

Lib. R. ing soe to doe untill he had first legally demanded the Delivery of them, and did therefore now again make his Demand: Whereat the Empero<sup>r</sup> and his great men being at a stand without makeing any Reply his L<sup>spp</sup>: by his Interpreter desired them to goe apart by themselves and consider of what had been delivered to them, Which they refused to doe saying they knew nothing they had to consider off.

Whereupon his L<sup>spp</sup> did again by his Interpreter make Demand of the murd<sup>r</sup>ers to w<sup>ch</sup> they still say they know nothing and can therefore say nothing to that point.

His L<sup>spp</sup> was then pleased to tell them that he was willing to think that possibly they might not know of it, but that himself and his Councill were certainly confirmed in the truth thereof, and that there was yett another p<sup>r</sup>son concerned in the murd<sup>r</sup> whom his L<sup>spp</sup>: did expect they should deliver up if they intended to preserve peace and Amity with us

p. 63 W<sup>ch</sup> having paused upon and considered of for sometime they Desire to know who that other p<sup>r</sup>son was w<sup>ch</sup> we accused, to w<sup>ch</sup> answer was made them that it was Wassetaw whom we accused and Demanded to be delivered up.

They seeme much troubled and absolutely Denied any such thing with severall protestations affirming that he was noe waies concerned in the murder.

It was then Demanded of them that since they certainly knew & had soe positively affirmed that Wassetaw was none of the murderers, they would then declare who was the other p<sup>r</sup>son therein concerned. They answer they know not.

Was then given by his L<sup>spp</sup> in charge to the Chancelo<sup>r</sup> to tell them by the Interpreter that those two men (to say Azazams and Manahawton) w<sup>ch</sup> were now carried forth Wee did certainly know to be guilty of the murd<sup>r</sup> laid to their charge and therefore his L<sup>spp</sup> did Desire to know of them whither or noe they thought fitt we should p<sup>r</sup>ceed against them as against English men in the like case.

They say that his L<sup>spp</sup> had them now in custody & might doe as he thought good.

They were then given to und<sup>r</sup>stand that his L<sup>spp</sup> had not
