

EDGAR A. VALENTINE, JR., one of the Respondents, being first duly sworn, deposes and says:

By Mr. Brown:

Q What, in your opinion, is the value of this farm?

THE COURT: Fair market value? If placed at public sale?

A Well, I would say $38,000.

Q You think around $38,000?

A Yes.

Q You are a farmer, is that correct?

A Yes.

Q Do you have a farm in the community on which this farm is located?

A About two miles from it.

Q And you are familiar with this farm?

A Yes.

Q And you are familiar with the buildings and improvements that are on the farm?

A Yes, sir, helped to put most of them there.

Q. And in your opinion the value of that farm would be approximately $38,000? All right.

MR. TEBBS: No questions.

THE WITNESS: Can I say anything now? Just about this 10% Mr. Tebbs wanted. I read the paper he sent Mr. Glass. If Mr. Glass wasn't representing him why did he send the paper to him? That is why they said they couldn't get us together, Your Honor. That is the only thing on that, they wanted 10%, while Mr. Glass represented 5 and they represented the other 5.
(The Court)

Q Were you one of the five Mr. Glass was supposed to represent?

A Yes.

Q You had never called to see Mr. Glass?

A No, I went to attend to some other business and he said he
