It is our Opinion, if the Horses are good and substantial and fit for the Draft, the Service they were purchased and intended for, they ought to be received, and the only proper Mode that occurs to us to determine it, in Cases where an Objection is made by the Quartermaster to receiving them, is to call on one or two Persons well Skilled in Horses to examine them and if he or they should be of Opinion they come up to the above Description, you ought to offer them to the Quartermaster and insist on his taking them, and, in Case of his obstinately refusing, you must put them out to Pasture and take Care of them, and send us a Report of what you do in Consequence of the above Directions. Those adjudged to be unfit for Service, by the Persons called in, are also to be pastured and taken Care of.
