Youngsters shine

Baltimore-born youngsters making good: Sheryl Lynn Greene, 22, has the leading role in "The New Voice" which will be aired on Public Television Channels 67 and 22, this week and next, Feb. 7 and Feb. 14, both at 6 p.m.

The story revolves around problems of a pregnant teenager.

Sheryl is the oldest daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Lonnie Green (Seretha). She has been making her home in Boston where she was graduated from the College of Fine Arts at Boston University.

More good news about her: On Saturday, she signed a contract and joined the road company of the famed play, "For Colored Girls Only."

Sheryl and the company will tour Delaware, Wisconsin, Michigan, Illinois, California, Kansas, Iowa, Massasschusetts, New York and Connecticut.

More youngsters doing well: At Delta Sigma Theta Sorority's 68th annual founders' day at Blue Crest, the 500-plus audience gave a standing ovation to three talented young musicians.

They are Wnedell Farmer, pianist; Reginald Love, trumpeter and Jerome Stokes, flutist.

All attend Baltimore City's new School for the Arts.

Also receiving enthusiastic applause, D. Karen Hill, a mezzo soprano and student at the Philadelphia School for Performing Arts.

In fact, the entertainment by Delta sorors themselves was also outstanding. Chorale director is Lousonia Jefferson. Lovely voices!

Nice gesture: Sarah Bragg Gray, co-chaired Delta's celebration this year with her mother, Juliet Bragg.

Very moving when she introduced her mom to present the guest speaker, she described her as "somebody special, my best friend..."

Truism: "You never know the value of what you lose until you lose it." — spoken by Delta keynoter, Dr. Cheryl Pierce.

She is a young, articulate black clinical medicine instructor at Harvard University, (yes, Harvard!) on leave as a fellow at the Department of health and Human Services in D. C.

Orchids to Delta chapter president, Charlene Cooper Boston and others who planned such a delightful program.

Special thrill for us — The Vashti Turley Murphy Award, given to honor the late Baltimore co-founder of the sorority. It went to Vivian Edwards Washington, long a force in public service in education and aid to youngsters.

Mom would have been proud too.

People, things

Members of that new women's club, Monumental City Friends headed by Florence Bailey, sold out the Arena Playgouse on Sunday evening.

It was closing night of the comedy, "A Wind Between The Houses."

Among stars in the play, two members of the club, Christine Moore and Lorraine Brown.

More glorious singing was provided by Margaret Lindsay at the Saturday afternoon wedding of Dorothea Carney Watts and Paul J. Beckham Jr.

She was at her usual best — her warm vibrant smile thrilled guests at the candlelight ceremony in Madison Avenue Presbyterian Church. J. Walter Fisher was at the organ.

The bride was a picture in the simple but elegant tulle and lace gown, made by her dressmaker. The high Victorian neck and long train were especially becoming.

The bride, daughter of longtime Baltimorean, Mrs. Ethel Watts and the late James Carney, is a graduate of Frostburg State College. She was director of the Youth Conservation Corps before her marriage.

The bridegroom, son of the senior Paul Beckham's (Blanche) is a Howard University grad.

Day after the ceremony, the newlyweds were off to Flint, Mich., where he has taken a management post with a large industry.

Her Delta sorors saluted the bride at the reception.

Among out-of-towners here: From Philly, the bridegroom's godmother, Edna Mundy and her husband, Albert; and Elois Allen, Gloria Pope and Dr. and Mrs. Samuel Bullock (Gloria).

Here from D. C., Carolyn and Wesley Stubbs, Robert and Rita Sauls and from Laurel, Md., Dr. and Mrs. Samuel Massie (Gloria).

More good music at the reception in the church hall, the Haithcock Ensemble entertained...they're always good.

Catholic salute

Down at the Belvedere Hotel on Friday evening, Catholic Charities held its annual dinner meeting.

In attendance were representatives from all area parishes. Particularly proud were members of St. Peter Claver.

Their number one lay leader, Frank J. Sewell, was among three to receive engraved plaques and citations for outstanding service.

Mr. Sewell, 66, a member of St. Peter since age 8, is known as a loving, unselfish individual who gives generously of his time to others. (He's the retired postal employee).

For example he and his late wife, Cecelia, initiated the annual Thanksgiving dinner, which attracts as many as 800, most are persons with no families. He and his sons continue the annual event in her memory.

There is much more on Mr. Sewell we'll share in an upcoming column.

Others receiving service awards at this year's meeting were Mrs. Catherine Fenton and Monsignor John J. Daley.

Seen in the crowd: Dr. and Mrs. Lionel Desbordes (Jerri) and Marjorie Prout. Mrs. Prout and Mrs. Desbordes serve on the Charities' board.

Members of the Sewell's family occupied a special table.

Luck love feast

Love was bursting out all over at the Fountaine Bleu in Glen Burnie on Sunday evening.

Present were over 500 persons who came to say 'thank you' to Dr. Jerry C. Luck, the Cherry Hill resident-physician.

It was like old home. Guests embraced and kissed each other and exchanged such warm greetings with the honoree and fellowship continued all evening.

