

Liber A. tyme as he or they haue taken oath of ffealty, vnto the Lo: Proprietary, and his Gou^r for the tyme being, during the tyme they remayne wthin the prouince: And that the sayd oath, shall not bee understood by him or them only for this present, but shall firmly bynd hym or them in futurity so often as he or they shall haue occation to come into the prouince: And that at any tyme when they come into the prouince they shall deliuer all such armes and amunition, as they bring wth them vnto the Commander off the ffortt: w^{ch} shalbe restored to them when they depart the prouince. And that the proclamation set forth the 8th of May last (by the late Gou^r Leonard Caluert Esq^r) touching the departure of any person out of the prouince wthout leaue: the entertaynement of any stranger; or houlding Comunication wth them, vntill they haue first byn at the fort of S^t Inegos &c: shall stand in full force and and Virtue vntill Christmas day next: And further these are straightly to prohibite and forbid all persons of this prouince what soeuer to giue any entertainment, or admitt into thire howses any of the persons aforesd: wthout first shewing a Certificate from my hand or the Capt: or Cōmander of the ffortt p^rsent there that they haue there taken oath of ffealty vnto his Lo^{ps} Vppon payne of such seuerer sensure as the Court shall adiudge such a Contempt to deserue. Giuen at the ffortt of S^t Inegos the 15th Septm^r 1647:

Tho: Green.

[Non-Exportation of Corn, &c.]

p. 98 Nouemb^r 8th

By the Leiften^t Gener^l

Whereas I am certainly informed, that Corne this p^rsent yeare is very much feared to be wanting, to supply the Inhabitants of this prouince. And that there is no great likelihood of any Considerable supply there of to com in ffrom abroad, but must wholly depend vppon it selfe, and that the export of any such corne is most p^riudiciall to the inhabitants thereof: These are therefore streightly to prohibite and fforbid any persons or persons whatsoever to carry or transport any corne out of the prouince, wthout leaue first obtayned from my selfe, Vppon the paine of such seuerer censure as the Prouinciall Court shall adiudge such offenders to deserue: Likewise for the benefitt and p^rservation of the increase of the stock of horses now wthin the prouince, much to the advantage of his Lo^{ps} Colony, and the safety of the Inhabitants of the Proū they being so vsefull both in peace and warr, and the sd stock being as yet very smale: I doe hereby streightly prohibite and forbid, any horses, mares, or foles to be transported out of the prouince, by any person or persons whatsoever vntill his Lo^{ps} pleasure