

MARIAN WEBSTER STULL, the Complainant, produced in her own behalf, being first duly sworn, deposes and says: .

By Mr. Storm:

Q Your name is Marion Webster Stull? A. Yes.

Q You are the widow of Mr. Benton Stull? A. Yes.

Q And the stepmother of these boys who testified?

A Yes.

Q Mrs Stull, did you hear any conversation between your husband and Guy concerning the sale of the farm after the discovery of the lien against it - the judgment?

A Sometimes. I heard very little, but still all I know Daddy told me. I didn't hear any conversation. I did try to hear it the last time that Daddy was nervous and the doctor told me not to have any excitement, and the last time was about a week before he died, and I heard a commotion in the room and right smart of an argument, and I tried to hear, but I couldn't hear. I went to the door different times, but the conversation stopped when I went to the door. I didn't think it was right to have that kind of argument in there.

Q What do you know about the sale of the farm, Mrs. Stull?

A Well, the only thing I know, Daddy wanted to sell it, because he wasn't able to take care of it, but after we were in here on the first of April, the first time we knew about the judgment, the first day of April we came in and when we came home was the first time I knew about the judgment, and Daddy said we couldn't do anything, because we would have to wait till the judgment was cleared up before the sale could be made.

Q What was said, if anything, about the sale of the property with the judgment?

A Well, he said we would sell the place but he wanted Guy to take the judgment.

Q Was Guy present at that time?

A No. (Objection) Of course it was out doing the work when
