

Liber R.

In the upper house of Assembly
p John Llewelin Clk.

Nathan Barton of Stafford County in the Collony of Virginia gentl aged four and fourty yeares upon Oath taken on the holy Evangelists saith

That about a fortnight after Cap<sup>t</sup> ffendall was taken or thereabouts to his best Remembrance One Edward Holmes then a Souldier in Garrison in the said Collony of Virginia under the Command of Cap<sup>t</sup> Cooper haveing little before been at Majo<sup>r</sup> Gilsons house, told this Deponent that Samuel ffendall had been at Majo<sup>r</sup> Gilsons house, and his chiefe business was for Assistance to gett his Brother out of prison, and was intended to goe to Coll Spencers, but was rebuked by some of the Company then at said Gilsons house telling him that it was a foolish vain thing for him soe to doe, for he would certainly receive rather a check from Coll Spencer then any Assistance, whereupon the said ffendall desisted from his Designe, and returned for Maryland.

These or words to the same effect this Deponent heard from the s<sup>d</sup> Holmes at the garrison aforesaid. And further saith not.
