CLOVER BLOSSOM. HAY FEVER.

BALTIMORE, July 13, 1877.

Having been a great sufferer from Hay-Fever and Asthma during the past twelve years, and after buying many of the so called cures and remedies for the same without any benefit, I was induced by a friend who had experienced relief (although much against my will) to try WALCOTT'S REMEDIES.

I am satisfied there is no cure for chronic Hay Fever, but after using Walcott's External Clover Poultice as directed I found much relief in a few hours. My throat as well as nostrils were almost entirely closed. I could not use my nose for breathing purposes at all during the Hay Fever period, some forty days in the year.

By daily rubbing my nose and head for many years to my great relief, I could breathe through my nostrils as easily as any, one that they were entirely free, and have since continued so.

Therefore I cheerfully recommend to all persons afflicted with Hay Fever or diseases of like nature the use of CLOVER BLOSSOM and CLOVER TONIC, and believe if they are freely used a few weeks prior to the usual term the disease will be much lighter and perhaps prevented.

THE SUN.

THE TUNNEL BETWEEN ENGLAND AND FRANCE.—It is now three-quarters of a century since the project was broached of driving a tunnel through the chalk formation underlying the British channel between some point on the English coast and the opposite point on the coast of France. Although the distance between Dover and Calais is only twenty-two miles, and is traversed by steamers in an hour and a half in fair weather, yet the roughness of the channel is at all times such as to be very distressing to all but experienced travelers, and deters many persons from making the trip at all. Since the introduction of railways forty years ago the tunnel project which Mr. Mataien, a French engineer, laid before Bonaparte in 1802, has acquired year by year additional importance. About ten years ago the subject was revived with much earnestness, and after the experimental tests were found to be satisfactory, the governments of England and France granted the right of way to a channel company which was incorporated in 1872. This company has since decided to place the route of the tunnel on a line drawn from the south foreland on the English side, to a point between Sangatte and Calais in France."

The tunnel, if it should be constructed, will commence and end at some distance inland, to allow for a gradual descent on one side and ascent on the other. The inland parts of the tunnel will be nine miles in length, counting the distance underground at both ends. The length of the tunnel under the channel will be twenty-two miles, making the total length thirty-one miles. The cost of simply driving the tunnel from end to end through the underlying chalk formation is estimated at four millions of dollars, and the time it would require to construct the driftway two years. The engineers calculate that it would take four years more to finish the work, including the arching of the tunnel, building the offices and making the necessary connections with the railways on both sides. The total cost is put at twenty millions of dollars. A short time ago a meeting of the tunnel company was held in Paris, at which were read the reports of the engineers engaged during the past year in making the preliminary submarine surveys. These surveys were pronounced quite satisfactory, a continuous bed of chalk having been traced underling the channel from shore to shore. As a further experimental test of the practicability of the scheme the sum of one hundred and sixty thousand pounds sterling has been provided principally by the railway companies interested (the prosecution of the work,) to sink pits on both sides into the chalk beds and drive a section of the tunnel half a mile under the waters of the channel.

Thus far everything works favorable to the ultimate completion of this great engineering project. Whether the necessary amount of capital can be obtained is the chief problem now to be solved. An attempt has been made to show that sufficient revenue could be derived from passengers to pay a fair interest on the capital invested, in addition to the current expenses of lighting, ventilating and operating this long line of road under the bed of the sea. The number of persons crossing the channel annually between Dover and Calais is believed to be about four hundred thousand. The theory is that this number would be doubled if the tunnel were built, and the sickness incidental to the sea voyage thus avoided. But it is not shown that a tunnel thirty-one miles in length would itself be free from equally serious objections. The project nevertheless is a grand one, and if capitalists can be induced to believe that the tunnel can be made to pay there is abundance of money wherewith to build it now seeking investment.

THE NIGHT REFUGE ASSOCIATION of New York seems to be one of the most useful charities of that city. It was established in the winter of 1876-77, its object being to provide temporary night refuge for the respectable homeless poor, who, previously, on applying to police stations for relief, had been herded with the vilest. An allowance of $10,000 was obtained from the city, and an old hospital fitted up where clean sleeping quarters of the simplest nature and a morning meal and facilities for washing were provided. A small amount of work was required for such accommodations. A reading-room was well supplied with magazines and papers. Applicants for relief deemed worthy were provided with tickets at the police stations. The dormitories could be opened only after 6 o'clock P. M., and the house was closed at 10 o'clock. None could remain in the rooms after 7 o'clock A. M. Those who remained to work received no pay, but were provided with a dinner of meat stew, potatoes and turnips, with bread. Forty or fifty men would sometimes be employed in sawing wood. This was mainly intended as a test to distinguish genuine workers from tramps. The total number of individuals receiving shelter has been 6,051. Six hundred persons were enabled to procure employment during their stay at the Refuge. The inmates included clergymen, lawyers, dentists, engravers, mechanics, and skilled laborers. Servants out of place and hospital convalescents; 5,763 meals were furnished, costing $94 25. A balance of $10,195 now remains for the future use of the Refuge. The arrests for vagrancy largely diminished during its establishment. The facts connected with this institution are worth studying, and are fraught with lessons for the philanthropist and political economist.

PROGRESS IN JAPAN.—An essay was read at the late graduation day in the Protestant Episcopal Theological Seminary, at Alexandria, Va., by Mr. Yokohama, a native of Japan, one of those ordained deacon. He is a gentleman of remarkable intelligence, and has passed through a thorough scholastic and theological training. In this essay he refers to recent changes, political, educational and social, in Japan, which, in his opinion, have prepared that country for Christianity and a higher civilization. He speaks of the material improvements as wonderful in every department of life. The old systems of education are given up, and in their place new model public schools, seminaries, colleges, universities and normal schools have been established under the patronage of the imperial government, and many foreign teachers and professors have accepted chairs in their schools. Books of a moral, medical and scientific character have been translated, and also books of law, mathematics, geology, astronomy and political economy are already used as text books in their schools. The military organization is now entirely established upon the best improved systems of Europe. Steam engines are now introduced into Japanese manufactories, and railroads, steamships and telegraphic lines are extensively used for modes of communication. The essay of Mr. Yokohama is most interesting and encouraging in the highest degree as to the future of Japan, but, in its plain, practical and logical statements, reflects credit upon his culture and common sense.

AN INDEPENDENT DEMOCRATIC ORGANIZATION has been formed in New York city by Rufus Andrews and other politicians of some local reputation. The association has adopted an address censuring Gov. Robinson for failing to approve certain measures of municipal reform, and declaring that the necessity for a thorough reformation in the management of city affairs was never more apparent than now.

MANUFACTURES.—The Philadelphia Press says that while there is depression in the dry goods trade, the manufactures of that city are in a remarkably flourishing condition, some of them doing a better business than at any previous period. The production this year is estimated at $600,000,000, against $552,000,000 last year. The day is coming, we trust, when Baltimore will be able to make a better showing than this.

TELEGRAPHIC SUMMARY, ETC.

The report that a great battle was progressing in Bulgaria is groundless. The Russians are closing in upon Rustchuk no doubt, but no general engagement has yet occurred—The Russian general found Bayazid destroyed when he entered, and so infected with the effluvia of dead bodies that it was impossible to remain in the place—It is stated that Austria intended to propose mediation as soon as the military situation is clearly defined—Hobart Pasha has carte blanche at last—It is said the Turks have beaten the Russians and reoccupied Tirnova—The Chinese troops are slowly advancing into Kashgar. Yacoob Beg is dead. His son succeeds him—Maurice Auguste de Bethmann Hollweg, of Prussia, is dead.

Major W. P. Craighill, of the engineer department, gives official notice to mariners that the work of closing the new inlet at Wilmington, N. C., has progressed so far that further navigation of the same may be considered dangerous. It is expected that by the 20th instant the gap near Smith's Island, heretofore left open for the accommodation of shipping, will be entirely closed at low water. The whole bar and river improvement is progressing satisfactorily. Vessels drawing 13½ to 14 feet navigate safely from Wilmington to the mouth of the river, and can cross the bar drawing 16 feet.

