Carol Lee: addressing the issues of today

By Evan. Theresa Mercer
AFRO Church Writer

God is always looking for his people. His people who allow him to send them forth to do his will.

In doing a work for the master, Carol Lee's "Life Talk Magazine," addresses the issues which face us today.

"Life Talk Magazine," aired on WJRO, 1590 A.M., is uplifting, informative, educational and challenging.

Because of Carol Lee's sensitivity to the needs of others, "Life Talk Magazine" is a strong source of strength for those who are seeking God's truth.

Carol Lee's unique way of sharing God's greatest gift to her, which is love, over the air, makes her second to none.

Carol Lee's airing on WJRO consists of music that must have a clear life building message.

The interviews from persons who encourage the hearts of the listeners greatly influence the lives of these listeners.

The radio audience is always encouraged to go forth, and to take up new challenges in "Jesus Name."

Carol Lee herself finds intuitive ways to open the minds and hearts of God's people.

When asked what caused her to choose such a format for her programming, Carol Lee said, "We hear so much about the negative things in this world (drugs, crime, murder.) All the things that glamorize Satan.

"But what about the good things that's going on in the world, the good people who are doing good things?

"What about those who need a deeper understanding of God? My show reaches those people who are trying to please and find God."

Carol Lee of Life Talk Magazine

Carol Lee continues, "It's about life, because life does talk. It's not just about gospel music, but a lifestyle that God wants us to live by.

"We take our souls for granted. We seem to ignore where our souls are going when we die. It's a serious matter that we take so lightly.

"Well, some of us, I should say, I interview the rich, the poor, the saved, the lost, the sinner and those who are craving for a better understanding of God because, we suffer for the lack of knowledge and understanding."

Carol Lee is known for her stopping in her travels to extend a helping hand. Carol is known for taking time out of her busy schedule to encourage the homeless, the drug addicts, the alcoholics the prostitutes, those in need.

Someone told us of how she took in a street person, who is now independent because Carol looked beyond the circumstances and saw the need. She showed them God's perfect love at a time his person needed a helping hand.

For Carol, talk is cheap. She believes in doing.

Carol Lee once produced the Donovan Talk Show for five years while at WFBR, she became assistant-producer of Gospel Variations and Urban Scene while working for Vanita Productions.

Carol also hosted her own religious talk show on WBGR, which caused her announcing talents to be discovered.

Carol was later hired as an air person by WBGR.

Carol Lee wants everyone to know her as, "a child of God, chosen to do a work for the master, in Jesus name.

Rev. Strickland honored: A celebration of excellence

By Mrs. Emily B. Simmons

As we approach the close of another eventful and prayerful year in the Lord, we pause to witness a moment in time and a moment in history.

The time has come to recognize and honor Rev. Dr. Marshall H. Strickland for his pursuits of Excellence in Education.

In May 1989, this noted scholar, capped a longstanding quest for the Doctor of Philosophy Degree from St. Mary's Seminary and University in Baltimore, Md.

Through the years he has proceeded with commitment, determination, great assurance and real enthusiasm to reach this goal.

His life exemplifies many years in and out of the portals of academic institutions. What a life and commitment?

Having conquered the obstacles of opening an outreach center to help the spiritual and physical needs of the community; purchasing and developing a parking lot; paying off a church in eleven years and among many other duties, advancing a new thrust to the Evangelistic Movement, he continues untiringly with zeal.

On Saturday, December 17, 1989, a Celebration of Excellence was held for the Rev. Marshall H. Strickland, at Pennsylvania Ave. A.M.E. Zion Church.

The atmosphere in the lower auditorium was warm and colorful in decorations of red and white, where many family members, church members, friends gathered.

Also the Rev. Fathers Bishop J. Clinton Hoggard and Bishop Ruben L. Speaks, also Presiding Elder Robert Richmond of the Salisburg District, were there to witness this occasion for our minister.

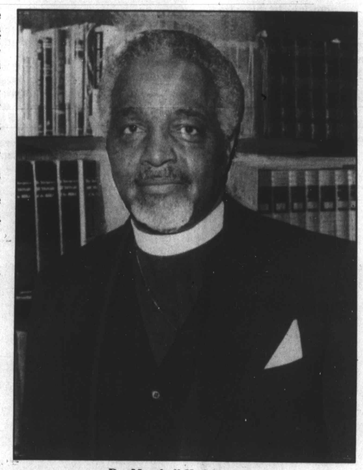
The coordinator for this program, Ms. Barbara Shaw, a General Officer in the A.M.E. Zion connection, presented the Master of Ceremonies, Dr. Gossie H. Hudson.

