[J. Hollingsworth to 'Council.]

Baltimore October 8th 1776.

Sirs. The bearer Cap^t William Worth has come from Newengland to take charge of the schooner Dolley N:10 that was sunk at the alarm at Baltimore. There seems to be a Anker and Cabble missing. I have taken all the pains I am capable of to find them but cannot and Capt Nicholson has put a Vallew on such as hee sposed the ware for your consideration. These things ware sposed to bee takken care of by the people that sunk the vessels but wee cannot find them now, and many such complaints are made, the settlement of which must be left to you. He says their ware 2 gafs lost and has the carpenter bills for their cost and tho higher Whille sunk these things I make bold to mention at his request as hee has been with mee this 10 days to sarch for the things and pleading for a line to you stating his loses. It is strange what became of the ankers and cabbles but they cannot now be found. Can I sell any of your publick Bread. I think I could