The funeral of Thomas Lee Hackett, who was murdered in Montreal Thursday, will take place to-day. Elaborate preparations have been made by the Orangemen for an immense turnout of Protestant societies of Montreal and other cities. A painter who exhibited a pistol which he said killed Hackett, has been arrested. The Orangemen of Ottawa have decided to send 500 of their body to Montreal, to be joined by 150 from "Bell's Corners," 300 from Russell county, 100 from Vankiek Hill and a large number from Ottawa county.

As the express train from Washington for New York, which arrives at Philadelphia at 7 P. M., was passing through the West Philadelphia tunnel Saturday it jumped the track, the baggage car was demolished and the train set on fire. Joseph Miller, fireman, was instantly killed, a passenger named Samuel Frame had his left leg cut off and died Sunday.

In Memphis, Tenn., at 6.40 P. M. Saturday a sharp and well defined shock of earthquake was felt, lasting only for a moment and doing no damage. A wedding ceremony was being performed at Grace Church, and as Bishop Pierce, of Arkansas, who was officiating, announced the couple man and wife, the shock came and created a commotion among those present.

The Pottsville (Pa.) Miners' Journal describes a fight between a sparrow and a chicken, the latter only a few weeks old. They quarreled about a crumb, and, like human beings, resorted to blows. In a few minutes the chick was lying on its back, with its feet up, dead, and the sparrow, having eaten the crumb, flew away.

Hon. Sumner Howard, district attorney of Utah, says that the object of his visit to San Francisco was to hunt up a certain witness for the purpose of producing him before the grand jury of Utah, in an action investigating Mormon affairs of that Territory. The name of the witness and nature of his testimony is withheld. Howard left San Francisco with the witness for Utah yesterday.

Miss E. J. Ellis, of Wesleyan University, Middletown, Conn., who declined the position of class poet because of the objections of the male members of the class, has just been awarded the prize of $100 for the best English essay. She has accepted a position as instructor in the female college at Wellesley, Mass., with a salary of $800 and board.

The attempt to reorganize the Charter Oak Life Insurance Company has failed, and a movement has been made for the appointment of a receiver. The president of the company has instituted suit for $100,000 against the Hartford, (Conn.) Courant, for comparing him and his associates to the Hampton bank robbers.

The collector of the port of Boston and a number of other government officials in that city resigned on Saturday as members of the republican State committee in accordance with the new civil service rules. The Massachusetts republican State convention will be held at Worcester September 19.

Cox and other members are now in the midst of communication with many of the leading importers and merchants, gaining fresh information and new points on the subject. The democratic State committee also intend to urge the approaching State convention to take strong ground in the same direction. The watchword is to be, "A tariff for revenue only."

TELEGRAPHIC NEWS.

FROM WASHINGTON.

[Special Dispatch to the Baltimore Sun.]

The Civil Service Reform and the National Republican Committee—A Serious Hitch and a Demand for a Summary Solution—The Delayed Idaho-Bound Regiment.

WASHINGTON, July 15.—Since the announcement that the President has decided that the members of the republican national committee are excepted from the operations of his recent order forbidding officials from participating in political conventions or acting on political committees there has been a more hopeful feeling among the republican wire-pullers that the President is backing down, and will not enforce his recent order. Several letters were received here to-day urging persons holding close relations with the President to go and advise him to reconsider his decision in this matter, and to place the members of the national committee on the same footing as other persons holding federal positions. The reform element in the republican party is considerably annoyed at the President's decision in regard to Postmaster Filley and Mr. McCormick, two members of the national committee, and it is asserted very freely that unless the President abandons the position thus taken it will be impossible to enforce the recent executive order.

WHY THE TROOPS DIDN'T GO.

It is said at the War Department in explanation of the complaint made by Gen. McDowell in a recent dispatch that although a regiment of troops was ordered to Idaho from the South over a week ago, they had not yet started that the railroad companies refuse to transport the troops unless they could see how they were to receive their pay. There being no money appropriated to defray the expenses of the army, the railroad officials wanted to know how they were to be paid before transporting the troops. Hence the delay. The matter was finally adjusted, the railroad companies agreeing to take "promises to pay."

DISMISSAL OF AN INDIAN BUREAU CLERK.

WASHINGTON, July 15.—L. S. Hayden, a clerk in the Indian Bureau, was on Saturday summarily dismissed by the Secretary of the Interior as the first public result of the pending investigation of the allegations of irregularities and fraudulent practices in the Indian service. Secretary Schurz in his letter of dismissal sets forth that testimony taken by the board of inquiry shows that Hayden, according to his own evidence, has accepted money and other things of value from contractors, and that he has held private correspondence with outside parties in relation to matters of business at the department. The Secretary concludes by saying that such conduct is utterly incompatible with that sense of duty and those principles of honor which should animate every public officer, and therefore notifies Hayden that his services will be immediately dispensed with. Secretary Schurz in conversation on this subject expresses an earnest determination of summarily dismissing any and all employees of the department who may be found guilty of irregular or corrupt practices. Hayden was appointed from Maryland, and has been a clerk for about sixteen years. He says his testimony related to transactions occurring many years ago, and has been misunderstood. He has therefore asked a suspension of sentence for a few days, until he can make explanations, which he asserts will be found satisfactory.

[Special Dispatch to the Baltimore Sun.]

From our Wall Street Correspondent.

NEW YORK, July 14.—Gov. Houston, of Ala., writes to this city saying that he is now ready to carry out the compromise the State offered about a year ago to the holders of the indorsed bonds of the Alabama and Chattanooga railroad. This compromise was at the rate of 20 cents on the dollar, or say $1,000,

THE SILVER QUESTION IN OHIO.—There is something curious in the persistency with which the politicians of the State of Ohio continue to make the currency question the leading issue in their local politics. One would suppose that they might elect a Governor and a State Legislature without reference to the opinions of either upon the subject of the bimetallic standard or the remonetization of silver, or even the question of fixing the date of specie resumption, especially as the regulation of the currency under the constitution belongs to the federal government exclusively, and the date of resumption has already been fixed by act of Congress. Possibly, however, in Ohio they regard all their local politics as national politics, since so many of their local politicians hold high places in the national government. With President, Chief Justice, Secretary of the Treasury and General of the army all "hailing," as the phrase is, from that State, to say nothing of the undefined guardianship exercised over the whole country by the Hon. Stanley Matthews and Gen. Garfield, the mistake is, perhaps, a natural one. Ohio is the Union, and as the people of Ohio think upon the currency question so perforce must Congress legislate. That at least seems to be the idea out there, and therefore there was an especial propriety in the Hon. David Wells, of Connecticut, addressing his last letter upon the silver question to the editor of a Cincinnati paper. Secretary Sherman, it is said, feels the necessity of yielding to the exigencies of the political situation in Ohio, so far as to have promised that there shall be no more contraction of the currency at present. Just at this time, in spite of civil service reform, it is apprehended that the importance of "saving Ohio" divides the attention of the administration with Capt. Howgate's expedition to the North Pole and Mr. Woodward's expedition around the world.

Seriously, it is nothing less than a national misfortune thus to have the currency question made year after year the foot-ball of Ohio State politics, to be bandied backwards and forwards by the candidates for local offices in that State. In the first place, as we have suggested, there is no possible way in which its consideration can or ought to enter into the question of the comparative fitness and qualifications of candidates for State or local offices. The financial views of a candidate for Congress may well be a subject of interest to the people whom he desires to represent, but not necessarily those of a candidate for Governor any more than of a candidate for sheriff or city councilman. In the next place the question is not properly a party question. It is a question upon which in the last Congress, as well as in the Congress before the last, the representatives of both political parties were hopelessly if not equally divided. It is not a question suited for the hustings, or on which men are likely to be helped to clearer and sounder views by campaign speeches, barbecues and fireworks. The only effect of the introduction of such an issue into the Ohio State election has been already and will be again to place in the way of both parties the temptation to commit themselves in favor of what may be thought to be the popular side of the question for a merely local and temporary purpose. Both parties will seek to cater to the supposed popular weakness for what is imagined to be, however erroneously, a "cheaper currency."

