EXPERIENCE UNLIMITED (E.U.)

Culture, entertainment and color-the African—American Festival is back!

Like no other festival in the United States where a mix of local and national entertainment grace the same stage, the African-American Festival held this weekend in Festival Hall will explode with an array of cultural diversity.

The African-American Festival will offer an explosive lineup of entertainment including the musical group E.U. on Friday, Radiant, Skyy and Today on Saturday and Natalie Cole on Plus, a host of local entertainment will show you why Baltimore is proud to know them.

A special exhibit, "The Quest For Education: A Time Capsule Chronology of the Struggle for Education by African-Americans' will be on display.

African jewelry, clothes, sculpture and other crafts will be sold throughout the Festival.

And for you fitness buffs, a 10-K race will begin at Festival Hall at 7:30 a.m. on Sunday.

So, for those of you who would like a taste of African-American life, stop by the African-American Festival this weekend. You'll have a ball!
