

at the dinner table she would go to reach for something and she would either overreach or underreach, and she would do an awful lot of piddling around one thing or another. He said then we better take her to the hospital and have her checked, there was something wrong at that time. In about a week we took her to Shadyside Hospital at Pittsburg. She was under the care of Dr. Lee, and he told us at that time she had hardening of the arteries and there was no hope of her getting any better and it would just gradually grow worse to the point she is now.

Q Has she gotten progressively worse?

A Yes.

Q In your opinion, from your observation, would you think she is capable of taking care of her person and estate?

A No, sir. Personally, I think I should have done this four years ago. I think we would be better off today if we had somebody to take care of her personal and business affairs.

Q What does her estate consist of, if anything?

A Her house on East Church Street and some bedroom furniture, and dishes and a few things, but I couldn't truthfully say what is there now, but I know what she should have. As far as dishes getting broke and blankets and quilts, other than what things you ordinarily would have, she lived with us from 1933, when I went to housekeeping, until 1936, when I moved to outside Pittsburg, and at that time she had her own bedroom furniture.

Q What is the number of the house on East Church Street?

A 232.

Q What do you think a fair value of that house would be?

A I would think between $5,000 and $7,000, because the bank gave a mortgage on it for $2500, and I don't think they would want to give ^{much} more than half.

Q Do you know who got the money for that loan?

A My brother and sister-in-law got the money for the mort-