Two years ago it was the "rag baby," "more greenbacks," which the heart of the Ohio yeoman hankered after; now it is "the silver dollar of our fathers," whatever that may mean. Instead of honestly striving to enlighten the popular mind upon the subject and to inculcate sounder views of the currency the party leaders on both sides vie with each other in their bids for the support of the friends of a "cheaper" or a "more abundant" currency. A disgraceful race of diligence is inaugurated between the two parties as to which shall go farthest and oftenest most to coin not ignorance simply, or of extravagance, but of downright dishonesty and insincerity consequently pervades a great deal of what is said and written in Ohio about the currency. Cant phrases take the place of serious argument, and "the silver dollar of our daddies" does duty on the stump in place of "the blood-bought and battle-born" paper money of the last canvass. Even the Secretary of the Treasury—too much of an Ohioan to be indifferent to the state and prospects of parties in Ohio—incurs the suspicion of holding very different language upon the subject of the currency to his fellow-party managers at Columbus from what he would use at a meeting of Boston capitalists or to a committee of Wall street bankers. It is important to understand this in order to know how much, or rather how little significance to attach to the present agitation of the "silver" money question in Ohio. As a test of public opinion on the subject throughout the country it is absolutely valueless. It is only a test of the cleverness and dexterity of the opposing party managers in their efforts to make present capital out of the question for their own side.

A FELLOW THAT KNOWS ALL ABOUT IT.—The Maryland Journal, published at Towsontown, the county seat of Baltimore county, devotes more of its last issue to the fun department than is the custom of the most humorous weekly rural journals. A funny fellow occupies about a column and a half of that usually discreet paper in demonstrating that "the Baltimore press"—that is the expression—"is conducted by pigmies," (compared, we suppose, with the journalistic and judicial giants of Towsontown,) and that "their ignorance and imbecility are provocative of healthful mirth." Such being the case he ought to be thankful that the small wits of Baltimore are at least capable of imparting a healthful sensation to the morbid, overgrown intellect of Towsontown journalism. The occasion of this Jones's falls freshet of humor is the disapproval which the Baltimore press has presumed to express of the action of Judges Grason and Yellott of Baltimore county in adjourning the court for the term when the grand jury was in the midst of an investigation of alleged corruption in the administration of the affairs of the county. The ludicrous creature in the Maryland Journal divides his "sarkastikal" sallies into equal proportions between the grand jury and the "Baltimore press," whose absurdity, ignorance and want of capacity seem to have consisted in supporting the purpose of the grand jury to investigate, instead of the action of the court in inopportunely adjourning. He speaks of the miserable gossips and grumblers of the "Baltimore press," "meddlesome creatures," "always prying into their neighbors' kitchens," as the police sometimes do when thieves and burglars are concealing themselves in those quarters, and "peeping down their chimneys," after the fashion, we suppose, of varlets, who put their ears to keyholes of grand jury rooms in order to find out for the benefit of their proprietors what is transpiring therein. The funny fellow also intimates that any doubts of the perfect honesty of public officials in Baltimore county are the consequence of eating green apples and buttermilk, and shakes his sides over the witticism of a friend of his who calls Mr. Berry, the foreman of the grand jury, a gooseberry. At one time the county clown becomes serious, and intimates that if "gentlemen now on the bench" of Baltimore county are to be "insulted and maligned" they "will quietly retire to the bar," and he asks "who will take their places?" This is a fearful conundrum which we do not feel called upon to solve, but are simply paralyzed at the suggestion of such a possibility, and can only assure the bar and clients of our profound sympathies. The funny fellow defies any Baltimore editor to meddle with Baltimore county concerns, "if he dares," though he says "fools rush in where angels fear to tread," which, as to angels not fallen and who may wish to keep their skirts clean, may be true enough so far as some mud puddles are concerned. He says he never saw anything in his life but a newspaper copied from a Baltimore journal in any other newspaper in the country. This only shows how limited is the area of his reading. On this point his rollicking humor has got ahead of the facts, for, so far as "THE SUN" is concerned, its articles are so generally quoted from the Potomac to the Rio Grande that we scarcely open an exchange that we do not see some of them therein. The funny fellow dates his letter at "The Bower," and signs himself "Boffin," which is very appropriate; only we think, from the sprightly wit and exquisite point and truthfulness in his article, the good natured but rather dull "Boffin" couldn't have been the author. It must have been Silas Wegg.

CHANGES IN THE MISSISSIPPI RIVER.—Some very noticeable changes are going on in the Mississippi river at Vicksburg and Port Hudson. Since March 22 Delta Point, opposite the former city, has receded six hundred and ninety-five feet, and the banks for a mile above in like proportion, while at Port Hudson a bar is reported as forming across the stream, which will necessitate the removal of the railroad terminus at that point to Clinton or some lower town.

Hon. Charles Francis Adams has again been elected president of the board of overseers of Harvard College.

THE LOUISIANA RETURNING BOARD.—A statement is published over the signatures of the members of the Louisiana returning board to the effect that no presentment has been made of them by the grand jury in Orleans parish for "forgery, perjury and malfeasance in office." What really has been done, according to their representation, amounts simply to this: Information embracing the above charges has been formally filed in court by the district attorney, and on that information Wells and his associates have been held to bail. They say that the information was filed on the 15th of June, and that the grand jury continued in session until the close of the month, when they were discharged without presenting a bill of indictment. As the court adjourned on the 7th of July for ninety days no further action can possibly be taken until it reassembles. The accused parties assume that as the grand jury separated without authorizing an indictment it is fair to conclude that they did not find evidence sufficient to justify it," and they intimate that as nothing can be done with the cases in court until September next the intention in filing the information was that they should suffer under the charges thus preferred until the court was reopened in the fall. This gives them, however, the advantage of more time to answer the charges.

THE NON-INTERFERENCE POLICY.—The New York Sun publishes the fac similes of two checks for $5,000 each paid by Secretary of the Interior Chandler to Mr. Hayes in September last, (and indorsed by Mr. Hayes,) on the eve of the State election in Ohio, and which it is assumed was used for election expenses in that State. This exposure will neither add to nor detract from the public estimate of Mr. Chandler as an office-holding, active partisan and election manager; and while Mr. Hayes may then have profited by it as a candidate for office the public will now only be concerned to hold him to the position which he has assumed since becoming President. He has announced the policy of prohibiting federal officials to act as disbursing agents in political campaigns and against their taking an active part in politics. It is reasonable, therefore, to hope that he will so vigorously prosecute this policy that hereafter such officials, from cabinet ministers down to the lowest, will confine themselves to the discharge of the duties for which they are paid by the people irrespective of party.

ROYAL ROUTINE AS A LION SLAYER.—It appears that an ex-President while in England had to submit to the traditions of the country as to the precedence due to rank at entertainments. It is sad to be informed by the London correspondent of the New York Tribune that at the festivity given by the Prince of Wales at the Marlborough House to the Emperor of Brazil the North American lion appeared rather as a captive lion, and was put in the rear of the South American lion and of all the titled people who formed the solemn procession from the drawing-room to the dining-room. Perhaps, however, his position was intended as emblematic of the idea that our conquering hero drives all the world before him. At the State ball at Buckingham Palace, he was similarly ranked, as in the list of invited guests published on the following morning his name appeared "much nearer the end than the beginning."

Gen. Grant is now on the continent, where war being as common as peace, and generals as plenty as blackberries, he seems to create no particular sensation.

LIABILITY OF INDORSERS ON PROMISSORY NOTES.—The United States Supreme Court in a recent decision lays down several principles of law in reference to the liability of indorsers on promissory notes. It holds that an indorser is a competent witness to prove an agreement in writing, made with the holder of the note at the time of the indorsement, that he shall not be held liable thereon where the paper is still held by the party to whom the indorsement was made and has not been put into circulation. It also holds that an agreement like this and the indorsement taken together are equivalent, so far as the holder of the note is concerned, to "an indorsement without recourse to the indorser." It further holds that the omission of indorsers on a series of notes, under such agreement, to set up the agreement as a defense in a suit brought on two such notes does not preclude their setting it up in another action brought on other notes of the same series, the judgment in the first action not operating as an estoppel in the second.