It was apparent that Dr. Luck and the Cherry Hill community have had a long, lasting love affair. (He lived and worked in that South Baltimore area for over 38 years.)

Mayor Schaefer declared the day, "Jerry Luck Day". Speaker after speaker testified to the physician's kindnesses and dedicated service.

His wife, Gertrude (friends call her 'Trudy') and the hostesses wore red, carrying out the color scheme selected by the hard-working committee.

Co-shair were Carolyn Murray and Classie Robinson. Steering committee was headed by Doris C. Jones and Bernice McDaniels.

It would have made you proud to see Dr. Luck's 106-year-old aunt, Mrs. Addie Williams. She sat at the head table, body erect and head high, a beautiful sight!

Proof that Dr. Luck is held in high esteem by fellow medics: Some 55 members of the medical fraternity, Chi Delta Mu, were present with thier wives.

And, some 25 members of Monumental Medical Society and the Maryland Dental Society, with mates, also attended this love affair.

Over from D. C., Dr. and Mrs. Isaiah Burton (he serves on Chi's national program committee).

Cuff note: As late as the afternoon of the testimonial, folks were still trying to get tickets. At least 100 persons were turned away, including Dr. Neil Solomon, the health expert. He had to settle for sending a greeting.

More love affairs: members of the Nazarene Chapter number 19 of the Order of Eastern Star observed their fourth anniversary on Sunday at the Masonic Temple.

Worthy matron is Mrs. Edna Blackwell. Co-chairing were Mrs. Emma Parrott and Mrs. Pauline Hall. Rev. Alphonso Thompson was keynote speaker.

Preston Hall is patron. Grand matron is Mrs. Emily Maddox. Grand patron is Samuel S. Jenkins.

Elzie M. Williams is grand master.

More people

Mrs. Earl Anderson (Paly) is improving after eye surgery.

Dr. Margaret Musgrove is the new director of Middle College at the Community College of Baltimore.

She succeeds William Atkinson who died in December.

Thinking-of-you cards to the family of William (Bill) Taylor.

Long an advocate of the downtrodden, Bill gave so generously of his time to others that many of us who watched him in action through the years wondered where he got the energy.

He was devoted to the East Baltimore community where he gave over 20 years to the fight to protect youngsters from becoming delinquents — through the sports he loved and through the Eastside Community Committee (Remember the annual Blue Ribbon teas the organization sponsored?)

And, remember that even when the city said it had no funds to support his programs, Bill kept on helping the kids.

In this space in May, 1961, we suggested that Bill Taylor's endeavors on behalf of others were so numerous and thathis activities so varied that it seemed he violated the wages and hours laws.

Bill's energies ran out suddenly on Monday. He will be missed.

His wife, Amber, the retired Morgan University librarian; and sisters Mrs. Ruth Johnson and Mrs. Alma Thomas and brother Leroy of D. C. survivesand so do hundreds of other grown-ups in our community who benefitted from Bill's unselfish efforts.

Sympathy, also to the family of William Coleman Jr., He was eulogized on Feb. 1 at City Temple Baptist Church, where he is remembered as a as a pioneer member.

He was a deacon, served on the Perpetual Organ Fund Committee and sang on the choir.

A retired longshoreman, he was a member of Eureka Lodge of Masons.

Survivors: Wife, Gertrude, son Donte of Warwick, R. I.

Four sisters, Lellie Mae Hunt, Juanita Tyler and Mary McMillian all of Baltimore and Willie Rose Snipes of Brooklyn, N.Y.

Five brothers, James of Baltimore, Carey of Society Hill, S. C., Cole L. Berry and Robert of Brooklyn, N.Y. and granddaughter, Jenica.

Mrs. Vivian Pendleton feted on retirement

Mrs. Vivian Pendleton

Mrs. Vivian Pendleton, an employee of the Baltimore City Health Department for 36 years, was the guest of honor recently at a retirement luncheon held for her at the Belvedere Hotel.

Working her way through the ranks in the health department, Mrs. Pendleton moved from junior community health nurse to her current position of administrative supervisor, the first black to hold that position.

A graduate of Provident Hospital School of Nursing, Mrs. Pendleton received her BSN at Catholic University in Washington, D.C., where she was the recipient of the Olivian Society Award, the highest award one can receive in nursing.

She received her master's degree in nursing from the University of Maryland in Baltimore, and did additional course work at Morgan State University, Loyola University and Southern University in Louisiana.

A member of several civic and social organizations, Mrs. Pendleton belongs to the League of Women Voters, Chi Eta Phi Sorority, Sigma Theta Tau, and Delta Sigma Theta.

She is also a past president of the Kidney Foundation of Maryland.

"Whether you're serving six or sixteen, the ideal menu should allow the cook plenty of time to enjoy the food!

Here are a few simple rules for accomplishing that:

- Keep it simple—the less complicated the preparation, the more time you have to spend with your guests.
- Make it different—show your company how special they are by serving a meal that's different from the same old meat and potatoes.
- Make it economical—with today's prices, how else can you afford to entertain?

