

out any more.

Q And the properties that you mentioned are properties you and he own jointly?

A Yes.

Q Do you think he could make a valid deed or contract; does he know enough to transact business?

A No, nothing at all. No indeed, he didn't hardly know Millard or I when we went down last week.

Q When you saw him at the hospital did he realize he was in the hospital?

A No indeed. In fact, we would have stayed in there with him, but he said he had to go, we would have to excuse him, that the men were waiting on him to go to the farm to work, so that he would have to leave. So he left us long before it was time.

Q Does he have any bank accounts in his own name, Mrs. Dutrow?

A Yes, he did jointly.

Q Everything is joint, is that correct?

A Yes.

Q Does he have any property that was his independent of the joint accounts?

A No, we always--

Q Kept everything together?

A Yes, we both kept everything together.
