Winfield a Yankee? It had to be.

By Sam Lacy

There was this saying sometime back that you didn't have to be kicked in the rumble by a bull to know you were in a cow pasture.

Something that was just as obvious occurred Monday. While the New York Yankees are not being described as cows, Yankee Stadium isn't a pasture, and Dave Winfield can't be called a bull, it simply had to be that they would all come together.

Yankee owner George Steinbrenner was going to have it no other way. And the AFRO sensed as much in its story written three days earlier.

The article, written for a Saturday deadline, predicted that New York would definitely win the bidding war for the former San Diego Padre star.

Cited as reasons were (1) Steinbrenner's bitterness over losing the American League pennant (after a 103-win season) in the championship playoff with the Kansas City Royals; (2) his disappointment at failing to justify his multimillion - dollar outlay in cornering the star market, and (3) the burning egotism he nurtures that he personally has the answers to building a baseball empire.

Mention of empire touches off the suggestion that Steinbrenner was not going to lose the coveted Winfield to any team — the Mets, Braves or Indians — even if he had to purchase the Empire State Building and place it in Dave's Christmas stocking.

If his own disappointment wasn't sufficient pressure, the moves made by Milwaukee at the Dallas baseball meetings last week further exasperated Steinbrenner.

When the Brewers obtained the National League's best catcher, Ted Simmons, and two accomplished pitchers, Rollie Fingers and Pete Vuckovich; they became a solid threat. And George was compelled to meet strength with strength.

As for Winfield's choice in the matter, it also was obvious before hand.

After wallowing in the lower half of baseball with an inept Padres team, the 29 - year - old slugging outfielder bungered for a shot with a bonafide title contender.

Moreover, the presence in the batting order of such established hitters as Reggie Jackson, Bob Watson, Rick Cerrone and Willie Randolph, told Winfield that this was home for him.

And the $13 million contract made his house more elegant.

BRONX BLASTERS — The Babe Ruth-Lou Gehrig days gave birth to the New York Yankee nickname of "Bronx Bombers." The signing of Dave Winfield (L) Monday placed him shoulder-to-shoulder with Reggie Jackson and set the stage for a change to the "Bronx Blasters."

Joe Louis and wife Martha hospital checks "strictly routine"

Joe back for heart check

HOUSTON — Former heavyweight boxing champion Joe Louis was at Methodist Hospital Monday for diagnostic testing of his heart condition, hospital officials said.

Louis, who held the world heavyweight title longer than any man in history, from 1937 to 1950, underwent heart surgery at Methodist three years ago and has returned several times since.

Hospital spokesmen said the 66 - year - old former champion was undergoing "strictly routine tests" mandated by a dacron graft implanted by noted Houston heart surgeon Dr. Michael DeBakey in 1977 to correct a ballooning aortic aneurysm.

In recent years Louis, who earned nearly $3 million in his 17 - year career, has been employed by Caesars Palace in Las Vegas, Nev.

Clips host tough Rifles

After having split their last two games, the Clippers may be hard put to improve their 4-5 record in the Eastern Hockey League standings this weekend.

The reason: the Richmond Rifles.

The Rifles, only a half-game and four points out of first place behind Erie, Richmond, which holds a decided edge over Baltimore through the last two seasons, have the home-court advantage tonight (Friday) then travel to the Civic Center Saturday for an 8 p.m. contest.

The Clips divided their two early week games with Hampton, winning 9-6 at Civic but bowing 5-4 in the icewater clash Wednesday night.

Colts' finale key to .500

The Colts close out their uninspiring 1980 National Football League season Sunday at the stadium, seeking to lift their heads to a .500 record.

But, even if it were not enough of a problem facing any opponent in mind — December, opposing a Kansas City Chiefs eleven that also sank a .500 mark can be doubly difficult.

Both clubs enter this final game of the regular schedule showing 7 - 8 records.

Although Baltimore heads a 1 - 0 advantage this season, K.C. has a 4 - 3 edge in games played over the years.