This menu is designed with these basic rules in mind. The Country Style Pork Chops stuffed with STOVE TOP* Cornbread Stuffing Mix and made with SHAKE 'N BAKE* Seasoned Coating Mix for Pork will look and taste as though you've spent hours in the kitchen. The Vegetables in a Blanket are made superb with OVEN FRY* Coating for Chicken—Crispy Crumb Recipe. Superb because they're so easy to make, and so delicious your guests will still be raving about them well into dessert.

Which brings us to the last rule: make it delicious! When the food is good, it does a lot of the entertaining for you. Enjoy!"

WOODLAWN HIGHLIGHTS

By Marjorie R. Green

Walter "Walt" Snead, bid farewell to well-wishers and co-workers in the Visual Graphics Section of the Social Security Administration in a recent retirement feat held at Martin's West on Dogwood Road.

The occasion marked the end of 36 years of federal service for Walt who retired as a graphic arts specialist.

Some 100 persons attended the affair chaired by Snead's supervisor, Walter Carr. Mr. Snead was toasted and roasted as a man who used his artistic talents to help many people.

Walter Rudolph, a former branch supervisor, returned from his own retirement of several months to welcome Walt Snead "aboard." Mr. Rudolph noted that Walt's leaving would diminish the long-standing problem the branch has with a proliferation of Walter's.

John Goodspeed, chief of the audio-visual section, congratulated Walt on a reputation for getting the job done, and for high quality creative service. Verna Day, a long time SSA employee and Arena player and dramatist, characteristically raffled the levity of the occasion with several anecdotes regarding her long association with Walt Snead. She revealed that he made her look good in her work with the Federal Women's Program by his unfailing support and responsiveness. She clearly summed up the sentiments of the gathering when she stated that "Walt Snead will be greatly missed around the SSA Woodlawn Complex."

During the NAACP, Baltimore Branch Awards ceremonies at St. John A.M.E. Church, SSA'ers Al Jones and Charlie Stewart were among those individuals receiving recognition for their contributions towards the successful NAACP Afro Academic Cultural Technological Scientific Olympics (ACT-SO) program.

Mrs. Helen Phillips represented the Office of Governmental Affairs by accepting a certificate commending SSA's efforts during the voter registration drive.

In late January after serving one year as Commissioner of Social Security, William J. Driver, penned a farewell statement to all Social Security employees that included his feelings of appreciation for the support given to him. He stated that "the past year will be seen as a watershed. The general public now has an awareness of the very real problems concerning social security financing. They understand the severity and complexity of the situation. At the same time, nationwide polls show that the public overwhelmingly supports the programs and is willing to pay the cost. This consensus, I believe, will help resolve the system's financial problems in the near future."

Herbert R. Doggette Jr. has been named acting Commissioner Social Security pending the appointment of a new commissioner.

COLUMBIA CAPERS

By Pinnie L. Ross

Dr. Martin Luther King, Jr.'s birthday was celebrated by two churches and one fraternity in a great and unique way in Columbia recently. The civil rights and world leader of peace had a dream that one day black and white children would join hands together. Columbians kept the memory of Dr. King alive. The first celebration was held January 11th when those dynamic men of the Alpha Phi Alpha fraternity sponsored the 6th annual MLK Jr. Memorial Breakfast at the Kittamaguardi Room, Rouse Building.

Guest speaker for the celebration breakfast was our own Parren J. Mitchell, Maryland's first Black congressman, a man who has fought for equal rights for blacks and who said, "I will serve all people, but I will give my priority to black people and the poor because they need more."

Standing before a capacity filled house of about 500, he had this to say in the beginning. "Dear Lord Father of mankind, forgive our foolish ways," looking in the audience with a very grim face, "I am somewhat disturbed to look on this program and see the Negro National Anthem written in the program. "If you need me again, please don't make me angry by writing those words on the program, you all should know them!"

In 1978 Congressman Mitchell introduced the legislation which in 1978 became Public Law 95-507, that requires proposals from contractors to spell out their goals for awarding contracts to minority subcontractors. This law provides access to billions of dollars for minority businesses.

The Fraternity presented a beautiful plaque to the Congressman for his work and interest in minority business.

James E. Fitzpatrick, Jr. president of the Columbia chapter served as Master of Ceremonies. Invocation was delivered by the Rev. Ernest Richardson, associate minister, First Baptist Church, Gilford. Young James "Joy" Craigen, II rendered 2 selections, also there were selections by the Dupont Park, Seventh-Day Adventist tried. Vernon Gray, Chairperson of the program committee introduced the speaker. Noel Myricks, director of education activities, gave remarks on scholarship programs and recognition of 1980 recipient, Harold Payne. Special presentations, including $500.00 NAACP Life Membership presented to membership chairperson, Celonia Walden, David A. Rakas, Litony were given. The Rev. Herbert H. Eaton, pastor of St. John Baptist Church gave the benediction.

County Executive Hugh Nichols presented the Alpha's Fraternity with a promotion proclaiming the 15th of January as Martin Luther King's Day.
