

another. It was ten acres here, and then south of this ten acres they were given to one of the other members of the family - my grandmother - and I thought by that it wouldn't be much trouble in surveying it out.

Q I guess this was your great-grandfather, is that correct?

A Great-grandfather.

Q Did he ever mark off this land and locate the various parcels before he died?

A Not as I know of.

Q But in your opinion it can be divided in kind, is that right?

A I think so.

Q Do you know of any of the heirs who are willing to buy the whole and pay off the other heirs?

A No, sir, I don't.

CROSS EXAMINATION BY MR. STEWART BROWN:

Q Mr. Johnson, how old are you?

A I am 42 years old.

Q Did you ever know your great-grandfather?

A Well, that is a long story. I mean I can't remember him too well, but I did know him.

Q Now, Mr. Johnson, you say you know this property?

A Yes.

Q When were you there last?

A Last year.

Q Last year. What was its condition at that time?

A It had grown up quite a bit.

Q Now you have testified that in your opinion this property can be divided amongst the heirs?

A Yes, sir.

Q In kind, that is? A. Yes.

Q In other words:

A Sections.
