The following mercantile accounts occupy the latter pages of the county court liber. Evidently the present record book was owned in 1648-1651 by some English merchant resident in the Netherlands. His mention of bills in bank seems to fix his location at Amsterdam, Middelburg, or Rotterdam, all of which cities had local banks in these years. The accounts are kept in Netherlands currency, in which 20 stivers are equal to a guilder or florin. English money is converted on the basis of 10 stivers to the English shilling, and 10 florins to the English pound. The name of the merchant does not appear in these accounts.