REV. DR. LEONARD BACON has written a letter to the New York Tribune reviewing the recent speech of ex-Gov. Chamberlain at Woodstock, Conn., and defending the course of the President in his treatment of affairs in South Carolina and Louisiana. Dr. Bacon says the President "has done just what it was his duty to do," and declares that no one wants to see the President acting as "a supreme returning board for all elections of State Governors."

HATTER.—On Sunday, 15th July, at Woodberry, MARY ANN, in the 32d year of her age, daughter of Thomas and Mary Hatten. May she rest in peace.

The relatives and friends are requested to attend her funeral, from St. Thomas' Church, on this (Monday) morning, at nine o'clock.

MCFADDEN.—On the morning of the 15th instant, after a brief and painful illness, our darling little ANNIE, aged 3 years 6 months and 25 days, the only and beloved daughter of John B. and Carrie McDonald.

If you ask if Annie is dead,
Quivering lips will faintly say,
Little Annie is gently laid
In the green and mossy clay.
Pure and white the robe that's around her,
Soft and white her narrow bed.
Cold and green the sod that's o'er her,
And you ask if Annie is dead!

BY HER PARENTS.

The relatives and friends of the family are respectfully invited to attend her funeral, from the residence of her parents, No. 1911 West Pratt street, on to-morrow (Tuesday) afternoon, the 17th instant, at four o'clock.

METTAM.—At Pikesville, Baltimore county, on Sunday, July 15, 1877, WILHELMINA FORD, wife of Samuel B. Mettam, and daughter of the late Rev. William and Francis Ford, formerly of Edinburg, Scotland. [Philadelphia papers please copy.]

LEWIS.—Fell asleep in Jesus, on July 13, Mrs. F. L. LEWIS, beloved wife of J. W. Lewis, of Lester Manor, Va.

Weep not for her though death has set his signet on her now,
And though the dew of death has wet that pure and sunny brow;
Tis better thus to see her lie in calm unbroken rest,
Than hear her breathe the troubled sigh and mark her heaving breast.
Fond friends long watched that fragile flower, and sought with tender care
To shield safe from the spoiler's power that form so light and fair.

A FRIEND.

LETTER FROM WASHINGTON.

[Correspondence of the Baltimore Sun.]
WASHINGTON, July 15, 1877.

Sunday Services—The New Local Mail Wagons—The Club Room Business—Law Matters—Cutting Cases, etc.

The religious services to-day were at some of the churches of more than usual interest. Open-air meetings have been held since during the summer. The Christian Association held an open-air meeting this evening on Pennsylvania avenue, near Seventh street. There was a gospel tent meeting on the corner of Eighteenth street and Massachusetts avenue this afternoon, and the Mt. Sinai (colored) Church held a tent meeting at the intersection of Fourteenth and B streets, northeast. Among the participants was Bishop John M. Brown, of the Baltimore district.

The new local mail wagons for use in transporting the United States mails between the postoffice and the various railroad and steamboat depots arrived in this city last night and were put in service by the contractor, Mr. Owings, at an early hour this morning. There are three two-horse wagons and one a lighter vehicle for one horse. They were built according to the designs on exhibition at the postoffice department. They are painted of bright colors, are handsomely ornamented and attract much attention.

The case of T. Harry Donohue's "Garrick Club," on Pen nsylvania avenue, near Four-and-a-half street, was heard in the Police Court yesterday. Officer Block, who viewed the club-room from a back window of the Columbia buildings, testified that he saw there the ordinary operations of a bar-room, and it was proved that liquor had been bought and paid for at the bar, which was not licensed. The defense reported in this correspondence last week was set up, but the court held that "a club" had no greater right to carry on an unlicensed bar than an individual, and imposed a fine of $105. An appeal was entered. Donohue is a clerk in the Treasury Department.

Columbia Community of Knights Templar and Federal Lodge of Freemasons, in regalia and accompanied by music, this afternoon attended the funeral of Dr. George M. Howard from his late residence on Capitol Hill. Dr. Howard was a native of Glasgow.

Frank Gassaway was sentenced in the Criminal Court yesterday to five years in the penitentiary on conviction of robbing Randall Johnson.

The grand jury was yesterday adjourned until the 17th of September. Previous to its adjournment it brought into court the following indictments: Wm. Henderson, assault with intent to kill; John L. Weighman, selling without license; Eugene Van Riswick and Robert Edwards, larceny.

The Second (colored) Baptist Church case still continues unsettled, the Hawkins and the Fitzhugh parties refusing to come to terms. The Third (colored) Baptist Church is also still in difficulties, and the suit of Alexander vs. Bouldin, which involves the church title, was yesterday carried for the second time on appeal to the Supreme Court of the United States.

Paul Wellner and Max Wellner, arrested in Baltimore and brought here charged with robbing Alfred Deville of $140 at a restaurant near the Long bridge, were committed to jail for the grand jury yesterday by the Police Court.

The Criminal Court having concluded the trial of all the jail cases now ready for trial adjourned on yesterday until the third Monday of September. By a rule of court the present term of the Circuit Court must terminate to-morrow.

About 12 o'clock last night a colored man named Joseph Williams cut a colored woman named Eliza Johnson with a shoe knife at the corner of Pennsylvania avenue and Twenty-second street. She was taken into a store near by. Her wounds were found to be serious; she was cut across the throat, and the veins laid open. Her assailant escaped. The woman now lies in a critical situation at her house on an alley near Twenty-first and M streets, but her wounds are not necessarily fatal.

About 1:15 this morning James Wagner, colored, threw a knife at Wade and inflicted a painful wound, with which she is still suffering at her home, No. 1113 Twenty-first street northwest. Wagner escaped.

Car No. 69, of the Washington and Georgetown railway, broke down to-day about 12:15 P. M. on the avenue, and the frightened horses ran off. Fortunately no one was hurt.

All the arrangements for opening the Schnetzenfest on the 30th inst. have been completed.

Flavius Van Ruth, whose wife beating, &c., have of late caused his arrest several times, has been found insane and sent to the asylum.

A dead infant was found on the corner of New Jersey avenue and K street northwest last night.

The new rule closing the executive departments on Saturdays at 3 o'clock, instead of 4 o'clock P. M., was enforced into effect yesterday. Commissioner Dennison is now with his family at their summer seat near Oakland, Md. He will return in a few days.

Two additional paving contracts were awarded yesterday. Burns & Downing were awarded the contract for the Mount Vernon Avenue Square pavements, and the pavement at the intersection of Seventh street, E, I and H streets, &c.—These pavements are to be laid in Cape Ann granite, with hydraulic cement, at $2 per yard. The pavement of F street, between Twelfth and Thirteenth streets, concrete, was taken by J. Taylor at $1 74 per yard. G street southwest will not be repaired at present.

The funeral of Miss Lizzie Dyer, the daughter of the late Geo. Dyer, took place this afternoon from the Church of the Epiphany. The interment took place at Oak Hill Cemetery. The remains of Miss Dyer arrived here this morning from California, where she died about twelve days ago. She was on a visit there.

Alexandria Affairs.—J. S. Fowler has been appointed deputy clerk of the United States District and Circuit Courts at Alexandria, Va.

Jefferson Circle of the Brotherhood of the Union attended this afternoon the funeral of Alfred J. Marshall, who was at work on Friday, but died yesterday morning.

The city council continued the election of city officials on Friday night. The police force was chosen as follows: Captain, James Webster; lieutenants, John S. Smith; privates, H. A. Crump, Julian Arnold, J. S. Walker, Joseph Horseman, P. C. Bartlett, Chris. Lyles, B. F. Bettis, James Smith, all re-elected, and Thomas Hayes, it. Henry, A. Goodrich, Jere Fauks, Arthur Simpson, John Lawler and M. Lasbury, vice Purcell, Mullen, Nighengill, Philips, Hepburn and H. Webster.

Letter from Annapolis.

[Correspondence of the Baltimore Sun.]
ANNAPOLIS, MD., July 14, 1877.

Municipal Officers—Official Visit—Lower Wages.

