New threat to Backlund invades Civic Center mat

Killer Kahn, the bald and bruising bully boy who represents 290 pounds of muscular manpower, is the latest of the supergiants to challenge World Wrestling Federation heavyweight Bob Backlund.

They top tomorrow (Saturday) night's wrestling card at the Civic Center.

Backlund, who has defended his championship against bigger men consistently since dethroning Superstar Billy Graham in Madison Square Garden in February of 1978, admits respect for the massive Mongolian.

"I keep in top physical shape and I'll be ready for any opponent selected for me here, or elsewhere," Backlund said following his last title defense at Civic.

A special added attraction restricted to a one - hour time limit matches 309 - pound Sgt. Slaughter with crowd pleasing Tony Atlas.

One tag team title attraction carrying an hour limit sends WWF champions Tony Garea and Rick Martell against The Hangman and Hulk Hogan while the mad Moondogs will be tested by Frank Savage and Jim Duggan in another.

Three 20 - minute supporting matches list: Bulldog Brower vs. S. D Jones, Larry Sharp vs. Rick Stallone and Johnny Rodz vs. Yoshiaki Jatsu.

Bits O' briefs

PITTS PICKED

Former NFL running back and assistant coach Elijah Pitts has been named a Houston Oiler aide by new coach Ed Biles.

Pitts, who was a standout with the Green Bay Packers in the early sixties, was a Buffalo Bills assistant last year. Earlier, he had held a similar job with the Los Angeles Rams.

He takes over duties as offensive backfield coach at Houston.

NO CROSBY CASH

The black quartet which played the Bing Crosby golf tournament over the weekend played in vain as far as cash takeout was concerned.

Lee Elder's 222, Jim Dent's 223, Calvin Peete's 226 and Jim Thorpe's 231 were all well off the winning score of 209, and well out of the range of purse distribution after the rain-abbreviated (54 holes) event.

Class fillies at Bowie

Some of the top 3-year-old fillies campaigning in the east will vie at Bowie tomorrow (Saturday) in the $35,000 Free State stakes race.

C. Oliver Goldsmith's Privacy and R. F. Wallace's stakes winning Bannockburn shape up as the best of the eight fillies slated for the 1ith running of the event. This duo is likely to be opposed by John Cardella's Handsome Dame, Helmore Farm's Mistic Majesty, Larking Hill Farm's Foolette, Red Hill Farm's Seraphim, Red Rose Stable's Milingo's Reason and Oliver Steinberg's Tricki Vicki.

The lightly

November at Laurel to graduate from the campaigned Privacy made her debut last maiden ranks over a muddy track. She made her '81 debut here and was a fast-closing second to Da's Baby in the Virginia Belle. Last Wednesday she beat Tricki Vicki in a six furlongs allowance test here.

Bannockburn was a disappointing fifth in the Virginia Belle after capturing Laurel's Cameo by a length over Tricki Vicki.

Seraphim could pose a strong threat. The Halo filly was an impressive winner by three lengths in her maiden triumph last week after finishing unplaced in her debut. Seraphim is a half sister to the stakes-winning Debb's Turn.

Bill Taylor, ex-athlete, coach buried

William S. "Bill" Taylor, one - time star athlete, popular coach and, more recently, diligent youth worker, was buried this morning (Friday) at Mt. Zion Cemetery.

Taylor died Monday following a long illness.

A football and basketball and track star in his undergraduate days at Lincoln University, Taylor also played several years of semi - pro baseball in the twenties.

He coached football, basketball and track at Lincoln after receiving his degree, then succeeded the late Charley Drew as head football and basketball coach at Morgan State.

It was during this period that Morgan began its climb to prominence in collegiate sports.

Following a year at the Baltimore institution, however, Taylor left the school and assumed coaching stints at Prairie View (Texas) and Wilberforce (Ohio).

Returning to Baltimore, he became involved in youth work and devoted much of his time to development of the Easterwood Community Center activities.

Friends were received Thursday evening at the Trinity Baptist Church, where a funeral service was held prior to the Friday interment under direction of March Funeral Home.

Survivors include his widow, Mrs. Amber G. Taylor; two sisters, Mesdames Ruth E. Johnson and Alma T. Thomas; one brother, Leroy Taylor of Washington, D.C.; and several nieces and nephews.

Pat Ewing
liked coach, school, area, players

Hoyas get scholastic phenom

Thompson image main factor in Pat Ewing's choice of GU

Credit the quiet, straightforward and no-nonsense way of recruiting employed by John Thompson for Georgetown University's acquisition of high school basketball phenom Pat Ewing.

Known as a father figure who also is an understanding friend, Thompson's demeanor attracts an appreciable share of top prospects.

The young 7-foot center from Cambridge (Mass) Rindge and Latin High School Monday announced his choice of Georgetown for the continuation of his education after June graduation.

More than 150 schools located throughout the country had sought the talents of the 17-year-old, 220 pounder since early spring. Included among those were such basketball Powers as UCLA, North Carolina, St. Paul, Indiana, Maryland and Michigan.

The gradual elimination by Ewing, his coach, Mike Jarvis and junior high coach Steve Jenkins reduced the number of prospects to six, then finally to Georgetown.

