

THOMAS S. GLASS, a witness called by the Complainants, being first duly sworn, deposes and says:

By Mr. Tebbs:

Q Mr. Glass, you are a practicing lawyer here in Frederick, Frederick County?

A Yes, I am.

Q Would you tell the Court whether or not I had the occasion to visit with you at your office one Saturday morning at Thurmont for the purpose of discussing with you the means of selling and disposing of the property of the late Edgar A.
Valentine amicably?

A Before I answer any questions I would like to seek the advice of counsel and direction of the Court. Your Honor, I represent Mrs. Agnes Zimmerman, a daughter of Mr. and Mrs.
Valentine, and also I represent Mr. Edgar Valentine, Jr., in their capacity as executrix and executor of both their mother and their father's estate. Anything that I know about this case has been learned through my client.

Q (The Court) Through your clients?

A Client; in an attorney relationship. I think Mr. Tebbs can verify this - I think his object in having me here is to try to show whether or not there was an agreement between the parties as to the amicable disposition of this real estate - whether or not they were in agreement - and the parties are all here, they can speak for themselves as to whether they are in agreement, and it is embarrassing for me to testify under the circumstances.

THE COURT: That's right; step down.
