Close to a thousand pieces of mail are being received daily by Federal Holiday Commission, Coretta Scott King, widow of the slain civil rights leader and chair of the Commission appointed to establish the new Federal holiday, has announced.

Mrs. King attributed the remarkable public response to the accelerated interest built up in the final month before the Nation of pledge cards across the country, asking the public to en-dorse the principles of peace and brotherhood of Dr. King.

In addition, all except four states and Puerto Rico, have taken action to observe the holiday, either on January 20, the national day of recognition or on Dr. King's actual birthday, January 15. The majority of states have established state commissions organize state and loca