The new corporation of Annapolis elected last night the following officers to serve the ensuing year: Clerk—Allen McCullough. Treasurer—R. W. Tate. City Commissioner—William Black. Market Master—R. McKenzie Davis. Chief of Police—Henry Burlingame. Policemen—C. M. Stinchcomb, James Mace, Michael Curran and Jas. W. Watkins. Lamplighters—Edw. Hurdle and Adam Miller.

Capt. Wm. N. Jeffers, chief of bureau of ordnance, Washington, paid an official visit to the Naval Academy to-day. He was received by the marines and with a salute from the United States ship Santee.

It is understood that the farm laborers in the lower section of this county, in view of the hard times on the farmers, have voluntarily offered to lower the rates of their wages.

Crime in Virginia.

[Correspondence of the Baltimore Sun.]
RICHMOND, VA., July 14.

Claude Dedman, colored, was arrested here this evening for passing a number of counterfeit half dollars.

The verdict in Henrico County Court in the case of Crawford Alley for outrage, has been set aside and a new trial granted.

Ben Williams, colored, has been sent to jail to be indicted for seduction under promise of marriage, and it is said that he will also be held for bigamy, having a wife here as well as one in Danville.

Hotel proprietors at Coney Island, Rockaway and at sea bathing resorts along the shore of Long Island Sound declare that they have lost much this summer through the habit of every other visitor bringing in the to appease hunger instead of depending upon the hotel restaurant for food.

Ex-Gov. Horatio Seymour is busily engaged preparing his oration to be delivered at the centennial of the battle of Saratoga.

The record of the arrivals at Saratoga shows a considerably larger number of people than at this season last year.

The Newport hotels have begun to fill up at last, and the number of transient sojourners is constantly increasing.

The warm weather has made a visible improvement in the affairs at Long Branch. The hotels are brighter with new faces, and the bluff and bathe are much more lively.

The Evils of Intemperance was the subject of a sermon by Rev. Dr. C. C. Bitting at Franklin Square Baptist Church yesterday morning. He said that a number of members of the congregation had sent a written request that he would preach on this topic, which came within the province of discussion in the pulpit, and he was a matter for the prayers of every Christian assembly. "I will not," said Dr. Bitting, "discuss what is temperance and what intemperance, but propose to speak without quibbling of what I know to be a great evil. Intemperance, define it as you will, is a deep, dark, damning, bitter sin.

"The evils of intemperance present themselves in four classifications, namely: Physical, social, moral and spiritual. We must approach its victims kindly. Infinitely speaking, I mean by intemperance the abnormal or wrong use of intoxicating beverages. No man can habitually use intoxicating and especially distilled spirits as a beverage without physical suffering. Physicians may prescribe it in sickness—that is their business, not mine—and I have no reproach to use against that noble band and army of benefactors of men. If used it should be because it is needed as any other medicine, and any other use is detrimental. I have a friend living to-day who was the brightest intellect in my class of fifty students at college. He came just down to a drunkard's grave, but is now a Christian man, and I hope a restored one, though no man is safe during life who has ever been a victim. But he is driveling in intellect. The ambition of mind and heart has been enslaved by the habit of intemperance. I suspect each one present has one such in the circle of their family or friends.

"Liquor enervates and clouds the brain and wilts the mind. It will take the heart and sap the soul out of the noblest intellect that God ever put on the throne of the mind. Ask of the physicians in hospitals the cause of disease. Go to the almshouses and find what puts their occupants there. Diseases of the most loathsome kind, indescribable here, frequently accompany the use of intoxicating, especially of distilled beverages. Let us look at the social evils. If I sought your acquaintance, became connected with you and found you addicted to intemperance I would injure you as well as myself.—Just to the extent that I permit by my example such aspersions on the Church of Jesus Christ I am a weight and an injury. See the injury to the family.

"I could take you to houses where in tattered raiment children grow up in ignorance amid free schools. Children with weak bodies, soft muscles, by a father's crime made feeble and prepared for disease and pestilence. Better, rather, God let one die before such injury be inflicted on any household of mine. There is a woman who would be with us to-day but for years she has had only one garment to wear, except in winter, because of the drunken husband. Such a fault can be called by no name but crime? You do not go where such things are or you would not wonder that sometimes there is a call for eternal warfare, some deadly internecine strife against it from those whose hearts have bled. It is a tax on business, increases house rent, raises the business license, is a mark on every coat or dress you wear. I found in every pound of any commodity my use. A man said to me in Philadelphia yesterday that in the district where he lives $80,000 was paid yearly for intoxication. Men spend more money on this intoxicating beverage than any goddess ever had heart in the land, pay for every school, for the salaries of every minister and missionary and leave a surplus over. It is that much capital of the nation utterly lost, gone, sunk every year. The Scripture says "no drunkard hath eternal life."

"Look at the crime caused. The men executed in Pennsylvania a few days ago could not have been urged to murder, terrible as their oaths were, until they were thoroughly under the influence of intoxicating liquor. Ninety-six-tenths of men in jails and almshouses say liquor sent them there. I do not say that drunkenness makes crime. It is there in the heart, but intemperance helps to bring it out. Crime is in the man and not in the barrel, but that is an accessory before the fact every time. All taking men admit this. I have vowed long ago, so far as I am concerned, putting politics aside, never to vote for any man who habitually allows himself to be under the influence of intoxicating beverages. I could not trust him. Very many of the laws are inoperative in this respect. The law should enact a penalty for the man who uses as well as who sells intoxicating liquors.

"It is a crime in law to prescribe a penalty for the female inhabitants of brothels and let the males go free. To the ladies present on temperance I need not dilate, for of these every Christian can judge. I do not speak in enmity, for I have gone out at hours of the night when nearly all were asleep seeking for the poor victims of intemperance, wandering all night from home, when none but my wife was aware of it, and laid them on my bed until they became restored to reason. So I am no enemy to the man, but I do say that unless he repents and swears to make no more and resist the foe I can never hold him in fellowship.

"Intemperance is a mark so clearly drawn that no Christian Church can hesitate about it. I would appeal to all who are victims of intemperance to stop, for there is only safety unless a check is put on it. Do not make a parade. Do not call out the drums, but go home quietly, and taking your wife and children seek some upper room. Tell them your sin, and that you want their help to pray to God. Many have been saved, and I could here point to cases which have become wonderful cures. God's grace can do it, but I have little faith in individual resolutions. I had a friend who resolved again and again as honestly as his rugged heart could do, and yet it was only when he went to go to God and cast himself on His help, and succeeded. He is dead now, but died in the faith of God and with the battle fought and won.

"Intemperance goes coupled with licentiousness and with the train of murder, deadly, loathsome and unpregnant crimes. Whether it is a sin to take a glass of wine I do not care to discuss, but no man is ever wrong who goes as far as possible from danger, and every man is in danger who approaches it. I want to say a word of sympathy for the intemperate, and whoever says of you can say a timely word in kindness do it. I would go anywhere and do the most ambiguous thing in the eyes of the world if it would keep another from sin and save a brand from the burning.

"Don't wait for organizations but do it as individuals. It is a slander to say that the Christian churches are not doing anything against intemperance, for they are. Only let us do more. It is a vitally important and vitally practical thing this evil which destroys the soul as well as the body. God help you, any of you, if you are struggling under it, and God help you to help others."

The church was well filled during the delivery of the sermon, which was attentively listened to. Quite a large number of young men were present.

Bay Steamer Trials of Speed.—The new steamer Carolina, built at Wilmington, Del., for the Baltimore Steam Packet Company, arrived at Union dock, Baltimore, at 6 o'clock Saturday morning, from Norfolk, 15 minutes ahead of the steamer Florida, of same line, which she had a trial of speed up the bay. The two steamers left Fort Monroe at 7.30 P. M., Friday, and off Thimble Light, near the Capes, they drew up and at a signal started together, each carrying 30 pounds of steam. The race was continued until Smith's Point, 60 or 70 miles up the bay, was reached, the Florida hugging the Carolina very close all the way. Off Smith's Point the steamers again drew up, steam was increased to 40 pounds, and the signal was given for each to do the best she could. The Florida gradually dropped behind, and the Carolina reached Union dock the winner by 15 minutes in a chase of 80 miles. Both boats carried an equal amount of freight, and the race was conducted to be perfectly fair. The contract with the builders stipulated for three or more trial trips, in conjunction with the Florida, but Mr. John M. Robinson, president of the Steam Packet Company, who came up on the Carolina, was satisfied with her performance on the first trip, and she was accepted from her builders. Mr. Robinson telegraphed to the Harlan & Hollingsworth Company, Wilmington, as follows:

"I congratulate your firm for having built the fastest steamboat that has ever run on the Chesapeake bay."

