

Q. As much as $200?

A. Well I tell you, I won't say, because I haven't been around home for 18 or 19 years.

Q. You are out there now?

A. Well yes, but I hardly get out that way, see.

Q. (The Court) You said a little while ago you and Mr. Schnauffer were in the Orphans' Court. Was that to see about administration on your father's estate? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Do you know why administration was not taken out at that time?

A. No, sir.

Q. Was it because there was not enough estate to administer on?

A. I kind of thought so, I don't know.

Q. Did your father have any money in bank at the time of his death?

A. Not as I know of. I don't see how he could have had. He was going backwards instead of forwards there after he got pensioned.

Q. (Mr. DeLauter) Your father was pensioned by the B. & O.?

A. Yes, he only got $23 a month.

Q. How much of a family did he have to support with that $23 a month? A. There was two there besides himself.

Q. (The Court) Did he have anything except furniture in the house?

A. No, sir.

Q. Have you any idea what that was worth?

A. No.

Q. How much furniture did he have?

A. I wouldn't like to say. A poor man like that wouldn't have a whole lot.

Q. What became of the furniture?

A. Well, my sister, the one that kept house for him, she is here at the home place. When she was married to Mr. Barnes, my brother that is dead now came on the place and my father gave the best of it to her, and my brother moved in. That's been a good while ago, and after that they got along the best way they could.

Q. You and your sister and some of the other children took what you got from the insurance to pay the funeral expenses because there was nothing else to pay them with?

A. No, wasn't nothing else to pay them with. There was three of us. You see that was ours.

Q. It was payable to you but you used it to pay the funeral expenses of your father?

A. Yes, sir.

(The Court)

Q. Do you know how much money your father owed?

A. Around the neighborhood of $300 to the Bank now I guess. I just couldn't tell you.

Q. Did he leave furniture of sufficient value to pay his indebtedness?

A. Well it's been so long since I have been around the place I couldn't say.

Q. Your sister and your brother are now living in the house?

A. No, my brother is dead. That's been some years back.

Q. When did your father die? A. In 1934.

Q. I thought you said your brother moved in after your father's death?

A. No, sir, moved in there after my sister married Mr. Barnes.

Then my father gave them some stuff and my brother moved in and my brother died some years ago.

Q. Before your father's death? A. Oh yes.

Q. Who is occupying the house now?

A. My sister, the one that kept house for my father.

Q. She is using the furniture that was in the house at the time your father died?
