

him out of jail and I thought just might as well as file it if I could; if I get anything I get it; not get anything, I don't get nothing.

(Mr. Storm) Mrs. Harp, do you want to ask him any questions? You are not represented by Counsel.

(Mrs. Catherine E. Harp) About this beer, I don't think you are allowed to sell beer on credit, are you?

A I think so; I have done it.

Q I know lots of people do, but I understand that is against the law.

A I don't know if it is against the law or not.

Q The time I was out there I never knew Earl to buy anything on credit that pertained to groceries.

A Oh yes, he did too.

Q Loaf of bread or anything.

A Oh yes, he did too.

Q That was probably before I went there.

A Before they put him down the road we used to let his wife come over and get bread, groceries, sardines and all that kind of stuff - tomatoes.

Q Well, I am <sup>not</sup> talking about before he was sent up. I don't know anything about that, but what you are talking about--

A That was when he was with his first wife. That wasn't when he was with you.

Q I don't know about that.

Q (Mr. Storm) How long ago has that been?

(Mr. Smith) I don't know. How long has it been, Mr. James?

(Mr. James) I don't know. How long ago were you married to him?

(Mrs. Harp) A I was married to him the 22nd of January, 1940. This is 1944. That is four years.

Q When did he die? A. The 17th of December, 1942.

(Mr. Smith) This was before he separated from Bessie, when he come back from down in the cut where he was at.

(Mrs. Harp) I didn't know anything about that.

(Mr. Smith) Maybe you didn't, but that is when he got it. I'll tell you who was the Judge at Woodsboro; right across there from Dr. Stultz's place.

(Mr. Storm) Mr. Smith, if you want to maintain your bill you would have to prove your bill. It's got to be <sup>within</sup> three years of March 15, 1943, when you filed.

A Well I thought this way: If I didn't get nothing I didn't