Captain W. Thompson and a crew in the employ of the builders brought the Carolina to Baltimore. J. J. Gause and Captain Benson, of the Harlan & Hollingsworth Company, Mr. Robinson and Captain Lawson, of the Steam Packet Company, and others, were on board. Captain Hill commanded the Florida, which steamer had Captain Smith, superintendent, and Mr. Walter Ball, treasurer, of the packet company on board. The Carolina was taken to Skinner's shipyard and will be fitted for passenger use in a similar manner to the Florida, which she is very much like. She will be ready for service about the 23d instant, and will be commanded by Captain Hill. The Florida will take the place of the steamer George Leary, with Captain Whittle in charge.

Hotel Arrivals.—Among arrivals at hotels in Baltimore yesterday were the following:

Barnum's—J. B. Davis, Thomas G. Jackson, Richmond, Va.; D. J. De Camp, Cincinnati, O.; B. W. Crump, wife and daughter, Va.

Kennard's—A. P. Kennard, N. Y.; James C. Lynn and John G. Bauer, Cumberland, Md.; A. B. Tucker, Buffalo, N. Y.

Guy's—Dr. P. Chapman, Charles county, Md.; J. S. Chapman, Perrymansville, Md.; H. C. Reynolds, Augusta, Ga.; A. J. Brandon and lady, Richmond, Va.

Howard House—T. Chase, Baltimore county, Md.; Frank M. Morris, Indianapolis; W. L. Shaffer, Washington county, Md.; Geo. W. Larrabee, West Va.

Ford's Eutaw—D. A. Loughone, Richmond, Va.; S. H. Hanks, New York; George B. Kreh, Frederick, Md.; E. S. Morris, Martinsburg, West Virginia.

Health of the City.—There were 221 deaths in Baltimore for the week ending Saturday, July 14, 51 cases being from cholera infantum. The previous week 259 deaths occurred, of which 100 were from cholera infantum. In 1876, for the week ending July 9, there were 233 deaths, and for the week ending July 16, 303 deaths. There were fourteen deaths from heat on Monday, July 10, 1876.

The Baltimore Custom-House Controversy.—The publication of ex-President Grant's letter by The Sun of Saturday in regard to the collectorship issue in Baltimore created some commotion among republicans. This letter (dated at Beaufort Gardens, London, June 29,) was in reply to a cablegram from Mr. Washington Booth inquiring if Gen. Grant ever told Mr. Fulton that he would ask Mr. Booth's resignation and appoint J. L. Thomas to the collectorship. Gen. Grant writes emphatically: "If Mr. Fulton has said that I made the above statement he has produced a false impression." Mr. Fulton went to the custom-house during Saturday morning and had an interview with Collector Thomas, after which "a statement," signed by Mr. Fulton, and a letter written by ex-Postmaster General Jewell, were given to the afternoon press from the custom-house for publication.

The letter of Mr. Jewell bears date July 12, and is in answer to one from Mr. Fulton, dated July 6, indicating that it had been anticipated in order to meet with documentary evidence on this side General Grant's expected "reply by mail," supplementing his cable message of "misrepresentation," and thus keep up the question as to veracity, which on his part Gen. Grant fully appreciated. The whole matter, however, is of very little consequence to the public except as throwing light on the issue as to whether Gen. Grant (as stated in Mr. Fulton's now notorious letter to President Hayes) had "of his own volition assured Mr. Fulton that he would ask Mr. Booth to resign and appoint Mr. Thomas, admitting that he had done the latter great injustice and was desirous of undoing it." Everything in Gen. Grant's "letter by mail" shows that he does not indorse or receive as correct such a statement as being the facts of the case.

Mr. Fulton's latest statement is as follows:

Baltimore, July 10, 1877.—In the early part of May, 1876, I visited President Grant on account of the denial of my name to the senate as the officers of the customs by Deputy Collector Reese, who was acting collector during the illness of Collector Booth. These parties had been dismissed, it was generally understood, because they had taken part—in opposition to the effort being made to secure Collector Booth's and other federal officials as delegates to the Cincinnati National Convention. I complained to the President of the conduct of Deputy Collector Reese, when the President informed me that he communicated with Collector Booth on the subject, and that he had assumed the whole responsibility of these removals. The President remarked that he did not approve of these removals, and I then told him that I thought Mr. Booth would sign if he was not aware of the fact that he was reported to be very ill, and it was understood did not care to retain the position. Great injustice had been done Mr. Thomas. The President also, at the same interview, agreed to appoint C. Irving Ditty, Esq., a United States marshal, whom I had with me, and who Mr. Ditty was, "he is just the man I want."

I clearly understood the President to mean that he would appoint Mr. Thomas if Mr. Booth should agree to resign. So told Mr. Thomas, who shortly afterwards had an interview with the President. The President replied he would write to him, and made a note of his intention upon a card. As to his successor, in case he should resign, I made no allusion. The President, however, remarked that he had made a mistake at the time Mr. Thomas was removed, and desired to remedy it before the close of his administration. I assured the President that I was pleased to hear him say so, as I thought that when he said he was uncertain whether Mr. Booth would resign, and tendered him the Baltimore postoffice. This Mr. Thomas declined, and the President subsequently ordered his appointment as surveyor of the port of Baltimore, saying that he wanted the collectorship for his personal vindication. Mr. Booth showed me this order in the President's writing. Afterwards, when Mr. Booth resigned, the President refused to appoint Mr. Thomas.

C. C. FULTON.

Mr. Jewell's letter is as follows:

Office of Jewell & Sons, Hartford, Conn., July 12, 1877.—C. C. Fulton, Baltimore, Md.—Dear Sir: Yours of the 6th is at hand, and is noted. I cannot tell when it was, but on one of your visits to President Grant he did say that if Mr. Booth was inclined to resign he thought of appointing Mr. Thomas, as you had called upon him and explained the hardship of the latter's ejection from the office, and thereby his appointment would promote harmony. He said, however, at the same time, that he would not turn Mr. Booth out for that or any other purpose. This is my clear recollection of the conversation, as I inferred from what he said that he had given you to understand that if a change was made Mr. Thomas would get the place.

MARSHALL JEWELL.

Accidents.—Wm. Smith, 13 years old, fell from a tree at the viaduct, on the Baltimore and Ohio railroad, yesterday afternoon, striking upon a rock in the bed of Gwinn's falls, a twenty-five feet below. He received a severe cut on the head, back of the right ear and other severe injuries, though no bones were broken. He was removed to his father's home, No. 85 South Gilmor street, where he is under medical attendance. The boy was climbing the trees in play with a number of others when the accident occurred.

Christopher Henshaw, No. 188 South Sharp street, jumped from a car of the citizens' line, on Light street, near Patterson avenue, and fell violently to the pavement and was badly cut over the left eye.

A child one year old of Margaret Matthews, colored, was badly bruised about the head by falling from the second story of her house, No. 71 Oxford street.

James Gallagher, employed at the Guapowder water works, was found by Dr. P. C. Dausch Saturday night lying on the Harford road, near the toll gate, with a painful injury to his right leg, a contusion having passed into it. Dr. Dausch dressed his wound and gave him in charge of fellow-workmen.

Henry Simpson, of Elkton, Cecil county, was overcome by the heat yesterday while at work on the tracks of the Philadelphia, Wilmington and Baltimore Railroad on Boston street. He was attended by a physician and will recover.

Mrs. Mary Wall fell while crossing the curb-stone at Cross-street market Saturday night and cut a severe gash in her forehead. The wound was dressed and she was taken to the house of her husband, T. P. Wall, No. 218 Battery avenue.

Simon Row, 12 years old, No. 72 South Broadway, was slightly bitten by a small dog in the left leg near the ankle, yesterday, corner Thames street and Broadway. The wound was cauterized and the dog was killed.