Thompson's reputation as a teacher-coach who is deeply interested in the development of his players in the classroom as well as on the basketball court, obviously influenced Ewing and his advisors.

Aside from having played Pat's position (center) at both the college (Providence) and NBA (Celtics) level, Thompson is no gung-ho, win-at-any-cost mentor. These two main facts had an effect on Ewing.

"The school, the coach, the area and the players convinced Pat that he will be most comfortable at Georgetown."

Pat visited Georgetown twice as permitted by NCAA rules, said Jarvis after his protege's announcement.

Ewing's decision ended months of speculation and a carefully orchestrated recruiting system set up by Jarvis.

Last April, Jarvis notified 150 schools what format would have to be followed to land the prized high-schooler, who some feel is the best the east has produced since Kareem Abdul-Jabbar (then Lew Alcindor) emerged from New York's Power Memorial High School.

Sixteen schools were notified that Ewing was interested and the coach had to come to Cambridge to present his case to a committee consisting of Jarvis, Jenkins, Ewing and Ewing's parents.

From the list of 16, Ewing and the committee chose six finalists for second visits — Georgetown, Boston College, Boston University, North Carolina, UCLA and Villanova.

Georgetown and Thompson survived.

Ewing's teams have lost just once in three years and the school is undefeated this season. The 220-pounder has averaged about 19 points, 15 rebounds and 12 blocked shots a game. Last spring he was the first high school player ever invited to the U.S. Olympic Trials.

Alston, Cook free agents

Tight end Mack Alston and defensive end Fred Cook are among seven players who have filed for free agency from the Baltimore Colts.

Others seeking to test their value on the National Football League open market are punter Mike Bragg, wide receivers Randy Burke and Mike Siani, and tackles George Kunz and Bob Van Dyne.

Amateur ring show Saturday

An all - star card featuring the area's top amateurs is scheduled for tomorrow (Saturday) night at St. Veronica Catholic Church's parish hall.

A program of 15 bouts has been arranged, the first to begin at 8 p.m.

Payton million demand

George Halas
but he says 'no way'

Walter Payton
he wants $1 million

CHICAGO (UPI) — Chicago Bears' running back Walter Payton's bid to become pro football's first million dollar-a-year performer has gotten some support from an unexpected source.

Martina Navratilova, who Sunday won $35,000, at the $200,000 Chicago Women's Tennis championships, announced to the crowd she believed Payton deserved the record-setting salary.

"He's the franchise. He deserves a million as much as anyone else," Navratilova said. "Look at some baseball players. One guy is getting $500,000 and I never heard of him."

But owner George Halas declared Monday: "No way!"

Said Halas while celebrating his 86th birthday: "There's no way we're going to be able to pay him that. I wouldn't do it because of the effect it would have on team morale. Besides, we can't afford it.

Payton currently earns $475,000. The highest salary ever paid to an NFL player was O. J. Simpson, who earned $806,000 in his final year.

Payton has indicated he would prefer to stay with the Bears for the rest of his career, and general manager Jim Finks has indicated he expects Payton to re-sign with the Bears.

"Walter Payton is extremely important to this franchise and to this town and we expect to have Walter play out his career here," Finks said.

CFL team denies bid for Walker

MONTREAL (UPI) — Representatives of the Montreal Alouettes of the Canadian Football League Wednesday denied making a $2 million offer to freshman running star Herschel Walker of the University of Georgia.

"We just put him on our negotiation list," said a spokesman for the Alouettes. "We never made any offer to him. All that means is that if he ever decides to play in Canada, we have the rights to him. Every CFL team can put U.S. players on its negotiation list but a player can appear only on one team's list."

General Manager Bob Geary denied making any offer to Walker.

The supposed offer to Walker, who set an NCAA rushing record for freshmen in leading Georgia to the national championship, prompted several Bulldogs fans to set up an insurance agency in Walker's name to guarantee that he will remain at the school for the next three years.

Insurance for Walker?

ATHENS, GA. (UPI) — Georgia coach Vince Dooley said Wednesday he has asked the NCAA to rule whether it would be legal to set up an insurance agency for freshman All-American football star Herschel Walker.

Several Georgia alumni said they wanted to establish such an agency to encourage Walker to remain in school rather than go to the Canadian Football League. The offer came in the wake of a rumor that a CFL team was considering making Walker a $2 million offer.

An NCAA official has already said it was doubtful that such an agency could be set up under NCAA rules.

Lady Bears quint quint busy

Their male counterparts are off until Tuesday when they travel to Dover for battle with Delaware State. But the Morgan State women will keep things busy on the home front.

The Lady Bears, fresh from a shellacking of New York Tech Tuesday night, play hostesses to Howard University tonight (Friday) and to Pitt - Johnstown tomorrow Saturday at Hill Field House.

Baltimore youth

paces 'Frisco win

Former Project Survival scholarship winner Quentin Dailey scored a career - high 31 points to lead University of San Francisco to an 85 - 81 Western Athletic Conference victory over Pepperdine Saturday night.

The game was tied 67 - 67 with six minutes to go, but Dailey hit for six points in the next four minutes, putting USF up by three with 1:44 left in the game.
