'm a staff manager in Public Relations. That's my son, Larry, taking the picture.

"At C&P Telephone, Mama and the Person family. To this day, people in the company still tell me if I don't do a job right, they're