Ida Dolan, 12 years of age, from Accomac county, Va., fell into the basin at Pratt street, near Light street, on Saturday while going on board the pungy United. She was rescued by Capt. Crouch, of the vessel.

Popular Recreations in the Parks.—Druid Hill Park was thronged with people yesterday. In the afternoon many hundreds rode out in the street cars, and the park pavilion, which is a great public convenience, were in much requisition. For Sunday there was an unusual number of carriages, nearly all of them belonging to unpretending people, and filled with family parties. A light breeze was stirring, and the grounds were remarkably shady, especially in the neighborhood of the large lake, over which the moist, cool air came straight from the bay. One drawback to enjoyment was the dusty drives, which do not seem to be sprinkled on Sunday, when the most people ride out, and, moreover, when the great body of the people find it convenient to get their share of the park. On other days, when the fashionables most do congregate, the drives seem to be well watered. A good feature of the park administration is the Maryland building, which is open on Sundays. This admirable addition to Druid Hill has the beginning of a museum. Some of the birds of Maryland and fishes of our waters are exhibited, and the display is fairly attractive.

If the whole of the fine museum of the Maryland Academy of Sciences could be exhibited in the building it would have a thousand people to see its specimens where one sees them now. The Maryland building as re-erected is a great credit to the energetic and public spirited members of the park commission who did the work of getting it here. Last week 24,367 foot and horse-car passengers visited Druid Hill, besides 6,727 double teams, 3,576 single teams, and 363 on horseback. On Sundays, during the summer season, five to eight thousand people frequent the grounds, going out in the cars, on foot and on foot. Patterson Park is even more popularly visited on Sundays. The flower beds are now in full bloom, and comprise one of the great attractions of this delightful spot, where the breeze from the water is usually always fresh and cool, and the ships may be seen coming in and going out.

Baltimore Liederkranz at Cape May.—The great event of the season at Cape May this year promises to be the grand musical festival of the Baltimore Liederkranz, which is booked for the 30th inst., and will continue to July 4 and beginning of August under the direction of Mr. J. H. Rosewald, Mr. Frank Mittler, pianist. Mrs. Julia Rosewald will be among the soloists. The names of the ladies and gentlemen of the Liederkranz who will participate in the concerts are as follows:

Katie Benner, Anna Buschman, Franziska Heinzerling, Mary Herman, Loila Herman, Lizzie Kruger, Dora Kruger, Virginia Brandau, Emma Blunk, Anna Weber, Clara Moser, Sophia Moser, Clara Kresse, Matilda Kummer, Henrietta Rudolph, Pauline Rudolph, Julia Rudolph, Helene Becker, Franziska Lauder, Charlotte Steinmuller, Marie Steinmuller, Mathilda Muller, Emma Klein, Bertha Weinreich, Sarah Schloss, Henrietta Fuld, P. Metzer, Emilie Bieby, Miss Schmidt, Miss Kiel, Louise Grosse, Emma Sauer, A. Auer, L. Aull, J. Bitter, Wm. Boehme, Geo. Briel, H. Bucking, F. Dauterich, F. Dukehart, Chas. Frohwitter, John Filz, Henry Guerth, Jacob Heiss, Wm. Jacobs, Chris. Kolb, Jacob Wm. Kolb, Jacob Kolb, Jr., Wm. Kolb, L. Lachenmayer, Edward Lachenmayer, Wm. Ludloff, Wm. Mueller, G. Mentzel, F. Meiss, Chas. Mattfeldt, Phil. Offner, Chas. Pfeiffer, F. Rosendorn, Jos. Raiber, Edward Reuter, W. R. Schmidt, John Schoman, H. Schlarb, Chris. Schmidt, Aug. Steman, Stephen Steinmueller, John Schurchman, Aaron Strasburger, Chas. A. Wagner, L. Warkmeister, Adolph Wolf, Paul Weissenborn, E. V. Zirkel, John Hemmeter, M. Mergenthaler.

The orchestra will comprise eleven musicians from Baltimore, combined with twenty already at the seaside.

Fire on North Howard Street.—Saturday morning, shortly after 10 o'clock, the roofs of houses Nos. 84 and 86 North Howard street took fire from a defective flue. An alarm was sounded from box 72. The fire was confined to the roofs, and was put out after small damage had been done. The building, owned by John E. Eschbach, is insured in the National Company. No. 84 is occupied by Dr. Joseph A. Eschbach as a drug store, but he did not sustain any damage Mrs. Coleman, who occupies the upper portion of No. 86 as a dwelling, sustained a small damage by water. Several large furniture establishments are in the neighborhood, and it was feared at one time that the fire gutta headway a serious conflagration would ensue.

Four Policemen of the southern district, who were before the police board last week on charges of misconduct while on an excursion, were fully exonerated on Friday. Marshal Gray states that the men were on leave, wore citizens' dress, and two were accompanied by their families. There was some disorder on the boat, and the agent of the line was told by persons who did not know the policemen that the latter caused the trouble. The agent who reported the officers to the board exculpated them at the examination, as also did other persons summoned as witnesses.

Fatal Fall From a Hay Loft.—John Pearsall, sixty-five years old, supposed to have been a tramp, hailing from Hartford, Conn., was killed Friday night by a fall from a hay loft at the old stables of the York road railway, on Boundary avenue, at the city limits. The stables are in process of demolition, and have proved convenient sleeping apartments for men without local habitations, and Pearsall, with a companion named Ezra Bowen, had been occupying them for several nights past. The two men came to the stables late Friday night, and Pearsall, while in the act of shutting a door in the hay loft before lying down, made a misstep and fell through the flooring to the ground, a distance of ten feet. Bowen, calling two other men about the stables, went to the assistance of Pearsall, who objected to their aid and said he had only slightly injured his wrist. The men left him to himself and went to sleep. Saturday morning they found him lying in the same place dead. Justice P. L. Moore, of Waverly, summoned a jury of inquest, who rendered a verdict of "accidental death" in accordance with the facts given. A wound was found on the right temple, and concussion of the brain had probably resulted, causing death. The body was taken in charge by Constable John H. Fisher and buried at the cemetery of St. John's P. E. Church, Waverly, at the expense of the Baltimore county authorities. Nothing of value was found on Pearsall's person. He had no appearance of a laboring man out of employment rather than that of a professional tramp. He is believed to have relatives at Hartford.

The Canmakers' movement for increased wages continues, with no change in the aspect of affairs, and without any communication having passed between the employers and employés. Meetings were held at Rechabite Hall Saturday, and will continue the present week. The journeymen claim that the number of strikers has increased to 750 men, though a large number of them do not attend the meetings. They ask for 45 and 50 cents per hundred for round cans, the only kind used for fruit packing. They have been receiving 35 and 40 cents.

It is stated that eight or ten houses which have previously only handled oysters have this season engaged in fruit packing, and that on account of the increase of this industry as well as on general principles their wages should be higher. The bosses claim that the increased competition has put the supply over the demand, and that they cannot afford higher wages. The packing of berries, peas, &c., has now about closed for the season, and there is a partial interim in the business till about the first of August, when peach packing begins, so that the trade is not very lively at present. The striking canmakers are undemonstrative and their meetings are marked with a degree of moderation, although their determination seems firm to hold out till some amicable and satisfactory scale of prices is fixed.

Going to the Springs.—In these hard times a great many people content themselves with the attractions of the numerous summer resorts, bayside retreats and ocean baths near home instead of going further, paying more and farms worse, as is too often the case in the search of health and recreation. In view of this fact the owners of the summer resorts within easy reach of Baltimore would do well to call the attention of the public to their respective claims for favor. Many of these places are very attractive, and the best method of conducting district associations were discussed by B. C. Reed, D. P. Barnett, Wm. Griffith, R. C. McGinn, G. George, P. Morris and others. Readings were given by Jackson Duncan, Mrs. Mary Miller and Mrs. Brown; essays by Mr. Blair, W. S. Smith and a paper on history by Miss Anna Cullington. An address was made by Colonel Jenifer, a member of the Baltimore school board. Mr. Bruff spoke of the result of his visits through the county, and complimented the teachers on the high standing of the several schools. Hereafter, he said, the examinations for promotions in the county schools would be conducted in writing, as in Baltimore city schools. The committee appointed to secure a suitable monument to be erected at London Town in respect to the memory of Dr. Kepler, late examiner, will purchase the monument next week, a sufficient amount of funds having been secured to warrant such action.

