

Did you and your wife occupy and reside in this property until the time of the divorce?

Yes sir.

That was up to February 25, 1930?

Yes.

Did your wife have any earning capacity independent of what you earned yourself?

No sir, not as I knowed of.

During your married life she was not employed by anyone?

She was working in Washington when I was sick, when we got a divorce.

Had your property been paid for before that time?

Yes sir.

Out of your own earnings?

Yes sir.

When you found out about your wife's unfaithfulness, as proven in No. 12,001 Equity in this Court, was there any furniture in the home?

Yes sir.

Question excepted to.

This property still stands in the name of you and your wife?

Yes sir.

Who has been looking after the property since your divorce?

I did, best as I could.

You have it rented?

Yes sir.

Been rented constantly since the divorce?

Not all the time. It was vacant about three or four months since then.

What total amount of rent to February 1, 1932, have you received?

$507.00.

From whom did you receive the rent?

Harry Albert, and Mr. Henschrode.

You have an account in your hands showing the expenses that you have paid for repairs, taxes, etc. since the divorce?

Yes sir.

Do you know exactly what this amount totals?

I counted it up for $423.26.

I now file this account with the Examiner and the same is herewith filed and marked Exhibit "expenses".

I would like to state that all the furniture in the home that we had was bought and paid for out of my earnings, as my then wife had no independent income of her own, and that when she left she took the greater amount of this furniture away from my home.

Excepted to.

She got how much in value?

I had over $2,000.00 worth of furniture.

How much in value did she get?

Practically all but one bed, 1 chifforobe, a couple chairs and 2 stoves.

Is this real estate rented at the present time?

Yes sir.

To whom?

Richard Henschrode.

Since your wife left you, when you were divorced, this statement that you have filed as expenses has represented the net amount of income you have received, and the expenses that were necessary to keep this property in repair?