He is a member of this church and a professor of History at Morgan State University in this city. Dr. Hudson delighted us with his blend of wit and gratitude throughout the afternoon.

Miss Jocelyn Taylor, a member of the Sanctuary Choir, brought grace and dignity to this celebration as she rendered majestic excerpts from Handel's Messiah."

She was accompanied by the Minister of Music, Mr. Christopher Bagley, who also captivated the audience with the rendition of "To God Be The Glory."

Mrs. Emily Simmons cordially greeted everyone with a quote from Booker T. Washington; "Success is to be measured not so much by the position that one has reached in life as by the obstacles which he has overcome while trying to succeed."



Dr. Marshall H. Strickland

After enjoying a delicious lunch, catered by Mrs. Eula Bennett, we were anxious for the highlight of the afternoon.

Bishop J. Clinton Hoggard, Presiding Prelate of the 3rd Episcopal District brought greetings to all and reminded us of the significance of Handel's "Messiah."

He then, proceeded to introduce the guest speaker, Bishop Ruben L. Speaks, Presiding Prelate of the 6th Episcopal District.

This erudite scholar, lecturer, and author is well known here and abroad, shared with us "The Fulfillment of a Dream."

Before the challenging message, he paused to give accolades to our esteemed Bishop Hoggard, this supportive and loyal church family and to the late Rev. George M. Edwards who laid the foundation of this church.

During moments of reflections, Mr. Marshall H. Strickland, II, son of honoree, warmly recalled growing up in the arena of academic institutions.

At a very early age, he questioned his father, "done yet," dad always replied "not yet baby." Mrs. Mary McGhee represented the church family and captured the moment with a poem by Ella Wheeler Wilcox, "You can never tell."

Bishop Clinton R. Coleman, Presiding Prelate of the 4th Episcopal District, in absentia sent a letter of felicitations for such noble accomplishments and expressed deep regret that he could not share this high moment with him.

Presentations were made to Dr. Strickland by Mr. and Mrs. Barnett, Mrs. Mildred Quille, Baltimore City Councilman, Mr. Lawrence Bell, III, and representing the Board of Christian Education, Mrs. Beulah Maxwell.

Dr. Strickland was truly elated and expressed sincere appreciation to his church family, members of his family, guests and friends who came to share this Celebration of Excellence with him.

He alluded to his mother, Mrs. Elzie Morton, with praise and thanksgiving when he said "A dream that has been born never dies, but passes on to another generation."

Our honoree reminded all of us that we should not be short-sighted in our concept of God and His power to change our lives.

"Let's stop dreaming little dreams and start expanding our horizon. We'll never reach new heights if we set limits on God."

Our Honoree summarized the events of this celebration by quoting one of his favorite oratory expressions from "Mother To Son," written by Langston Hughes – I'se still Climbin; Life for me ain't been no crystal stair," and his familiar expression "not done yet."

THE GOSPEL CARAVAN

By Hamil Harris

From the gospel pearl, "One More River To Cross," to their modern and trendy "Love Lifted Me," The True Tones say they've had a "long hard road" to the top, but after 31 years they're going strong.

The oldest member of the True Tones is James Singletary; who is the only original True Tones still with the group. Other members of the group and their years of service are as follows.

Albert Phillips, 28 years, Joe Brown 26 years, Isaac Salmon, 25 years, Will Walker 10 years and Ricky Nobles the newest lead singer, two years.

Musicians include Lloyd More, the guitarist of 12 years, Organists for eight years are Patrick Walker, Perry Ashton and Kevin Wheeler.

According to Isaac Salmon, another True Tone, it isn't hard to sing with this group of guys, "because all of us are Christians, we believe in God and we are brothers."

The True Tones will be hitting the two top gospel quartets on tour spanning Nacoabuches, Tx. to Little Rock, Ark. According to their manager Will Walker this is just another achievement they attribute to the group's "Faith in God."