Mail Robbery Case.—Cranston O. Newnam, charged with robbing the United States mail, on Saturday last, between Baltimore and Patterson park, was by Marshal J. C. Lynn, of Cumberland, and lodged in Baltimore city jail, having been committed in default of bail by U. S. Commissioner Hoffman. Mail matter had been missed on the Cumberland and Pennsylvania railroad, and the two decoy letters containing money were mailed and failed to reach their destination. Newman, who is the son of Chas. F. Newnam, mail route agent on the Cumberland and Pennsylvania railroad, could have had been employed temporarily by his father's place during sickness, was suspected, and on arrest the letters were found in his possession. He denied the charge at first, but afterwards confessed it. The Newnam family live at Westernport, Alleghany county, Maryland.

A Money Snatching Firm.—George Needham, colored, was arrested Saturday by Sergeant Flannery charged with stealing a pocket book and contents, valued at $10, from Miss Anna Poppleim, No. 486 Eutaw Place, and for stealing a pocket book containing $6 from Miss Rebecca Dixon, No. 400 Mosher street. Richard Dixon, colored, was committed on Friday for stealing the pocket book from Miss Strobeaver, and it was stated in The Sun that he had an accomplice, who turns out to be Needham. The pocket books were stolen while the owners were passing along Madison avenue. Needham and Dixon, it is alleged, operated together in this wise: Meeting a lady carrying a pocket book in her hand, one would knock it down to the pavement while the other would pick it up and run. Needham, it appears, secured both the pocket books mentioned.

Fatal Result.—Mr. Henry D. Gibson, who shot himself in the head with a pistol in Druid Hill Park last Monday afternoon, died at the Maryland University Hospital, Lombard and Greene streets, Saturday evening at six o'clock. The ball was embedded in the brain, and the physicians had no hope of his recovery. He was in an unconscious state during the five days that he survived the infliction of the wound. No inquest was deemed necessary. Dr. T. A. Ashby, resident physician, requested that a post mortem examination should be allowed on the case was one of peculiar interest to medical science, but objection was made by relatives, and the body was delivered to them for burial. Mr. Gibson was in the 51st year of his age.

Liability for Ground Rents.—A correspondent, a lady in the western section of the city, asks "if a person rents a dwelling house, and pays the rent for the same, and the owner of the house fails to pay the ground rent, can the furniture of the tenant be taken for the ground rent, and if it can what redress has the tenant, if any?" Movables, furniture, goods, &c., on the premises are always liable for ground rents. The redress of the tenant is to pay the ground rent and deduct the amount from the house rent. Cases of this kind are constantly occurring in Baltimore, where nearly every rented dwelling house has a ground rent foundation.

Petroleum Exports.—The exports of refined petroleum from Baltimore for foreign ports since the 1st of January, 1877, have been 18,066,303 gallons, against 19,136,319 gallons the same time last year, a decrease of only 1,070,016 gallons. For several months ago a comparison with the same time in 1876 showed a falling off of 3,000,000 gallons, and the decrease bid fair to reach 4,000,000 in a short time. Later, however, the receipts and exports increased heavily, and at present there are 22 vessels loading and chartered to load from this city, with a total of 100,000 barrels, or about 4,000,000 gallons.

A Pocket in a Shirt.—Baker Bates, a colored man, was arrested near Belt's wharf, Fell street, by Policeman Rochefort, Saturday, from his suspicious appearance of being either a runaway or having something concealed upon his person. When searched at the Eastern station Bates was found to have a cargo of ten pounds of rice hidden in a pocket in his "duck" shirt. The shirt was in fact double and had the capacity of a sack for the prisoner was committed for the grand jury by Justice Farlow on the charge of stealing the rice.

Free Summer Excursion.—The next free summer excursion will be given on Thursday on the steamer Petersburg, of the Bay line, which has been tendered for the purpose and fitted up to accommodate 1,200 persons comfortably. The boat will leave Eichelberger's wharf, corner of Light and Pratt streets, at 8 A. M. This excursion will be for mothers and nursing children, and the committee are anxious that physicians especially should send all the children suffering from cholera infantum that can go.

Water to be Shut Off.—Mr. James Curran, city water engineer, gives notice that the water will be shut off the middle service about six hours, commencing at 8 o'clock this evening, in order to connect water pipes at Bolton and Mosher alleys. The bounds to be shut off are from Boundary avenue on the north, west of Fremont to Ramsay street south. Calvert street north of Centre street east, Pennsylvania avenue and Greene street west.

THE SUN.

BALTIMORE, MONDAY, JULY 16, 1877.

TRUE WAY OF ADVERTISING.—Millions of dollars are annually thrown away in this country by business men in useless and illegitimate advertising. A member of our city council, in a recent argument in protecting the city against such advertising schemes, said he was once a merchant, and he advertised largely, finding it paid better than anything else to advertise in a newspaper everybody reads. The best business men know the value of advertising in such a paper—and such a paper is THE SUN.

Industrial Items.

The Pittsburg Commercial of the 10th says: "Reports from the Bullion oil region are still of a discouraging nature, more dry wells being developed and the production of others still diminishing. The production of the district is now about 4,000 barrels per diem, a reduction of 3,000 barrels from the highest point reached."

The New Orleans Times of the 8th says: "The good promise of the crops in this State, and their advanced condition, have led to a more cheerful feeling in the general markets. Everything seems to promise some activity in business."

The failure of Buttle & Leeds, straw goods manufacturers, New York, is announced. The liabilities of the concern are not exactly known as yet, but it is variously estimated that they will foot up to from $150,000 to $200,000.

Hog packing is conducted much more extensively in the West this year than last. From March 1 to date 1,836,000 hogs have been packed in the Western cities and towns, against 1,110,000 for the same period last year.

There are twelve thousand houses to let in Philadelphia, and a real estate dealer predicts that before cold weather sets in the number will be increased to fifteen thousand in consequence of the doubling up of families.

Owing to the critical condition of affairs produced by the war in Turkey the tax on sheep, which is one of the most important sources of the revenue of the Porte, has been doubled.

Nebraska people are in a happy frame of mind over the prospect of having larger crops than have ever before been harvested in that State.

New York receives annually $7,000,000 worth of eggs.

The exportation of American ingot copper to England is gradually increasing.

A cargo of asbestos has just been ordered from Atlanta, Ga., for a firm in Genoa.

Turtle canning is the principal industry at Rockport, Texas.

Middleborough, Mass., is shipping needles to Australia.

Western Texas is shipping bat guano to England.

Newbern, N. C., is to have a cotton factory.

Judge Pesrre has passed an order that the mayor and city council of Cumberland show cause on or before July 19 why a mandamus shall not issue to compel the council to order an election of councilman for the second ward to fill a vacancy.

A white man named Higgutt, in Caroline county, on the Fourth of July attacked Peter Kinnamon, colored, with an axe, nearly severing his right hand, and inflicting probably fatal wounds.

Joseph Barber, white, is in Charles county jail on a charge of bigamy, he having committed the unprecedented feat of marrying two colored women.

Eugene Digges has bought Frederick Stone's interest in the Port Tobacco Independent, and that paper will hereafter be published by J. S. Dunbar & Co.

John F. Gardiner died in Charles county recently. He had been a State Senator, judge of the Orphans' Court and county commissioner.

The unemployed mechanics of Cumberland held meetings last week to devise means to secure work.

D. M. Evans's barn and contents, in Garrett county, were burned Friday. Loss $1,500.

SUIT FOR A VALUABLE PROPERTY.—Colonel Boulden is about to begin a suit against the United States to obtain possession of Mare Island, Cal., now used by the government as a navy-yard. The plaintiff alleges that the title of the United States to the island, which was originally a Mexican grant, is unsound, and that he holds the only valid title. Judge Jeremiah Black and General Albert Pike will be Colonel Boulden's counsel.
