The choir concert which has drawn capacity crowds for the last five years, featured the Singing Disciples of Baltimore and four - year - old Robert Wright, Jr on drums.

The Connor Alumni Chapter of Baltimore is the largest and most active of the alumni chapters at the University, is named after the first president of Coppin State College who was also the founder of the alumni chapter.

Proceeds from the concert went to support the University's programs and scholarship fund. Last year, the Connor chapter raised $14,200 and recruited 38 students, 12 of whom made the honor roll this past semester The 1980 - 81 goal for the chapter or $30,000 was exceeded.

The chapter also prepared a 100 - page plus souvenir journal which chronicled the history of the university, the choir and highlighted some of the black students currently enrolled at the school.

Virginia Union is an example of a black college founded upon principles of excellence in education and character. That tradition continues strongly today, with many students struggling to get through public schools or being buffeted around in white mega - universities, there recently has not been mas much support as is necessary.

Although Black colleges around the country are generally under seige and face severe cutbacks in state and federal grants, Virginia Union is totally independent, relying on its own fund - raising capabilities.

The choir tour is part of a long tradition of black colleges, who for years have toured the east and Europe to help support their schools. Fisk and Tuskegee were pioneers in this tradition.

Union's current choir director, Dr. Odell Hobbs, conducted the Tuskegee Institute Choir for three years prior to coming to Union. Educated at Howard Catholic U. AND Western Colorado U., he has taught at Virginia Commonwealth U., and J. Sargent Reynolds Community College and lectured at Howard and Scarritt College in Nashville.

Dr. Hobbs' program combines Palestrina, Brahms and Hayden with the classic black spiritual arrangements of William Dawson, Hall Johnson and H. T. Burleigh some gospel and jazz too.

Mrs. Fullwood, wife of the Chapter President, planned the elegant reception for Alumni, parents of students currently attending the University, local businessmen, elected officials, educators, former honorees and supportive lay persons.

The Officers of the Miles W. Connor Chapter are: Harlow Fullwood, Jr., president; David S. Jones, vice - president - treasurer; Mrs. LaBarbara Faunteleroy, secretary; Mrs. Martha E. Valentine, corresponding secretary and Harold W. Jackson, assistant to the treasurer.

Mrs. E Madlyn Jones is Alumnae of the Year Award, 1980 and Attorney DeHaven L. Smith, Alumnus of the Year Award, 1980.

Dr. Shannon was escorted by Ms. Valerie Jenkins, former Miss United Negro College Fund of Maryland. She is a graduate of Western High School and is currently a Junior at VUU majoring in Pre-Medicine. Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Jenkins are the proud parents.

Mrs. Shannon was escorted by Michael Walker, an honor student at Northwestern Senior High School, and a star basketball player. Michael plans to enter VUU in the fall and major in mathematics. Mrs. Jean Miles is the proud parent. Mrs. Shannon was given roses compliments of Crip Florist.

The presentation of flowers, album & Souvenir Journal to Dr. Dorothy M. Carter, was by President Fullwood. Dr. Carter graduated from VUU in 1948 and recently retired from the Baltimore schools after 31 years of service.

Prior to retirement, she was head of Guidance at Pimlico Junior High School.

Dr. Carter was escorted by Stanley L. Matthew, Jr., an honor student at Northern Senior High School. Stanley plans to enter VUU in the fall and major in Business Administration.

He is a strong candidate for the Best Product Foundation Scholarship Award ($16,000). Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Matthew, Sr. are the proud parents.