In the Nov. 2 contest at K.C., won at 24 by the Colts, rookie Curtis Dickey scored two touchdowns on runs of 2 and 41 yards, while QB Bert Jones passed for 2 TDs to Reese McCall and Don McCauley. The Jones to McCall pass covered 18 yards and put the Colts ahead 7 - 3 in the first quarter. The McCauley TD pass was 7 yards and increased the Colts lead to 14 - 3 early in the second quarter.

Dickey was the games leading rusher with 68 yards on 9 carries. Jones ended the day having completed 17 of 29 passes for 211 yards.

Ali, Arum make peace

NEW YORK — Harold Smith of Muhammad Ali Professional Sports Inc., and Bob Arum of Top Rank, Inc., have apparently called a truce and agreed to co-promote a WBA world heavyweight title bout.

Smith and Arum last weekend shook hands on a deal matching WBA champion Mike Weaver and former champion Larry Holmes for a March 31 fight.

Until then, they had been locked in a battle to control the top echelon of heavyweights. Arum's insistence on promoting title bouts in racist South Africa had widened the breach.

The bout would mark Weaver's third title defense since he won the WBA crown from John Tate in March. He recently stopped South African Gerry Coetzee and has an upcoming defense against Canadian champion Trevor Berbrick in February.

The co-promoted fight would likely take place in the summer, probably in June, in New York. The promoters are leaning toward an outdoor arena, either Yankee Stadium or Shea Stadium.

Laurel features Fillies, jockeys

LAUREL, Md. — Phoebe's Pleasure is scheduled to top a talented field of 3-year-old fillies in Saturday's $30,000 added Anne Arundel Stakes at Laurel Race Course. But before that one mile test is run jockey Vincent Bracciale Jr., is expected to reach the prized plateau of 2,000 career winners.

On Monday in appreciation of the fans patronage this season, Laurel will hold a half-price day.

Saturday also will be the deadline for the placement of other entry blanks found in the track program in ballot boxes at the track. Fans are asked to predict which trainer will be the leading conditioner at the meeting and the number of winners he will have saddled through Dec. 31.

Leading contenders are Ronnie Allaire, King Quatterbury and Dickie Dutrow.

KANSAS CITY, UPI — What was good enough to make Sugar Ray Leonard a victorious against Tony Chaires was good enough to make Olden Leonard victorious — even though the Leonard cousins are similar in no other respects — amazing thought.

Sugar Ray is a dancer, an artist, a communicator, a boxer, Olden is a plodder, a puncher, a brawler, a bruiser. Sugar Ray plays the piano, Olden just pounds on the keys.

Sugar Ray posted a ruthless technical knockout of his overmatched opponent after only one round of action. Olden required a full five rounds of the same action before he finally [illegible]

ADMINISTRATION
UNIVERSITY OF MARYLAND
School of Public Affairs
College Park, Maryland
FIVE FACULTY POSITIONS
The University of Maryland is beginning a School of Public Affairs which will offer a Master's of Public Management and eventually a Ph.D. degree. First Master's students will be admitted in either January or August 1982.
Most of the courses will be taught at the College Park campus, however, the school will be a multi - campus program with exchange students and faculty between campuses and with some joint appointments with related faculties of the University of Maryland. The School will have an independent, full - time faculty headed by a Dean to be appointed shortly.
The University has allotted eleven tenure slots to the school. We plan to appoint persons of various ranks to five of these positions this year.
Although final determination of the core curriculum of the school awaits the appointment of a permanent Dean, the curriculum will include quantitative and normative methods of analysis; theories of economics and management; and utilize prospectives which will include the explicit consideration of both the international and scientific - technological aspects of public sector problems.
We encourage the applications of persons of true distinction of mind who are interested in developing an innovative program and who enjoy working in an interdisciplinary setting and in teams. Ph.D. or equivalent and substantial record or promise of scholarly publication, is expected.
Interested individuals should send a resume, letters of reference and writing samples to:
